91 Marlboro Street. Boston

8 April. 1874.

Dear Sir

The North American Review ought to contain a notice of the life and works of Agassiz. The task is so difficult and delicate a one that it cannot be entrusted to an inferior hand, and I prefer not to have it undertaken if it is not to be properly done. Yet it furnishes so fine a field for good work that I am unwilling to leave it unattempted. You are the only critic I know, competent to deal with it in such a way as is required, and therefore I venture to make application to you. If you decline it, I fear I must leave the subject untouched.

Let me add that I should be very glad indeed to have anything else which you may feel disposed to give me for publication.

I am

Yr afft Servt.

Henry Adams.
