INTRODUCTION.

In issuing this work for the benefit of the breeders of Short-Horn Cattle, we believe we are supplying a book that has long been needed, especially by the younger breeders, or those not having the Herd Books at hand. Those conversant with Short-Horn pedigrees will readily understand the great amount of patient labor required in producing such a work. We have endeavored to make it as correct as possible, and believe we have succeeded—the typographical errors in the Herd Book rendering it quite difficult at times. Infallibility is not to be expected, however.

Those familiar with pedigrees may find crosses in this book that they think ought not to be here, and others not here that ought to be. To such we would say, do not judge too harshly until you are certain you are right. Many pedigrees in the earlier volumes of the Herd Book have been corrected in the later volumes, thereby changing the value of many pedigrees. For instance, Rover 931 (a bull quite extensively used), is not in. On examination of his pedigree, in Vol. II, we find he was sired by Selima 957. Selima's pedigree reads thus: "Bred by Col. Powell, Philadelphia; got by Emperor ———, out of Kate ———, both thoroughbred Short-Horns." Surely a very incomplete pedigree. But in Vol. XIV we find Selima corrected at number 20947, and it reads thus: "Bred by Col. Powell, Philadelphia, Pa.; got by Emperor 1511, out of Kate, by Raymond (1357); Martha, by Wye Comet (1591); Imported Laura, by Denton (198); Selina, by Wellington (687), by Danby (190)."

THE PATTON STOCK.

In 1783 Mr. Matthew Patton procured for use on his Virginia plantation a bull of the Long-Horned breed, imported from England by Mr. Gough, of Baltimore. In 1785 three of Mr. Patton's sons and his son-in-law, Mr. Gay, took several of the half-breed heifers—the get of this bull—with them to Jessamine county, Kentucky. In 1790 Matthew Patton himself moved to Clark county, Kentucky, taking with him several more half-blood calves of this same bull. These cattle were described as large and rangy, somewhat coarse, fattening slowly and late, but at maturity making excellent beef. Being well pleased with one cross of improved stock, Mr. Patton decided to try one more; and in 1795 bought of Mr. Miller, of Virginia, a bull and heifer of the Short-Horn breed (spoken of then as the Milk breed) named Mars 1850 (bred from Imported stock) and Venus. Mars is described as a deep red with white in the face, of good size, large bone, horns somewhat coarse. Venus was white with red ears, of fine form and good size, short horns turning downward. Venus produced but two calves—both bulls, by Mars—and then died. One of these calves went to Ohio, the other was retained in Kentucky, and with his sire, Mars, they made a marked improvement over the common stock. In 1803 a son and two sons-in-law of Mr. Patton sent to Mr. Miller, of Virginia, for another bull of the "Milk" (Short-Horn) breed, and got a two-year-old named Pluto, since recorded in the Herd Book as number 825, certified to be from Imported stock. He is described as dark red or roan, was quite large, with small head and neck, and light, short horns.

The calves from Pluto, out of cows sired by Mars and from the half-blood Long-Horns, were a superior class of cattle.

In 1812 Pluto went to Ohio, where he soon afterward died. In 1810 Capt. William Smith, of Fayette county, Kentucky, bought from the herd of Mr. Miller the bull Buz-zard 304 (3253), who was himself of mixed blood, being by a Short-Horn bull (the sire of Pluto), and out of a grade Long-Horn cow which had been purchased of Mr. Patton, Sr., before his removal to Kentucky. He is described as large and coarse, taller but not so heavy as Pluto. He proved to be no advantage to the stock of the country. The two Short-Horn crosses on bulls, procurable from the Pattons, furnished a better basis for breeders. "Inksip's Brindle," taken to Kentucky in 1813, was of like breeding to Buz-zard. In 1814 Mr. Daniel Harrison brought into the country a pair of "Pied red and white," rather small, light-fleshed, raw-boned animals which were not much used. In the same year Hutchcraft and Wilton bought from the Shakers, of Kentucky, the bull Shaker 2193, which had come from Mr. Miller's herd, and was doubtless a thoroughbred Short-Horn.

From this stock has descended what is known as the Patton Stock.

THE COX IMPORTATION.

In 1816 Mr. Cox, an Englishman, imported into Rensselaer county, near Albany, N. Y., a Short-Horn bull and two cows. They had no recorded pedigrees. They were put upon the farm of Mr. Colden, and there bred for several years. Mr. Bullock, of Albany county, afterward purchased some of this stock, which was locally termed the "Bullock Stock." Many pedigrees in the American Herd Book end in "of the Cox, Colden, and Bullock stock," or "The Cox Importation."

THE SEVENTEENS.

