PEYTON'S PEERLESS PEONIES

GEORGE W. PEYTON

Windy Hill Gardens
RAPIDAN, VIRGINIA

1925

FOREWORD.

FOR THE past six years I have been growing peonies mainly for pleasure, and in that time have built up a collection which includes in its approximately 750 varieties, practically all the best in the world. Of these I have selected the following varieties of which I have a surplus stock, to offer to my peony loving friends, at prices as cheap as can well be made. The ones offered include the very best in existence today. There are very few mediocre ones. This list will be added to each year as my stock of the best varieties increases. I never intend to offer any bad peonies. My peonies have attracted very favorable attention wherever they have been shown and last year won a First Class Certificate of Merit at the joint exhibition of the American Iris Society and the American Horticultural Society in Washington, D. C.

PREPARATION FOR PLANTING.—Prepare your ground as long before you wish to plant as possible. Trench it as deeply as you have time and patience to do. Three feet will not hurt, though you will get good results with only fifteen inches. The entire trench should be filled with as good soil as it is possible to get. Well rotted manure may be used in the bottom of the trench, thoroughly mixing it with the soil. No manure should ever be allowed to come in contact with the roots. Bone meal is the best fertilizer to use, from a handful up to a quart to each plant, according to the size of the plant. Keep this away from the stems.

PLANTING should always be done in the fall, from September 15 to hard freezing weather. October is an ideal month here. Plant the roots with the eyes about two inches below the normal surface of the ground. If your ground has not well settled, plant the eyes at the surface and cover with six inches of good dirt. They will settle to the proper depth. If planted too deeply they may not bloom.

Peonies should be kept well cultivated. They like plenty of water before blooming. They should be kept away from trees and shrubs and planted in full sun or with shade only a part of the day. They will grow and bloom with a minimum of care and attention, but they will repay any labor expended on them. Be very careful never to break the eyes or stems when planting or cultivating. Do not dig down to see if they are still living in the spring. Have patience. They will come in their own good time.

Plant at least three feet apart each way, and four is much better. They will fill the space in a few years. Remember when once planted a peony will usually last a lifetime and it should be left alone.

The roots furnished will have at least two good eyes and an adequate root system. They are guaranteed true to name. I cannot guarantee results. Transportation will be paid by me. They will usually be shipped by parcel post. Cash must accompany the order. I can usually quote you on any variety not listed. Your questions will be cheerfully answered. Order early or the stock may be exhausted. No substitutions will be made.

A TESTIMONIAL.

_____, Va., May 1, 1925.

My dear Mr. Peyton:

I meant to write you as soon as the peonies showed above ground to tell you how fine they are. Every one is growing nicely and nearly all will bloom this year.

Mrs. _____, Mrs. _____ and Mrs. _____ all report good luck with their roots, and we are enthusiastic over the stock which you sent us.

Very truly yours,

VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME.
