HARDY TREES & PLANTS for EVERY PLACE & PURPOSE

1916

Autumn Edition

WHOLESALE CATALOG

THE WILLIAM H. MOON COMPANY
MORRISVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA
PHILADELPHIA OFFICE, 21 SOUTH TWELFTH STREET
THE MOON NURSERY CORPORATION, WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.

Entrance Gateway to Moons' Nurseries, located on the Yardley Road, just off the Lincoln Highway, a mile and a half distant from Trenton, N. J.

Facts of First Importance

WHAT you want to know at the very start is: Why should you buy your plants, shrubs or trees of this Company in preference to others? Is our stock any better? Are we able to give you superior service?

That our stock is better, the service we give superior, and the prices reasonable, will be further apparent to you from even a brief scan of what follows.

Size and Location of Nurseries

AT Morrisville, Pa., which is just across the Delaware River from Trenton, N. J., we have nurseries of Four Hundred and Fifty acres that are devoted entirely to the growing of Ornamental Trees, Shrubbery and Hardy Plants for Every Place and Purpose. These nurseries have been established for forty-four years, but the Moon family started selling nursery stock one hundred and forty-eight years ago. A striking feature of them is the assortment of almost 2,000 varieties; and a wide range of sizes from which to choose. The wonderful fertility of this soil of ours produces a stock of great vigor and uniform development. Nearly all our output is raised in these nurseries and freshly dug for each order. We maintain no storage cellar for preserving our stock in Winter.

Whatever you may want, it's no little satisfaction to feel that "Moons' likely have it." This means much to you, especially when ordering during the Spring rush, when every day counts.

Assortment of Varieties

IF you should walk up and down the hundreds of rows of plants in our nurseries, until you had been over them all, you would have gone considerably more than nine hundred miles and seen some two thousand or more different varieties of trees and shrubbery. You would be thoroughly convinced of the appropriate title of this catalogue, "Hardy Trees and Plants for Every Place and Purpose." In such a collection there is the possibility of getting direct from us the entire assortment for the smallest or largest plantings. This overcomes the disadvantage of numerous small shipments coming from different places, which delays one's planting.

Ample Growing Space

YOU would have particularly noticed that the stock was not crowded. Frequent transplantings and wide spacing have given each specimen ample room to spread out as well as grow up.

Superior Roots

IF you had chanced upon some of our men when they were digging shrubs or trees, you would have noticed what exceptionally large masses of fibrous feeding roots each plant possessed, instead of the coarse, long ones which result from lack of transplanting or root training. The foreman would have pointed out to you that this highly developed "root system," as he calls it, has much to do with successful transplanting and quick growth. Every order is freshly dug. This assures you that the virile strength that the roots possess has not dried away from being out of ground over Winter, or otherwise subjected to long exposure.

It will be noticed that the location of our nurseries is directly opposite Trenton, N. J.

The prices in this catalog cover all packing costs and are f. o. b. our depot. With many nurseries uncertain "extra charges" are made for packing.

Every plant listed herein we shall have in stock when the season opens. More than 95 per cent. of it we raise ourselves. Moons' are growers, not jobbers, and dig freshly as ordered the stock which they sell.

A common method in nurseries is to grow trees 3 ft. x 3 ft. apart. In this way 4840 are grown per acre. Such crowding makes slender, spindling trees.

With Moons', the practice is 4 ft. x 3 ft. while small, then 8 ft. x 6 ft., which reduced the number per acre to 3630. But obviously trees given so much space are best.

Culture

ONE of the things that would have particularly impressed you in that same walk through the nurseries would have been the high state of cultivation of the entire acreage, and the evident systematic pruning, spraying and individual care that each tree or plant receives.

Packing Care

THEN on the way back to the office, if you had looked in at the packing rooms you would have noticed that all the piles of trees and plants, as they were being assembled for different orders, were very carefully handled, and as far as possible protected from exposure or drying breezes.

With all this care and expense of labor and packing material—apparently used without stint—you would have wondered how we could afford to do it in such a liberal way and still make no special charge for packing; as you know is customary with many nurseries.

