

GRAY HERBARIUM OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY,

Alfred Cooke, M.A.
BOTANIC GARDEN, ~~CAMBRIDGE, MASS.~~

July 29, 1900

My dear Miss Day-

Thank you for sending your trouble. After writing you I discovered my own in my things, though I had carelessly overlooked it in a preliminary search. I am sorry that I made you so much trouble.

Pres. Brainerd writes that he has sent me at Cambridge a check-list marked with Vermont species. It is important that I see it as soon as possible. If it is delivered at the Herbarium will you kindly forward it.
If not will you please call at the post-office and ask for it. I failed to order my second class mail forwarded — or rather I thought it better to let it wait as I shall be so wandering in my movements for a time. I can't say definitely when I shall get to Cambridge early in August, as there are several regions which we wish to explore about here, so that a party of us will stay some days after the school term for special collections.

I am returning your novel as you will wish it on your trip. Thank you for the trouble you have taken. Sincerely yours Meritt L. Fernald.
