WILDHAGEN BULB FARMS
WATERLOO, IOWA

The Value of Knowing How

By FRED O. WILDHAGEN

I SUPPOSE it's twenty-five years since I grew my first Gladiolus. I remember it was one of those old-style varieties—dark red, about eighteen inches high and with small flowers, headed a good deal like our Primulinus. What a difference from the gorgeous beauties I grow nowadays! I've always grown things as long as I can remember. I'd rather dig and plant, I'd rather watch the buds come on the little green swords of the Gladiolus than any play or any picture I ever saw. I suppose it's because I love it so that plants and bulbs and I get along so well together. And that probably is what interests you. I do my growing well, because I like it. But you get what you order, strong, fully grown, true to name Gladioli, because I know my business, as well as love it.

There are, I have heard, Gladioli catalogs which bear the names of men who never grew a Gladiolus for market. But I grew most of the bulbs you will order from this book. I watched some of them grow from rare imported bulbs purchased from the best Gladiolus growers in Europe—some of them, I am glad to say, friends of mine for years, Gladiolus lovers, every one, like myself. Strange how well you can do a thing if you love to do it.

I wish you could drive out to Wildhagen Bulb Farms this summer. Do so if you are anywhere near Waterloo. I'd like you to walk down the rows on rows of blazing bloom. Never a white bulb where a red bulb should be. Never a nameless stranger in a row of costly bulbs. That's how and why you get bulbs true to name.

The beds are fields devoted to years of strawberry raising; rich, warm, early soil especially suited for production of strong, well-developed, mature bulbs.

Then how I watch the work! Not from my automobile, but right there with my men—every operation is in the hands of skilled men and I personally plan and supervise the work. When you order from this book I want you to get what you order and to have the satisfaction with your purchase to which you are entitled. So I'm just a little old-fashioned in my methods in order that I may be sure you will not be disappointed. And you will not be. My personal service to you is to see that at every step of the way I know what I'm doing. I know what my men are doing and I know what I'm shipping to you. So I can give you my personal guarantee, which is this:

"If at any time you are not satisfied with your purchase I will either replace it or refund your money."

All you have to do is to tell me what happened. If we are wrong, the guarantee stands as above.

The Gladioli Book

—THE FLOWER BEAUTIFUL

THERE is but one reason for your growing Gladiolus. That reason is the Gladiolus itself. F.O.W.

The Flower Beautiful For You

GROW Gladiolus. None of the flowers of all the flowers I know and have grown can give so great satisfaction to so many kinds of people. There is a Gladiolus for every garden. There is never a garden but what well-selected Gladioli will make better and lovelier. The Gladiolus is never out of place, always in taste, fresh and beautiful to the last bud. Grow Gladioli; they will give you supreme satisfaction.

See what you can do with the Gladiolus: Do you want bloom to set off the formality of a hedge or clump of shrubbery? Plant rows of Gladiolus. The combination is charming.

Does your heart rejoice in a riot of color? Plant Gladiolus in beds. Group your colors as your artistic sense may tell you—there is no limit to what can be done.

Would you have a point of color here and there? Plant Gladiolus and be as daring as you like. Really, friends, I know no flower which so truly meets the requirements of every one as does the Gladiolus. Infinite in variety, in colorings how superb! Dainty, fragile as orchids or a blaze of color. Take your choice. Whatever you want you can have in Gladiolus.

We have, for instance, in this catalog shown only about 50 varieties—the choicest we have. We could easily have shown a hundred for we have them. They run the entire scale of colors and every one seems more lovely than the last.

Moreover, it's the Queen of cut flowers, blooming to the very last bud, a sturdy, plucky Flower Beautiful for you. Plant Gladiolus.

The Legend of the Gladiolus

(Gladiolus means "Little Sword.")

When the Fairies fought
With the Goblins of old,
In the forest deep and dark,

Came a day of doom
When the hosts of dark
By magic black and cold

Bent the swords of light
As steel is bent
By fiercest flame, I'm told.

So backward they fled
In headlong flight
Through meadows of gleaming green,

Where Gladioli grew
With never a bloom
But with "Little Swords" long and keen.

"Our blades are sharp,
Take ours," they cried,
"Nor blackest magic dread."

The bright fairies stopt short
In the midst of their flight
And armed again well and true

With the swords of green
Drove the hosts of night
To their dens in the caves
again.

The battle o'er the fairies asked
"Gladioli what gift will you have?"

"Give blooms that we be
No more ashamed
Give blooms, bright blooms
Ere we die."

"Have your wish, be it so,"
The fairies reply,
"We'll give you your greatest desire."

Since then, Gladioli
Of all flowers that grow
Have the fairest of bloom
for their own,

And bloom from the dawn
Till the setting of sun
And morning sees blooming
again.