The Ways to Reach Us

SEE map, page 2. By automobile we are but one and one-half miles distant from Trenton, on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware River. The famed Lincoln Highway crosses at Calhoun Street bridge, Trenton, and passes within one-quarter mile of our nurseries. A turn west at the Yardley Road (road along which trolley passes) leads

One of Moons' trees, showing the spread of branches and quantity and quality of root growth as a result of the trees having plenty of room to grow in.

Trees grown closely together "shoot up," become spindly and cannot develop a good spread of branches. The roots also suffer, making transplanting uncertain.

by our properties, that extend for one and one-quarter miles on either side of this thoroughfare.

By train we are easily accessible, being only ninety minutes from the P. R. R. depot in New York, and sixty minutes from Broad St., Philadelphia. Take fast express trains from Trenton on the Pennsylvania Railroad. If you will let us know of your intended coming, our conveyance will meet you at the station; otherwise trolley connections can be made at Warren and Hanover Streets for Newtown or Lambertville cars, passing our entrance but ten minutes distant.

By Philadelphia & Reading Railway we are reached from Trenton, N. J., or Yardley, Pa., our nurseries are but one and one-half miles away, and also easily reached by trolley.

Our Home Office, located at the nurseries

Personal Inspection of Our Nurseries

OF course, our customers can't all find it convenient to visit us; but we wish they could.

A visit will prove not only interesting to you in revealing the almost infinite variety of color, flowers and plant forms that are here available for lawn planting, but be delightfully educational as well. How, for instance, can we in word descriptions do anything near justice to the varying shades of foliage, ranging as they do from golden to deep grayish greens? To see them in their varying interesting foliage is a revelation.

There is also a certain satisfaction in seeing the plants you need; and in picking out the identical ones you want. So we extend a hearty invitation to visit us. Come any time except Sundays.

Our Terms

Location and Shipping

OUR shipping facilities are exceptionally good. We are located just across the Delaware River from Trenton, N. J., which has freight and express service over the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, connecting with the Baltimore & Ohio, and over the Pennsylvania Railroad, which radiates in five directions. Besides its direct route to New York and Philadelphia the Belvidere division runs toward the north, the Amboy division goes into New Jersey, the "Trenton Cut-off" takes western freight, eliminating delay or change at Philadelphia. There is boat service from Trenton to Philadelphia, where connections include Boston, Providence, Baltimore and southern points.

Freight is considered a safe and satisfactory means of shipment for nursery stock under most conditions. Perennials however should always be shipped by express. Owing to the congested conditions of all eastern railroads this Spring, it may be best to allow us considerable latitude in routing shipments, though ordinarily we prefer that customers express their preference.

Within certain distances we are prepared to deliver by motor truck or wagon. These deliveries are, however, matters for special arrangement, both as to time for delivery and as to charges.

Prices

THE prices in this catalogue cancel all previous prices and are for first quality, vigorous, healthy stock, that will be freshly dug for each order. There is no additional charge for packing, as is the practice with many nurserymen. All prices quoted are net and f. o. b. our depots. Reduced prices are given "per 10" and "per 100" on most articles offered. Thus, if a rate "per 10" is quoted, five or more plants of that grade and variety may be had at that rate. Where the price "per 100" is given, twenty-five or more plants of that grade and variety may be had at the "per 100" rate. In the few cases where a "per 1000" rate is given it is applicable to purchases of two hundred and fifty or more of that grade and variety.

Personal selection of the stock at our Nurseries is invited, and when selections are so made the prices will be as published in our current catalogue, excepting in cases of special or unusual specimens, which will be charged according to their individual value.

Payments

CASH with order, excepting to persons who satisfy us as to their financial responsibility. Persons unknown to us who desire to open a charge account will get quicker delivery if they accompany orders with financial references that will enable us to base credit relations.

Settlements of all accounts are due when bills are rendered, and payments are expected promptly. An abatement of 2% may be taken if payments reach us within ten days from date of invoice.

