CHERRY HILL NURSERY

West Newbury, Mass.

T. C. THURLOW, Proprietor

The "Old Pæony" of our gardens, is deservedly receiving more attention, both in this Country and Europe. With the introduction of new varieties from China, Japan and Siberia, and by the crossing or hybridizing these varieties, with our own best sorts—new varieties have been obtained—which for beauty of form, elegance of color, and delicious fragrance, almost rival the rose, the carnation and the waterlily. Add to this, the pæony is so far, free from all insects and diseases, being perfectly hardy in all situations, although newly set plants are better for a slight covering on the approach of winter. Although the pæony will live and flourish in any ordinary soil, yet to obtain the best results, or secure "prize flowers," plant in a rich moist soil—trench at least two feet deep, and apply manure liberally on the surface. The pæony can remain unmolested for years, and each year the flowers will improve in size and beauty; but a skilful propagator will dig and divide his plants in the fall, every two or three years; some varieties can thus be increased a hundred-fold in six or eight years. I have been for over fifteen years collecting and growing my present stock of pæonies. Having secured the best varieties obtainable in this country, I imported from the most reliable growers in England, France and Belgium, in every case the very best on their catalogues; in one instance paying $1.75 per root in England, for twenty-five new sorts, that had never before been sent out. I am now prepared to offer all these (in limited quantities) at a very much reduced rate. Of course the plants will be divided (not whole clumps) but none will be sold too small to insure their growth with ordinary care. Our pæonies have several times taken prizes at the Exhibitions of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in Boston.

In 1893 we exhibited seventy-five varieties at one time. The Boston Transcript of that date said "It was altogether the finest display of pæonies ever seen in Boston."

This season we exhibited pæonies for four weeks in succession. They commence blooming the last of May and continue through June. For several years I have found it profitable, to sell the flowers. One florist near Boston contemplates planting an acre of pæonies for cut-flowers.

Pæonies, Iris, Phlox, etc., do much better planted in the fall.

We shall be prepared to ship from the middle to last of September, and continue till the ground freezes.

Everything on this list will be packed in light boxes, with clean moss, packing free, correctly and securely labelled, and sent by Express, unless ordered otherwise. The American Express Co., will deliver all nursery stock at very much reduced rates, viz:

Stock will be delivered in New York City at $.80 per 100 lbs.

RICHARDSON'S SEEDLINGS.

75 cents each, $6.00 per doz. Price per 100 (an assortment) on application.

Raised from seed some twelve or fifteen years ago, by a Mr. Richardson, near Boston. Highly endorsed at the time by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Messrs. Marshall P. Wilder, Chas. M. Hovey, and others, and owned and named by the late John C. Hovey. What few are held by amateurs about Boston, are generally without names. Mine have been carefully propagated from the first, and every one will be found distinct. Considering their wonderful vigor, and free flowering habit; their season of blooming, — being among the latest — I think they cannot be surpassed by any double pæonies in Europe or America.

Dorchester, beautiful cream color, tinted pink; very double, finely formed and deliciously fragrant. Plant rather dwarf, but very floriferous.

Grandiflora, bright flesh or pink, fragrant; a vigorous plant, with well formed double flowers.

Norfolk, beautiful soft pink, and finely shaped flower; foliage usually mottled.

Perfection, very tall vigorous plant, bearing heavy crops of large, exceedingly double flowers, often raised at the center; light-pink fading to flesh; very sweet, the best of its color.

Rubra Superba, dark crimson red, very double and finely formed — fragrant. Plant robust, and very free flowering. One of the latest. The most valuable pæony of its color in my collection.

TREE, OR MOUTAN PÆONIES.

These form in time Shrubs of five or six feet in height, and when in bloom are "truly magnificent." They are hardy, and yet do better for a slight protection in winter. With me, the Tree Pæony does best on dry, well drained soil, made deep and rich by trenching, rather than on moist land. We can supply in single plants, over fifty varieties, and the Banksii variety by the hundred. Large, well formed flowering plants, Price, $1.00 to $2.00 each, according to size and variety.

N. B. My Iris and Hardy Phlox, of which I have a very choice collection, see "Novelty Circular," will be ready to ship this fall at same time as the pæonies, and as they will occupy very little space, will be suitable to pack in boxes with the pæonies.
