

Providence, 10 Feb. 08.

Dear Fernald:- I have a portrait of Joseph D. Hooker that I shall exhibit at the Darwin centennial here on Friday, along with one of Dr. Gray and others. I shall probably say a few words about each portrait, but I find almost nothing about J.D.H. in any available books.
I believe he is still living and that you visited him while in London.
Am I correct? If so can you give me a few facts ~~more~~ in regard to him before Friday?

Under the following:

Is he still living? If so, where.

What official positions at Kew or elsewhere with dates.

If you happen to know his views in regard to Darwin's theories so much the better.

I will bother too much about the matter as it is not necessary to say much.

Honestly

J.D.C.