On Guaranteeing and Presentation of Claims

WHEN stock is sold at wholesale prices, as given in this catalogue, we assume no responsibility for the failure of our product to grow, although, of course, we endeavor to exercise every care that will cause them to transplant successfully. The responsibility that we do, however, assume is the safe arrival of our goods at destination; beyond this we have no control and therefore should not and are not to be held liable. Claims for shortage, poor arrival of shipments and others of whatever nature must be presented within ten days after the arrival of the consignment.

Moons' Evergreens are Renowned for their Excellence of Quality

A block of White Spruce (Picea Alba) in our Nursery. Ask us to fill your order from this block. They run from 4 to 8 ft. high.

THIS NURSERY has for years been making a specialty of Evergreens. We have more than 150 acres of these Trees alone, and a stock that includes almost 300 varieties.

As this catalog is not distributed until late in the Autumn season, itemized lists of different Evergreens we have are omitted. Persons desiring this type of tree should see our Spring 1916 Wholesale Catalog for prices and sizes. Persons contemplating Autumn purchases of Evergreens will do well to send us their lists for prices.

Block of Norway Maples at our Nurseries. The best grade of 3 to 4 in. trees listed below will come from this block.

A street planting of our American Elms at Lynchburg, Va. The trees when planted were 1¼ to 2 inches in diameter of trunk and have made this wonderful growth and splendid appearance in four seasons.

Lindens and Elms are among the best for street and avenue planting. The Lindens are attractive for their straight growth and symmetrical outline. The Elms for their graceful arching habits. Cities and towns have been made famous for their wonderful old Elms which overarch their streets. We are offering, this year, a wonderfully vigorous and shapely stock of both these varieties.

A shrubbery planting made with stock from our Nurseries.

Dwarf Deutzias are some of the most useful and ornamental shrubs we have. The stock of all varieties listed in the column above are as fine as we have ever grown.

"Many a man intensely practical in his own business will give his order to the lowest bidder among competing nurserymen, and waste years looking at sickly, struggling or dying trees, shrubs and perennials about his home, rather than invest a little more money and get satisfaction and joy from the start. Poor stock is dear at any price."—Neltze Blanchan in "The American Flower Garden."

Note the bushy, sturdy character of these shrubs. They are average samples of most of the varieties listed throughout this catalog. Nearly all of our stock has been transplanted and cut back and is now of best quality for landscape planting.

Flowers of Hibiscus or Altheas. The stock listed below has been transplanted, is bushy and of a vigorous nature. Don't confuse it with cheap slender plants.

HIBISCUS SYRIACUS.

Althea or Rose of Sharon.

These are grand flowering shrubs. There is a wide range of color, and not a day from the middle of July until September—a time when so few other shrubs are in bloom—that Altheas are not aglow with flowers. They have no insect enemies, grow well anywhere, are splendidly suited for shrubbery borders, for colony planting and hedges.

Regals Privet.

A hedge of Regals Privet supplied by us and growing in a section where the California Privet is not hardy.

Ligustrum lbota, var. regelianum. Notice in the illustration what a beautiful hedge plant this is. Equally well suited for shrubbery borders and planting about the foundation of buildings. Its graceful drooping habit makes it a most useful shrub. Much more hardy than the California Privet. The stock here offered is of the true variety, having been grown from cuttings rather than from seed.

A Bit of History About the Moon Nurseries

ONE Hundred and Forty-nine years ago the Moon Nursery Industry was established in America. Such a long and continuous succession of nursery endeavor, we believe, is not equalled by any other nursery. In 1767 James Moon, (great-great-grandfather of the President of our Company) was engaged in selling fruit trees at one shilling each. The location of his nursery was but seven miles distant from the land we now occupy.

Each succeeding generation have been tree growers. The advent of improved methods of distribution enabled Mahlon Moon, in 1849, to establish at Morrisville nurseries in a more extensive way than had been possible earlier. The nursery established by Mahlon Moon was continued by Samuel C. Moon until his death in 1911, after which it was purchased by this Company and for a time operated separately, but amalgamated with it in 1913.

A pear tree from James Moon's nursery in 1776 and still bearing fruit 140 years later. This is one of the trees covered by the accompanying copy of invoice, showing its cost to have been one shilling.