The question is often asked, "What are the 'Seventeens?'" and "Why such a prejudice against them?" That there is a prejudice against them, whether imaginary or real, no one will deny. Almost the first thing a new beginner learns is, that he must not buy Seventeens, or animals with pedigrees containing blood of that importation, and when asked why not, many can only answer, "They are not fashionable."

When we consider that some of the finest show cattle on the continent are "Seventeens" it seems this prejudice is only a fanciful one, and surely is, when viewed in a practical light. If the Short-Horns of the Seventeen Importation had all been kept pure, and some of their descendants not been bred to bulls of other breeds or mixed blood, we doubt whether this prejudice would ever have existed.

In 1817 Col. Lewis Sanders, of Kentucky, imported twelve head of cattle—eight Short-Horns—four bulls and four heifers; four Long-Horns—two bulls and two heifers. The Short-Horns had no pedigrees, as that was five years before there was such a thing as a Herd Book; but they were represented as pure and without a blemish of outside blood in their compositions, as true Short-Horns from near the River Tees, the ancient home of the race. The Short-Horn bulls were: San Martin (2599), Tecumseh (5409), Comet 1382. The fourth one appears not to have been recorded in either the English or American Herd Books, and nothing is further known of him. The Short-Horn heifers were: Mrs. Motte, the Durham Cow, and the Teeswater Cow. The fourth one died before reaching Kentucky. Of the Long-Horn bulls, one was called Bright and the other Rising Sun, and recorded in the English Short-Horn Herd Book as number (6386). The cows were called: "The Long-Horned Cow" and Georgia Ann. Mr. Warfield, in his history of the Kentucky Short-Horns, published in the "Breeders' Gazette" of April 27th, 1882, says: "After landing at Baltimore they were sent into the country to await Mr. Sanders' orders, and were there joined by a pair of Herefords, imported by Henry Clay, the bull of which is recorded in the English Short-Horn Herd Book as number (3711). With them, they made the journey to Kentucky. Mr. Sanders had, in the meantime, failed in business, and before the arrival of the stock had sold one-third interest in them to Capt. Smith, one-third to Dr. Tegarden, and subsequently the remaining third to James Munday. Capt. Smith shortly afterward died. Dr. Tegarden moved to the southern part of the State, and the consequence was the stock was almost immediately scattered into numerous hands. The original Short-Horn cows produced at least twenty-six calves—all from Short-Horn bulls, except Pink, who was one-half Long-Horn. In the meantime, the Hereford and the Long-Horn cows were being carefully bred also, and various crosses between the three races were being tested. Examples of the various crosses have, in their descendants, found permanent record in the American Herd Book. The choice cows of the old cattle of the country—the Patton stock—already showing from one to three improved crosses, were also bred to the new bulls." Thus, it will be seen, the Short-Horns were not all kept pure, and those that were, being of the same importation and in bad company, soon had a bad name.

THE DUN IMPORTATION.

In 1833 Mr. Walter Dun, of Kentucky, imported several Short-Horns from England; among them were the cows Red Rose, by Ernesty; Caroline, by Dashwood; and Daisy, by Wild. The sires of these cows—Ernesty, Dashwood and Wild—had no numbers in the English Herd Book, but were, no doubt, well-bred bulls. They have since been recorded, under a certificate, in the American Herd Book as Ernesty 10017, Dashwood 9731, and Wild 11134. The above families are considered unfashionable by a few of our breeders, simply because their descendants have been crossed on some other families of a higher character; otherwise, we doubt if there ever would have been a prejudice against them. Some of the most noted show animals in America are descendants of these cows. We believe there has never been three cows imported that have been of as much benefit to the Short-Horn interest of America as Red Rose, Caroline and Daisy.

EXPLANATION.

P S means Patton Stock ; COX, the Cox Importation ; M, Mrs. Motte ; T, the Teeswater Cow ; D, the Durham Cow (of the Seventeen Importation) ; K Y I, Kentucky Importation, many animals tracing to a cross of or ending in " Tracing to the Kentucky Importation," meaning the importation of 1817 ; DAISY, Daisy by Wild ; C, Caroline ; R R, Red Rose, of the Dun Importation. Where animals are marked as tracing to one of the last three named cows, they contain no other unfashionable blood than that of the Dun Importation. L R, Lost Record, many pedigrees ending in " From the Imported Stock of Mr. —," without showing a direct descent from the Imported animals ; WOODS, animals supposed to not trace to any Importation. Animals with — after the name means that there is a trace of such blood in the pedigree of that animal. For example, 231 Barmpton —M (although a direct descendant of Imported Clarksville by Lottery), the grand-sire of his sire is a Mrs. Motte ; and those without — are a direct descendant of such animal, thus : 236 Broomdale M, descends from Mrs. Motte on the Dam's side. Numbers in parenthesis refer to the English Herd Book ; open, to the American Herd Book, thus : Nicholas 115 (6248) is recorded in both Herd Books.
