THE NEW EARLY BLACK GRAPE.

EARLY OHIO,

10 Days Earlier than Moore's Early, 3 times as Productive.

EARLY OHIO GRAPE.

In introducing this new candidate for public favor, we are well aware that the list of grapes is already too large and that many worthless (or nearly worthless) varieties are constantly being added to it. After fruiting the Early Ohio for five years however, we are firmly convinced that it is a valuable acquisition and possesses several points of decided merit not possessed by any other variety, and we are confident that it will win for itself unbounded popularity as a profitable market sort and prove a desirable addition to amateur collections.

Briefly its points of merit are EXTREME EARLINESS, HARDINESS and PRODUCTIVENESS and it is of much BETTER QUALITY than most early grapes,

What Others Say of It.

A NEW EARLY GRAPE.

Several years ago Mr. R. A. Hunt, of Euclid, O., discovered ten or twelve chance seedling grapevines growing in his vineyard, among Concords and Delawares. He took them up and set them out, and when they came into bearing, one of them proved to be very early and of excellent quality. He began propagating it, and for five or six years past has sold these grapes in the Cleveland market, ahead of all others, and hence, realizing the highest prices. Last week, on August 18th, we visited Mr. Hunt and saw one lot of these vines in bearing. They were $2\frac{1}{2}$ years old, and hung full of large, compact bunches, ready for picking and marketing. Mr. Hunt's rule for picking grapes for market is to wait until he can eat the second bunch. Judged by this rule, these grapes were ready for market, for we ate two bunches with relish, and could have eaten more.

The berry is black, one size smaller than Concord, firm in texture, of a spicy, pleasant flavor, and hang to the stem with a persistency that makes its shipping qualities of the highest order. The vine is thrifty, a strong, rapid grower, fully as much so as the Concord, and an abundant bearer. Mr. Hunt had Moore's Early and Worden growing in the same vineyard. The former was just beginning to color and the latter was still as green as ever in appearance. Mr. Hunt says the new grape is one week to ten days earlier than Moore's Early, ten days to two weeks earlier than Worden, and three weeks earlier than Concord, and the condition August 18th, fully supports this statement. The soil in which the vines are growing is ordinary clay, in rather poor condition, and no manure has been applied, and yet the growth and bearing are all that could be desired.

It is the best grape of the season, and the best early black grape we have yet seen or tasted. Its exceeding earliness, along with its other good qualities, makes it a decided acquisition, and will push it at once into popular favor with all who grow grapes for profitable marketing. It has been named the "Early Ohio."—Ohio Farmer, August 27th, 1892.

TESTIMONIALS.

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 26, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

We received from you this A. M. basket of the "Early Ohio" grape. They were in perfect condition, ripe and sweet. Would class them well up with the early grapes, as they are ahead of all the early grapes in this state.

Thanking you for this kind remembrance, we remain,

Very truly,

(Signed) E. Smith & Sons.

Catskill, N. Y., Aug. 27, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

Yours of the 24th at hand with sample of the "Early Ohio" Grapes, also leaves of the vine. I think it is of good quality for so early a grape, and judging of the foliage from the samples I should say that it was good, and I should say as good as that of the Concord, although that is saying a good deal, for that "old standby" is without a superior. When I received them from the express office I met on the street several fruit growers and had them test the fruit and they pronounced it good. My opinion is that it has a good future, and as soon as known will have a large sale.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) E. H. Wynkoop.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug 27, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

We have yours with quotations, also sample of Early Ohio Grape with which we were much pleased. They reached us in good condition, were fully ripe and we consider the quality fair. It is undoubtedly a good shipper from the fact that they were on the road two days and were in our office two days before opening the basket. The fruit is also attractive. We would consider it valuable as an early Grape.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Phoenix Nursery Company

North Collins, September 10, '92.

Dear Sirs:—

I have been too busy to write you before the result of my trip to see the Early Ohio in bearing.

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. A. Hunt, the originator, I was enabled to see all the vines in bearing and compare them with other early kinds, and must say you have the earliest grape in existence to day, and judging from the load of fruit still on many of the vines its producing qualities outrank the Moore's Early three to one.

