I am also responsible for the character of it

HERBARIUM OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY,

BOTANIC GARDEN, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

Oct. 19th 1889

Dear Prof. Underwood,

I am <sup>very</sup> sorry that this <sup>unexpected</sup> difficulty <sup>about nomenclature</sup> has arisen ~~unexpectedly to me~~ for this stage of the work. There has been nothing of the kind with the other collaborators in the revision. There must of course be uniformity throughout the book in respect to nomenclature in other things, and as it is still "Gray's Dictionary" I am the more obliged to to make it strictly conform to what I know would be the principles upon which Dr.
Gray himself would have <sup>made</sup> ~~him~~.

the revisions had been ordered, it is my endeavor also to keep it up to its former high standing in every respect. Nothing consequently has come in that has not been subject to my criticism & been more or less modified as seemed to me necessary, & with scarcely an exception my alterations have been approved & adopted by the contributors.

The same reasonable course of procedure must apply also to the Hesperian. The only alternative that I see is to omit them altogether, notwithstanding that much of the matter is already in type. I have read as yet only the first of the proofs which I send ~~you~~ herewith.

Watson, Sereno. 1889. "Watson, Sereno Oct. 19, 1889 [to Underwood] [draft]."
