HINTS ON PLANTING

First—Be sure that roots of trees and plants are kept moist and well covered from time of leaving nursery until planted.

Second—Dig holes larger and deeper than necessary to receive roots in their natural position without bending. Place tree or shrub in center of hole and fill with fine top soil, working same well among the roots. When about three-fourths filled with soil, fill hole with water and when water has settled finish filling with soil; firm soil gently with the foot and rake surface level.

Third—When through planting, if one-year-old trees, cut back to a uniform height of about thirty inches from the ground. Side limbs, if any, should be cut close to body of tree. Peach trees should have side limbs cut to within one inch of body of tree. If two-year-old trees, there will be from three to six branches. Cut out all but three or four limbs suitable to form a well balanced top, and cut each side limb back to four or five inches from body of tree, leaving leader or center limb twenty to twenty-four inches long.

In the pruning of Shrubs care should be exercised as severe pruning of some varieties will cause them to make wood growth at the expense of the blossom-forming buds. Other varieties such as bush roses, Hydrangea, etc., that bloom from the tips of the new wood, need severe pruning to form new wood. Prune while dormant, first cutting out all dead branches and those growing too thickly; then prune lightly where necessary to the proper shaping of the plant.

Fourth—If weather is warm and dry, water thoroughly every six to eight days. Soil should be stirred with a hoe, as soon as dry enough to work mellow, after each watering.

Fifth—If trees are dry and shriveled when received, bury in moist soil for five or six days. If frozen, do not open box or bale, but bury until frost is drawn out.

Sixth—Never allow manure to come in contact with roots of newly planted trees or shrubs, but if put on top of ground after planting it is of benefit as a mulch.

Seventh—Never handle trees in frosty or windy weather. Set trees an inch or two deeper than they stood in nursery.
