(Chrysomelidae)

A VIEW IN ONE OF OUR CHRYSANTHEMUM HOUSES.

Spring, 1895.

I AM PRESENTING my Price-List for 1895, I desire to call special attention to my collection of Chrysanthemums, which, though not as large as some others, will be found to compare favorably with them as regards quality, etc., and consists of more than two hundred choice selected prize varieties. They have been carefully selected from recent introductions, with the view of combining as great a variety of color and form as possible. Customers can make selections from this list with confidence that they will obtain only varieties that have been thoroughly tested, and which, if well grown, will produce the finest of flowers, and repay them for their labor. All plants sent out are strong, healthy, and "true to name," the greatest care being taken in this respect. I extend my thanks to all customers who have kindly favored me with their orders in the past, and shall endeavor to retain the confidence of all patrons by honest and fair dealing. Soliciting a share of your patronage, I remain,

Respectfully yours,

William G. McTear,
Princeton, New Jersey.

Instructions for Ordering.

Please use inclosed Order Sheet, as it will facilitate my work, and may prevent errors.

Strong, healthy young plants of Chrysanthemums will be ready for delivery during March, April, May and June, 1895. I commence to ship plants for early delivery March 1, and orders may be sent at any time, and the plants will be forwarded at once; or, if customers desire it, the order can be held and plants sent later in the season.

If choice of varieties is left to me, and customers will state what they desire, I will select according to my experience and best judgment.

HOW TO HAVE PLANTS SENT.

If small lots of plants are sent to distant points, the best means of shipment is by mail, as it is cheaper than by express, and I prepay all mail packages without extra charge. I desire to call particular attention to my careful system of packing plants for the mails, by which I am enabled to have plants arrive at their destination in perfect condition. The plants are securely packed in a mailing box made especially for the purpose, which prevents their being crushed in the mails, and they can be safely sent to any part of the United States in perfect order. Last season I sent plants by mail as far west as Oregon and California, and they were received in perfect condition. In large lots and to near-by points, the best means of shipment is by express, and I generally put in enough "extra" plants to balance the express charges. My responsibility ceases after plants have been carefully packed and delivered to forwarders.

Orders from unknown correspondents must be accompanied by cash or satisfactory references.

Payments may be made by bank draft, check, post-office money-order or registered letter, payable at Princeton, New Jersey.

Chrysanthemum Seed,

Saved from choice selected varieties, that should produce some seedlings of special merit. 15 cents per packet, postpaid.

DIRECTIONS FOR SOWING.

Sow in shallow boxes of light soil early in spring, and place in a light window or greenhouse, in a temperature of about 65°. Cover the seed lightly with fine soil, and water with a fine spray. When the seedlings are an inch high, transplant them into similar boxes or two-inch pots, and plant them out in the garden after danger from frost is past.
