

afford to do it. I was the most interested but least competent of the local botanists. I could think of but two at all likely to undertake the work, viz: Dr. Kellogg and Prof. Bolander. During the last three years I have frequently talked with the latter about it and he assured me that Kellogg would do nothing, but held out the hope that he would himself prepare a botany when his term of office as Dupt. of Schools should expire. Last December Bolander emigrated to Central America, and in sheer desperation I began the work of culling from the Report on California Botany all last year. If you have any advice to give I shall be glad to follow it.

I have delayed apologizing for attempting a local flora — which act was confessed by sending you a little book — because I have felt that the first word of any working botanist would be, "Presumption!!" I feel that I would rank as a very small Prof. Wood in your estimation, and I would prefer to be considered a small plant collector, ^{who loves} nature and wildness rather than cheap notoriety. I have each year over five hundred pupils studying botany — girls who, as a rule, that I thought would be useful to my classes. I did not confer with Dr. K. because he had expressed himself as much displeased with me on account of my sending plants to you instead of giving them to him for determination. I have since learned that he is assisting Dr. Gibbons in the preparation of a California Botany.

I am, therefore, sorry that I have undertaken the work, But, as it is, I shall do the best possible for my publishers.
I used the "Report" unhesitatingly, because any interest awakened by the use of the local work must increase the sale of its

Rattan, Volney. 1879. "Rattan, Volney Apr. 24, 1879." Asa Gray correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/224691>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/252484>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.