INTRODUCTORY OBSERVATIONS.

The following Catalogue of Fruit and Hardy Ornamental Trees, Shrubs, &c. is now submitted to the public.

The selections of Fruit, &c, and the inoculations, have ever been a work of the strictest personal attention and care. A considerable proportion of the buds are taken from bearing trees; and no trouble, and no very inconsiderable expense has been spared, in obtaining the finest varieties of fruit, not only from those distinguished patrons of Horticulture near, but from the more distant and remote sources.

The old establishment which is near, and adjoining to this, and is still progressively increasing, and is now without doubt the oldest of note in New England, was commenced about thirtyfive years since, by the elder Kenrick; at first, with no other motive than the improvement and ornament of a portion of his own lands; and it may be here remarked, that while some similar establishments have since arisen, and have lived their day, these have been sustained with increasing reputation and patronage;—having ever been conducted on those undeviating principles of accuracy, of honor, and of rectitude, which can alone insure success and confidence.

The different varieties of fruit trees, &c, are cultivated generally, in a relative proportion to their known merits. It must be obvious, therefore, that those who order trees, had better, in some certain cases, leave the selections in part, discretionary; relying that then the most approved sorts will only be sent.

The location of this Nursery is one mile and a half due west of Brighton meetinghouse, and very near the great western road, and but six and a quarter miles from State-street in Boston.

The trees, &c, are always duly labelled, and when destined to a distant place, are carefully packed in moss or clay, and mats; and delivered wherever ordered in Boston, free of any charge for transportation.

Written orders addressed to WILLIAM KENRICK, NEWTON, will be regularly received by the daily mail, and will receive prompt attention; or they may be forwarded to J. B. Russell, Esq. at the New England Farmer Office and Seed Store, No. 52 North Market-street, Boston, who is Agent, and where Catalogues may be obtained on application, gratis.

Catalogues may also be obtained of any of the distant Agents, on application.
