"A new cover for the old house, a little paint, some new furniture, a little foundation planting, some gravel on the front walk, and a new gate will make the old house, where southerners call home, more inviting, and I believe the passersby—Mr. and Mrs. General Public—take notice."—President Crowell, of Southern Nurserymen's Association.

WHEN YOU ARE GONE

Plant a tree. You found several here when you landed on this old earth and you've seen a great many cut down during your time. You have probably cut down a few yourself. The children who are born after you have passed on have a right to find a few standing. But they will not if every person who passes through this vale of tears cuts down a few and forgets to plant any. Plant a tree. Plant a dozen of them, and then you will have done something for the generations who follow you, even as some one did something for you ages ago.—Fort Lauerdale Herald.

We would add the suggestion that if a tree is planted, let the planter have a distinct object when choosing and planting it. A fruit or nut tree would be of use and would be appreciated by the next generation. A shade or ornamental tree also serves a good purpose. Bear these facts in mind and plant for a purpose.

Please send me your free catalogue on fruit trees and plants. Am anxious to make up an order at once. I would certainly recommend the Magnolia Pear. One three-year-old Magnolia tree had twenty-seven large, beautiful pears this year.—H. W. Bosse, Sallis, Miss., R. F. D. 1.

Please send me your booklet, "Southern Plantings," and catalogue and prices of peach trees. I am going to plant several hundred peach trees this year, and I want the best, and I find your trees do well here.—D. W. Eubanks, Lucedale, Miss.

Please send me your catalogue of fruit trees, etc. I bought from you in 1909 and was very much pleased, and as I have moved to a new home want to set out another orchard.—W. C. Peay, Rockton, S. C.

The nursery stock was received and in fine shape. I have sown them to my friends. Guess you will have an order soon from one of them.—Mrs. R. G. Bondurant, Baugh, Tenn.

Five years ago I bought some Stuart Pecan trees from your worthy salesman, Mr. C. C. Bennett. This year one of these trees bore about four dozen of fine nuts, and I consider them a great advantage to my home.—W. J. Harris, Edenton, N. C.

LANDSCAPE DEPARTMENT

This department has recently been enlarged and is now equipped to handle both small and large plantings. If you wish to have your shrubs and trees properly arranged, correspond with this department. We will be glad to send our landscape architects for conference on small or large plantings, and the fee is very nominal indeed. Very often a satisfactory plan can be arranged by correspondence, if you can furnish us the necessary information on blanks which we will furnish for this purpose. Send us a few kodak pictures of your house, together with dimensions of house and lot and all other information that you may think will aid us. Write us freely your landscape troubles.