Although there was much disease on adjoining vines the Ohio was the picture of health.

Certainly the trip of nearly two hundred miles was well worth the time and expense to one believing as I do, that an early grape for our section is the money maker.

Respectfully,

(Signed) E. Willett.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 31, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

Yours of the 23th and sample of the Early Ohio Grape received in good condition,

Yours truly,

(Signed) Geo. C. Roeding.

Parry P. O., N. J., August 26, '92.

Gentlemen:—

We received the sample of Early Ohio, and in comparison with Moore's Early in same package we find them much riper, indicating at least one week earlier, and better quality. The leaves also give evidence of health, vigor and freedom from mildew.

Respectfully,

(Signed) Wm. Perry.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 7, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

Sample of the Early Ohio Grape came to hand about ten days ago in good condition. The berries seem to cling to the stem well and the quality is good for so early a grape.

We have one vine that is growing vigorously and seems perfectly free from disease. Next season we will test its earliness and productiveness in this locality. With thanks for the grapes, we remain, Yours truly,

(Signed) Whiting Bros.

New Braunfels, Tex., Aug. 8, 1892.

Dear Sirs:—

The sample of the Early Ohio grape arrived to-day in good condition. I think it is just the grape for early shipment.

Respectfully,

(Signed) Otto Locke.

Bluffton, Mo., Sept. 1, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

The basket with the Early Ohio Grapes are here in excellent condition. I look upon it as a great acquisition. Comparing it with Moore's Early, as specimens beside it, it is at least a week earlier, a larger bunch, better in quality, and adheres well to the peduncle, while the Moore's Early lets its fruit drop very easily. As compared with the ripening of other fruits, I believe the Early Ohio will be fit to eat here about the first of August, and I shall push the vines I get so as to get fruit as soon as possible.

Yours truly,

(Signed) S. Miller.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 5, '91.

Gentlemen:—

Basket of Early Ohio grapes received in good order. It is of good quality for an early sort and must prove very valuable for market on account of its fine appearance and excellent carrying qualities.

I thank you for the opportunity of testing this extra early new sort, we remain,

Yours very truly,

H. E. Hooker Co.

Euclid, Ohio, Dec. 2, 1891.

Gentlemen:—

I have been much interested in the new seedling grape of my neighbor Mr. Hunt. I believe it possesses very desirable qualities for an early market grape. Its handsome clusters certainly will attract the attention of buyers and the quality is above the standard for an early grape. Its productiveness and hardiness will make it a very desirable sort to plant.

Yours very truly,

(Sec'y and Treas. E. G. G. A.)

Henry S. Wetmore.

Ackley, Ia., Aug. 29, 1892.

Gents. &—

Sample of Early Ohio Grape rec'd in fine condition. It clearly shows that it bears transportation and handling, as this forenoon I was showing it to friends and none of the berries dropped from the stem while the bunch of Moore's Early nearly half dropped off. It is pronounced by all who saw it a good early grape. The foliage surely indicates strong healthy growth.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) J. L. Taylor.

Waycross, Ga., Aug. 30, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

The samples of Early Ohio Grape received in good condition. Please accept our thanks. We consider it a fine grape, not so large as Moore's Early so far as berry is concerned, but finer bunches and much better flavor.

Yours truly,

(Signed) H. W. Reed & Co.

Louisiana, Mo., Sept. 7, 1892.

Dear Sirs:—

We thank you for your favor, which came during our absence in Colorado. The sample of Early Ohio and Moore's Early duly received. Same were kept for us several days, but were still in very good order. The Ohio certainly seem very materially earlier than Moore's Early, judging by the sample bunches of the latter enclosed. The clusters were also much larger.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Pike Co. Nurseries.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 31, 1892.

Gentlemen:—

The sample box of Early Ohio grapes arrived by express in fine condition and presented a very attractive appearance, berries clinging firmly to the stem.

Its extreme earliness is a valuable feature while the quality seems equal if not superior to any other reliable very early black grape we have sampled.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) C. P. Lines & Co.
