March 22, 1922.

Mr. Walter Deane,
29 Brewster Street,
Cambridge, Mass.

Dear Mr. Deane:

The seeds sent in by you which I am returning inclosed are those of Smilax, but I do not believe it is possible for anyone to tell what species they belong to from the material. A better guess as to the species can be made by someone familiar with the flora of the locality where the crow was collected.

There must be something in telepathy for I thought of you yesterday and upon so thinking sent you a copy of my latest botanical publication. It is of an antiquarian nature and I believe you will be interested in it. I have always wished that I might have occasion to work in Cambridge again but so far the opportunity has not arisen. However, I may make a trip to Maine sometime after July 1 in which case I shall try to stop at Cambridge.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,
