The Modern Gladiolus

Although specializing in Roses, Irises and Peonies also, I consider the Modern Gladiolus the most wonderful flower of them all, succeeding and repaying more for the investment of money, care and devotion than any flower in existence. As many as one hundred perfect blossoms have been produced by one large bulb in a single season covering a blooming period of remarkable duration.

Hybridists have so assisted nature in the improvement of this glorious flower that it now embraces a remarkable range of gorgeous coloring and types little dreamed of a few years ago.

Cut when the first flower opens and brought in the house, a spike will keep fresh and lovely over a week if fresh water is given and a short piece of the stem is removed daily as well as the faded flowers.

Their lack of perfume is an advantage for the sick room overcoming the necessity of having to remove them at the caprice of the patient as is often necessary with flowers with a heavy perfume.

By the process of selection and elimination, I have worked up a splendid stock of fine high crowned bulbs or corms. Their virility and beauty will captivate you and the prices are so reasonable that liberal plantings may be indulged in at a small outlay.

Having tried many mixtures from several growers at various times, I am positive that no better high class mixture is being sent out by any other grower at any price.

Try a few of these. You'll get a thrill out of watching them open and if you are not already a "Glad Fan" this mixture is calculated to make you one.

I pay the Parcel Post on all orders of $1.00 or over.

Price of one dozen bulbs will be ten times the single rate. This applies only when 12 of the same variety are wanted. Six at dozen rates.

Price per 100 will be quoted on request.

Bulblets and planting stock can be furnished in most varieties listed. Prices on application.

Cultural Directions

Plant April 1st to June 1st for best results, in trenches four to six inches deep in well prepared soil, shallow if soil is of heavy nature and deeper in sandy loam.

Any good commercial fertilizer or animal manure well incorporated with the soil but not in direct contact with the bulb, will increase the size, coloring and beauty of the flowers.

Cover lightly at first and fill trench as growth progresses.

They should not lack moisture and will respond to frequent cultivation.

Late in October or when foliage shows signs of ripening, dig and cut tops off close to the bulb. Dry in the sun or wind and do not store away until dry or they will mould and spoil.

The old exhausted bulb with roots and bulblets may be removed when most convenient. Store in frost proof cellar where neither too dry or too damp.

Most growers consider everything an inch or over in diameter, a bulb, or corm that will present a good satisfactory blooming spike 70 to 90 days after planting.

I am quoting two sizes: First size will be about 1½ inches, Second size about one inch or better.

Some varieties do not make large bulbs and first size in some varieties are no larger than seconds or thirds in more vigorous growers. All will bloom first season with fair treatment.

All stock is guaranteed to be true to name and we will replace such as are not true to label or refund the price for same but will not be responsible for results obtained beyond this.

Mixtures and errors seldom occur but if they do, I trust you will be charitable enough to consider them as such and give me the opportunity of adjusting.

PLANTING STOCK AND BULBLETS of most of the varieties listed can be supplied if ordered early. We do not issue a wholesale list or quote prices on same in this catalogue, but will be pleased to make quotations on application. Please submit your list of requirements before the spring rush.
