Strawberries are the Biggest Money-Making Crop. You make no Mistake in Planting Strawberries

THE growing of strawberries is on the increase in all parts of the country, and in many sections strawberries have become a main crop. Coming as they do, the first among the fruits of the season, they supply a demand for fresh fruits which does not abate so long as the crop lasts. Easy of culture and prolific in bearing, strawberries are unexcelled for the home garden. Many land owners, both in town and country, have spacious yards or plots of ground that are not producing anything, and this space could be utilized to the utmost with strawberry beds. It will be a source of pleasure and profit to you with little work and little expense. The small amount you spend for plants will be returned to you many fold.

As a market crop, strawberries are most profitable. Where strawberry growing has been taken up in a business-like way, small gardens bring the owners from $50.00 to $200.00, and it is not an uncommon thing to realize from $1200 to $1500 per acre. Growers all over the country are making big money, and no greater returns for the amount invested can be made in any line of business.

Almost any soil that will grow good field crops will grow good berries. Avoid low, frosty places if possible. Light sand or hillsides can be used to good advantage. Fruit plants, like any other crop, need rich ground, and respond quickly to good care and fertilization. Stable manure is a splendid fertilizer for fruit. Plant as early in the spring as the ground can be prepared, so that the spring rains will give the plants a start. Plants should be handled and set before they start to grow very much, while the vitality is still in the plant.

Select your patch of ground, put it in good shape for the plants, give them the attention they should have, and the returns will be large. You can make no mistake in setting out a portion of your garden or farm to strawberries.

EXCELSIOR

One of the Best Market Sorts

For a long time Excelsior has been widely grown as a very early market berry; in fact, it is the standard for earliness by which most other varieties are compared. The fruit is of medium size, dark in color and firm in texture. The flavor is quite tart, but with its high color the berry is especially valuable for canning and for syrup. One of the best shippers. The plant is exceptionally healthy. Being an extra early berry, it comes at a time when the fruit is in greatest demand, and growers for the market have no difficulty in disposing of their entire crop at good prices. Its earliness also commends it for the home garden.

Tennessee Prolific

A Perfect Midseason Sort. Always Reliable

Tennessee Prolific has given great satisfaction wherever planted, ranking among the best in the list of strawberries. The berry is large, of good shape, deep red color, and of excellent flavor. It is a heavy producer and should be found in both the home garden and commercial plantings. It thrives on quite light, dry soil. It is a great plant maker. As its name indicates, it seems unusually well adapted to soil and climatic conditions of Tennessee and neighboring states.

Growing Strawberries a Safe and Sure way to make Money

There are probably more actual profits to be obtained in growing strawberries than in the growing of any other fruit. It does not take a big investment for a start; in fact plants and small plot of ground are sufficient. But of course you can grow faster with a larger number of plants, say one half acre or an acre. The chances of success in growing strawberries for market are greater than any other known crop. You can not go wrong in ordering any of the varieties listed on this circular.

Strawberries for Garden

Aroma

Big Money Maker

This is our best and most profitable late strawberry. Extra big profits in strawberries are always made by getting your fruit on the market when the demand is best. Aroma is the latest strawberry grown and one of the very best varieties, producing an immense amount of extra large, fancy looking berries, of the very highest quality and market value. Every grower should plant Aroma to lengthen his fruiting season and make him more money. Many growers, especially in the Southwest, plant large fields to Aroma alone for distant markets, as it is one of the very best shipping varieties. The berry is very large, roundish, conical, rarely misshapen, glossy-red, of excellent quality and produced in abundance.

SOUTHERN NURSERY CO.
WINCHESTER, TENNESSEE

This strawberry is a veritable "Klondyke" to the Southern grower, and in dry, hot seasons is hard to surpass in the North. It is a medium early variety, and is noted for its very large yield of beautiful berries, uniform in shape and of a rich blood-red color extending through the entire flesh. The berry is very juicy, and is of a mild, rich flavor. The foliage is tall, with a medium size light green leaf; this foliage acts as a shade to keep the hot sun from drying out and injuring the berries during a dry season. The plants are good growers, making runners abundantly.
