

Dear Mr. Deane:-

Urbana, 14 November, 1915

I should have made earlier reply to your letter and card, but have been very busy for a week or two. I think you are probably right about Polygonum tomentosum & var. As I recall it I had not yet seen your Rhod on article and note when I made the change. Later in the summer when I did see it I made a note to reexamine all the things we had called tomentosum or its var., but this I haven't yet had a chance to do. In the case of Aster macrophyllus Muhl. and I looked over the material of the vars. and thought them so poor that we have, in spite of variations, listed all our material as plain macrophyllus. If the var. be kept up yours is doubtless the var., but I simply meant to indicate that we have, for the name I have noted, listed it as the type. Solidago gram. v. hutchallii is, as you say, apparently a matter of degree. It seemed to us that yours was scabrous enough to be the var., which we had been calling most of our material from Ciss. Co. Prunella vulp. and var. lanceolata, if one looks over herb. material, don't in all cases seem so very distinct. The type is, however, apparently not a native and, on the whole, rather infrequent, it appeared, in the interior regions. I should have to refer to our cards, however, which we left in Cambridge, to recall just along what line we made our decision, as it has escaped me now. I find Oreoselin grandif. marked as my checklist (which I have here) "Se" which would mean that we found a spec. of it in your herb. - Commonly on spring to M.L.F. and happening to mention that I had thought of making a trip some down to the serpentine area about Thetford, Que. I learned from him that he had been there this summer and found it a profitable place to explore! Please give our regards to Mrs. Deane. Perhaps you may see my mother who is at 260 Commonwealth Avenue this winter. We have had a wonderfully clear and mild autumn. I had a pleasant canoe trip of 16 or 18 miles the other day on the Sangamon R. west of here. Will be writes, A.S.P.
