

New York, November 24th 1851.

My dear friend.

Your note reached me on Saturday but too late to answer it that day - To day I have been so busy with calls & laboratory matters that I could not write in time for the mail.

It is my purpose to leave here on Wednesday afternoon, by the Fall River boat with Jane & Eliza. Mrs. Torrey would be very much pleased to go, but cannot just now bear the fatigue of travelling.
She is decidedly better than when we left Princeton, & I think it best for her to recruit still more ere she tries her strength. Madge improves slowly - but fear it would be a temptation to me her eyes too much were she to make you a visit. She fully appreciates your & Jane's kindness in giving her so cordial an invitation

I think you will have enough of us if Jane & Eliza accompany me

You say that you would expect us on Wednesday - Did you not mean Thursday morning? For I thought I had stated my intention of starting on Wednesday afternoon (after an early breakfast)
- of in that case, I could not reach Boston even by rail road until near midnight & then it would be too late to cross over to Cambridge until the next morning.
So we will take it early, be with you (DV) by the first conveyance after the cars arrive from Fall River

Your faithfully
Abel Loring

Monday noon.

we have delightful weather here). I pity you in that Pittsburgh climate. already it seems your streets are covered with snow! is in Adams' hands.

for an hour, after leaving the Army Office.
The course now lasts five months - & the proceeds, after deducting expenses, will this year, not be $1000. If I leave the College I can live some miles out of town - which I cannot do now, as it would be unpleasant (as in many directions, in hurricane) to travel at night - especially in the winter.

Capt. Pope is going out next January to the Llanostacado, with a party, to explore for water by digging in the sand, It is, I suppose, hardly worth while to ask him to collect plants. - He says that if we wish to defer our report till the end of February it will be in time - but we shall not need so much grace -

Parry has been appointed Prof. of Botany in a new college in Iowa. He sends me Sullivantia from that State! No news yet from Schott, or from Engelm's party.
