

San Diego, Cal. May 18. 1880.

My Dear Dr. Gray:-

I was safely landed in San Diego some thirty hours since, after a tedious voyage of thirteen days from Cedros up.
The winds were strong against us. I had but three days on Cedros, and those at a most-unfavorable time of the year: too late for the spring vegetation and too early for that of the later year:
nevertheless, I bring fair specimens of some forty species from there.
From Guadalupe I have more than seventy species. The most fruitful single days collecting was at Cape S. Quentin, a hundred miles this side of Cedros. There I obtained about twenty species, more than half of which are

P. S. I go to Berkeley toward the end of the week.

new.

I send these lines to Cambridge for the reason that, from all I can gather it seems probable that you are there before now. I hope you have conquered that bad cold before this time.

I shall send you a set of my plants, not at once, yet before they are ready for actual distribution.

Do you know that I have never received anything but the proof sheets of your latest paper in which I was and am so much interested? The same is true - nay less than that - is true - of Mr. Watson's. I must not be left out, that way!

In great haste, Yours as ever

C. L. Greene.

Greene, Edward Lee. 1885. "Greene, Edward L. May 18, 1885." Edward Lee Greene letters to Asa Gray

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/225942>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/256105>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.