GLADIOLUS

MONTEREY,

CALIFORNIA

High Class Bulbs

My first aim is, and will be, to supply only the best quality that it is possible to produce. All bulbs I send out are raised under my own supervision, hence I am able to guarantee them to be sound, true to name and description, but will in no way be responsible for the crop. (which is absolutely beyond my control), other than to refund purchase price or replace such stock, should a customer experience a loss due to any fault of mine.

W. E. Kirchhoff, Sr.

TO MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS:

In the course of my business career as a grower and hybridizer of Gladiolus, covering a period of twenty-five years, I have made many friends in every state in the Union. I am still striving to add to their number. Thanking you for your patronage and assuring you the same careful and prompt attention to orders that has helped to create and maintain our family business relations in the past. I am,

Very sincerely yours,

W. E. Kirchhoff, Sr.

Good shipper because it may be cut before the first bud is open. Owing to its large flowers, it opens very satisfactorily. This variety is my favorite as a breeder just now, as will

The above picture shows a small portion of my trial garden, where hundreds of new seedlings not yet mentioned in this list, bloom and are admired by visitors from all parts of the country.

The following is part of an article which appeared in the San Jose Mercury of September 13, 1925.

"A visit to W. E. Kirchhoff's gladiolus gardens near Monterey is most interesting to those who have kept in touch with the rapid improvement of this beautiful garden flower and the almost spontaneous popularity that has accompanied its development. Some of the recent achievements seen in Mr. Kirchhoff's gardens are one named California, a rich deep apricot with yellow throat, and a clear lavender not yet named. These two flowers are both of good size, beautifully formed and are borne on tall, slender stems of the branching type. Unlike many catalogued varieties that bear the flowers crowded on the stems, the best new "glads" seen in Mr. Kirchhoff's gardens grow tall stems with the flowers spaced far enough apart to display their beauty to greatest advantage. New varieties from these gardens promise to aid materially in promoting the popularity of the gladiolus for everybody's garden."

This variety may be cut before first bud opens, shipped long distance, and they all will open fine because they show

When placing your order for Bulbs, make sure that,

Kirchhoff's Violet Best Commercial Blue,
is not over looked.

I wish to call special attention to Kirchhoff Violet, same is coming to the front as a commercial variety now, and will not be offered again at such low price for years to come. Mr. H. E. Hansen, Professor of Horticulture, South Dakota State College, writes, Oct. 30, '25. The past season was so dry in this locality that a fair report cannot be given on your new varieties of Gladiolus. However, in our State Fair collection your variety, Kirchhoff's Violet, proved to be a very fine outstanding variety, due to its beautiful color and the fact that it did so well in spite of the drouth. I am particularly pleased with this variety of Gladiolus.

Mr B. H. Spencer, Longmeadow, Mass. Writes in part of his letter of Oct. 21, '25. Personally I am much taken with Ks Violet and believe it should be widely grown. I had a few bulbs of it from you last season and it received much favorable comment from visitors to my garden. I expect I ought to have more of it.

Mr. C. E. LOZIER, Elyra, Ohio. writes, I am glad to tell you that Kirchhoff's "Violet" was beautiful in my trial plot this season and stood up better than any other so-called Blue in the patch. We had much dry, hot weather with discouraging effects on many varieties, so the performance of your favorite was remarkable in the circumstances.

W. E. Kirchhoff.

Varieties Listed on this Page are as High Class as those Illustrated.

RUBY—This is about the earliest gladiolus in existence at this time. Ruby is of the same color as American Beauty rose, and is of velvety texture, very strong. Many of its bulblets produce a good sized flower and a two inch bulb. Ruby is illustrated in the front row in the picture on the front cover. This variety is usually the first one to be noticed and admired by visitors, for its striking beauty.

Price 50c Each. $5.00 Per Dozen.

EVELYN MILLER—A very promising variety of the Early Sunrise type, has been tested by Mr. Chas. E. F. Gersdorff under No. 55 rated 96 commercial. It is a very large flower of coral pink, shading to orange. Very choice, good producer, and making large bulbs from bulblets. Early to mid-season. Stock limited.

Price 75c each. $7.50 Per Dozen.

NO. 26—A very striking novelty, large flower, light pink, striped with rose pink shading to rhodamine purple in throat, early bloomer. A premium to the value of $10.00—your choice from this list, for the best description and name, is yours.

Price $1.00 Each. $10.00 Per Dozen.

A Premium List will accompany this Catalog, which will explain its own mission

I wish to draw attention to the fact that I still have considerable stock of commercial varieties on hand and will dispose of same at closingout prices, as I wish to devote all of my time and energy to the creating of new ones.

Varieties referred to are mostly Golden Measure, Kirchhoff's Violet (now very popular), Norton, and a few others. Quantity counts. Be brief—tell me how much of a kind, size, or bulblets, you can use.

Please do not ask for bulblets of any new variety, unless you buy the entire stock of a kind. In such case the bulblets are included. Correspondence to this end is invited.
