GLADIOLUS

AFTER many tests over several years we have become absolutely convinced that the Northern New England climate and growing conditions are the ideal ones for the production of vigorous Gladioli. That climate puts such marked vitality into seed potatoes that they will produce a good crop in far off tropical Bermuda under trying conditions. Our Northern New England grown Gladioli will duplicate that performance in the most southern state of the Union, in South America and in the greenhouses of the northern states. They will keep longer and stronger in the seed stores during the spring. The bulbs we produce in Northern New England are sun-cured, clear-skinned, high-crowned bulbs.

Curing Gladiolus bulbs is a fine art. It is perhaps more important than the growing of them. Many stocks suffer from haste and hasty methods. Haste makes waste. The curing of our stocks receives critical attention. We understand the processes of curing, proper storage and keeping the flowering strength of stocks up to scratch.

Gladioli are an excellent paying crop to any florist who will give a little study to their culture. Early varieties may be started in January, some even earlier, and this planting should be followed up with another every 3 weeks until April 1st. Carnation temperature suits Gladioli very well. Close planting causes non-flowering. This goes for cold frames as well as for greenhouses. Bulbs should be spaced 5 inches apart. They are impatient of too much moisture except when the buds are well up. As to varieties, America, Halley, Mrs. Frances King, Mrs. Frank Pendleton and Schwaben are the best to start with, they are reasonable in price and sure to bloom with splendid spikes.

Real good prices, $2.50 to $4.00 per dozen, have been realized this spring for spikes of Maiden's Blush, Alice Tiplady, Souvenir, Dorothy Wheeler, Lilywhite, Prince of Wales, Foch, Wilbrink, Ali, Flora and others. These varieties are higher priced to begin with, but they require the same space, labor, heat and attention as the older sorts.

COLD STORAGE GLADIOLI

For late June, July and August planting we can recommend our process of cold-storing Gladioli as it has produced excellent results. We have bulbs in cold storage now (Sept. 15) for October planting which look as sound and dormant as when they were first put in. Cold storage lots are packed to order only, in neat cases containing from 250 to 1,000 specially examined top-size bulbs.

DIELYTRA SPECTABILIS

(BLEEDING HEART)

It is very difficult to grow clumps of this old favorite such as Holland used to send us. The roots we ship are strong, producing excellent plants which sell on sight when in bloom.

Selected clumps.....$40.00 per 100

DIELYTRA SPECTABILIS

SPIRAEA "PHILADELPHIA"

The most impressive and most beautiful Spiraea for Decoration Day.

CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

Spiraea should be planted in 6-inch or 7-inch pots according to size of clump, well below the rim of the pot. For very showy plants two clumps may be cut in a correspondingly larger pot or Azalea pan. The potted stock can be placed in a frame or below a bench in a cool house for six to eight weeks and early varieties, if fairly well started, should then be placed on the bench giving plenty of space and a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees. As the foliage is one of the glorious assets of a good Spiraea it should be watched and allowed to come down all around the plant. Do not fumigate but, if necessary, spray lightly against aphids. These, and watering every day, are the simple rules to grow perfect Spiraea in the greenhouse. Watering every day is the most important point to secure success.

SPIRAEAS

(Ready for shipment in November)

A WELL-GROWN SPIRAEA is one of the most attractive and decorative plants. It can be sold at a reasonable price and still it makes a big show for the money. For decorating churches and homes at Easter time or graves on Decoration Day it is very charming and effective. If the pot is not sold, the flowers may be cut for wreaths and sprays while the abundant leaves provide elegant greenery.

If you have a retail store connected with your greenhouses, keep some Spiraea in a cool house for sale after Easter. There is always call for them, especially if you tell your customer that she can plant the Spiraea, after blooming, in her garden where it will prove to be hardy and will bloom there many years in a border or other semi-shady place. Besides that, a few fine Spiraea provide inexpensive yet attractive window dressing.

Upon request we will pack 12, 25, 50 or 100 extra clumps in neat cases and place them in Boston or New York cold storage for very late forcing.

Spiraea thrive wonderfully under the cool climate of Northern New England, making solid clumps set with many strong flower and leaf buds. Grown without irrigation but with plenty of sub-soil moisture when needed.

LILY OF THE VALLEY

We specialize in the finest forcing Valley grown in Germany, and are ready at all times to match our grades with any one else's. We have handled Valley for more than 30 years in ever-increasing quantities. We know, as far as human knowledge can determine, what is good cold storage Valley and where the best stocks are grown. We do not take consignments and do not simply cable an order over. Our Holland house sends its men into the fields in Germany at digging time, to inspect the crop and to see that what goes into the cases is first class in every respect. The smallest case, containing 250 pips, is of just as fine a quality as the case of 2,000. We pack in cases of 250, 500, 1,000 and 2,000 pips and we usually carry a stock in cold storage all the year around. Advance orders placed by customers before the shipping season starts, are packed separately in Germany. Shipping dates are scrupulously observed by us all the year around.

Quality Governs Price

Prices on Valley pips vary according to quality. It is clear that we cannot specialize in top grades and meet prices on other qualities, but we assure our customers that our prices are low for the select stock we send out.