The Glenwood Nursery, or the original nursery of this Company, was established in 1872 by William H. Moon, who in 1890 organized the company that at present bears his name.

This little bit of history we believe will be interesting to many. We are, however, aware that such a lineage means nothing to our patrons unless the business, as at present managed, has profited by all this accumulated experience and is in a better position, on account of it, to serve its patrons.

That The Wm. H. Moon Company is in a position to meet customers' wants, because of this experience and the energy still going into the business every day from a number of active young men employed, we believe is apparent to all to whom we are known. To those unacquainted it will be seen we are not content with the reputation of our ancestry, as new varieties and up-to-date methods are constantly being added.

Sales of trees are recorded in James Moon's account book nine years earlier than this entry, which is shown because it covers the tree pictured above. The currency used was that of England, which circulated in "The Colonies" during the Revolutionary years in which these early sales of trees were made. The nursery of James Moon was probably the first in America. Each succeeding generation have been nurserymen.

Suggestive List of Varieties to Solve Your Planting Problems

IN response to a repeated demand for suggestive lists of varieties suited for certain places and purposes we have prepared this index. It does not contain all the varieties suited for the purposes named, and there are, doubtless, instances in which some of the trees and shrubbery enumerated will not be found suited for the purpose specified, due to climatic, soil or other conditions which have to be taken into consideration in selecting each planting.

We are at all times ready to help our patrons with more detailed suggestions to solve their particular problems.

The Way to Plant a Tree

No. 1. A piece of burlap or canvas should be spread over the grass, so that the dirt from the holes may be thrown upon it.

No. 2. Holes must be made so large that the roots may be spread out naturally without cramping. See also No. 6.

No. 3. Dig holes larger in circumference at the bottom than at the top to prevent water laying about the roots.

No. 4. Good, fertile top-soil must be used about the roots. If the tree is to be planted in impoverished ground, good soil should be provided for it.

No. 5. Plant a tree just as deeply as it stood in the nursery row. This depth is very easily determined by the dirt line always shown at the bottom of the trunk. Failure to plant in accordance with this rule probably results in the loss of more trees than any other cause.

No. 6. Lay the roots out naturally and cut off all the broken or bruised parts. See also No. 2.

No. 7. Be sure to press earth firmly about the roots, especially about the crown (where the arrow points), so that every particle of the roots will be embedded in compacted soil.

No. 8. A tamping stick may be used to work the soil firmly about the roots. With small trees and plants the dirt will settle firmly if the plant is gently lifted up and down, when the hole is half filled, so that the dirt will work its way between the roots. Just before filling in all the dirt press it firmly. Be sure that the dirt is well compacted, excepting three or four inches at the top of the hole, which should be loosened by occasional cultivation.

No. 9. If buds have begun to swell at time of planting or if the ground is dry, watering when the hole has been three-quarters filled will not only moisten the roots but help settle the soil firmly about them. Should drought ensue afterwards, occasional watering will be necessary until the tree becomes established; watering is, however, frequently overdone, and death from this cause occurs to trees and plants almost as frequently as from neglect to water.

No. 10. Trim broken or bruised branches, also two-thirds of the previous year's growth; because the roots in their disturbed condition cannot at the outset nourish as large a top growth as before they were disturbed by moving. Marks among the branches of the diagram show where this tree should be trimmed.

No. 11. It is often best not to trim the leader or central stem, as a forked tree may result. Hardwood trees, like the oak and beech especially, should not have their central leader trimmed.

No. 12. If the tree is large or in an especially exposed place where winds may loosen it, support it with wires and provide some protection where the wires come in contact with the tree trunk. A piece of burlap, with a few sticks, is useful to prevent the wires chafing the tree where they come in contact with it.

No. 13. After planting, it is better to leave a cultivated area about the tree than to sod close to it. This cultivated area should be from three to five feet in diameter.

No. 14. Fertilizer, in the form of stable manure or compost, may be used but should not come in direct contact with the roots. A mulch applied after the planting is usually the best way to supply this fertilizer, as it then also acts to conserve the moisture.
