

1464 E. I. Ave.

Washington D.C.

Oct. 2, 1889.

My Dear Mr. Deane:- I am heartily ashamed of myself for boring you so, but it is almost a case of a drowning man catching at straws. Well, I give it up and shoulder my pack again.

You were very good to bother about Jacobinia. It was shrewd of Wittstein to leave it out.

We sympathize deeply with you in your trouble, and shall continue to hope for the best.

Most cordially and thankfully
Yours

(over) Lester F. Ward.

Thanks for permission to keep the book a little longer.
It will be very useful until our copy comes and I will try to take good care of it.
