

Groton, Mass.

Jan. 14, 1906.

Dear Collins,

I have just discovered that you, Miss Clark, and I, are on the Committee of Arrangements for next summer's meeting of the Josselyn Society. Now it seems geographically impossible to have a full meeting of the com., so I am writing to you to gain for ideas. I shall probably go down to Providence the last of March, and I can fix up finalities with you then, but I think we ought to get some ideas first.

I had thought of the northern part of Oxford Co., say Bethel, as good new ground for exploration, not too inaccessible, and for time, July 3-6 inclusive. Mr. Fellows thought that a good region. Is there anything to be expected in Central Maine, say Pittsfield, or any other place near?

Write and tell me
what you think, and then we will try to decide.
It is very unlikely that I shall attend, as I am planning to work next summer, but I will try to fix up arrangements.
Have you any ideas as to program? One speaker, or at most, two, should suffice.

Most sincerely,

Clarence H. Knowlton

Knowlton, Clarence Hinckley. 1906. "Knowlton, Clarence H. Jan. 14, 1906."
James Franklin Collins correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/258528>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/275179>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Andrew W. Mellon Foundation

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.