Permission is hereby given to any child who wishes to recite the above verses in school.

Why I Recommend the Gladiolus

By FRED O. WILDHAGEN

IT IS easy to grow, yet it repays royally the greatest care you can give it. It is a strong, sturdy plant. Grows almost anywhere, for anybody.

It is so dainty, so appealing, every blossom a study in itself; that rare combination, color together with form and size.

It is without an equal as a cut flower. It blooms till the last bud.

There is unlimited variety and color for the choosing. One always regrets he didn't plant more of them. That's how the Gladiolus grips the fancy.

It lends itself to decorative effects. The Gladiolus is clean-cut, definite. There is no sloppiness about it. It is upright, graceful yet strong like the brush strokes of an artist genius, not one misplaced or wasted.

Those who grow the Gladiolus find themselves depending on it more and more each year. It responds to your care with a lavish repayment in color and beauty. I urge you to plant a real selection this year. 'Twill repay you best of all you plant.

FRED O. WILDHAGEN

Think of going into your own garden, cutting a stalk with fifteen to twenty buds on it and to see every bud blossom into a flower four, five, or even six inches across! Never an Orchid in deepest jungle of Asia can surpass the Gladiolus at its best.

Gladiolus blooms from June to frost. You yourself may have them this way if you choose. Simply plant a succession. You never know how much you like Gladiolus till you see a great bed of your own in full bloom.

The Gladioli Book

—THE FLOWER BEAUTIFUL

How to Take Care of Gladiolus

DON'T be afraid to plant a good assortment. They are not at all hard to bring to bloom. Buy from one who makes a business of raising bulbs for the market. You will be better satisfied. Wildhagen Bulbs are solid, fully grown, and true to name.

When buying, do not select the largest bulbs; in fact, some varieties never grow big bulbs. See, rather, that the bulbs are well shaped, firm and well developed. A big soft bulb is a weak or worthless one.

Gladiolus does well in most soils, but should get the full sun. Make ready the soil as early as practicable. Do not use stable manure unless it can be applied in the fall and thoroughly worked into the soil in spring. Bone meal and lime are often used and should be well worked in.

In beds, plant bulbs four or five or six inches apart and hoe them well. You will be repaid with a blaze of gorgeous colors. Keep down the weeds.

For cut flowers, plant four to six inches deep, depending on size of bulb, and in rows eighteen inches apart. Three inches apart in the row is enough. Don't get them upside down! Many lovers of Gladiolus plant a succession from early spring till July.

Keep the weeds down, especially after the spike appears. The Gladiolus responds to plenty of water but does finely on short rations if the ground is kept thoroughly worked. If you use water, do it after sunset.

In the fall, when the leaves turn brown or the frost comes, dig the bulbs. You will find them nestled in a cluster of little bulbs. Cut the stalks right at the bulb. Cure in sun or a dry room. Keep in flat boxes or baskets 8 or 10 degrees above freezing if possible (40 degrees.)

CARE OF CUT FLOWERS

Your Gladiolus is your prize garden flower. But what a cut flower if you give it a chance! Cut a long spike, three or four feet, leaving a few leaves only on the bulb. Do this when the first bud opens; bring into the house and keep the old flowers picked off. Every bud will open. Every one will have its best color. There is no finer cut flower.

MASS PLANTING

Such wonderful color effects can be achieved by only a little care as to planting that we can not refrain from mentioning the opportunity you have. Imagine a bank of varieties on the pink order—from the Early Pink, Mrs. Keur, on up to the flaming Princeps or Mrs. Francis King. Then the orange and yellows, such a variety! If you dare, plant the red varieties, like Crimson Glow, War, or Miss Beecher and next to it the pure white of L'Immaculee, Peace, White Glory or Lily White.

Take your color chart (page 6) and try your hand. It will reward you handsomely.

The Gladioli Book

—THE FLOWER BEAUTIFUL

Life History of a Wildhagen Bulb

ALMOST anybody can raise Gladioli and bring them to bloom—if he has a good bulb to start with. And there's the difficulty. For the raising of sound, good, true-to-name Gladiolus bulbs is more than growing blooms. It's a science. It only comes after years of experience.

When you get a Wildhagen bulb you will find it solid, well-shaped and true-to-name. It will grow and furnish you blooms according to the kind you bought. That's what you have a right to expect.

Few people know how to raise Gladiolus bulbs for market.

It begins two years or more before your order comes in.

We plant the little black bulblets, using every possible precaution to avoid error. These baby bulbs are given every care in culture; a number of very important operations must be done here, just right at just the right time. The result is a crop of bulbs less than half inch up to one inch in size. These are the bulbs from which your bulbs are grown and if they were poor or weak you would receive poor, weak bulbs.

But right there is where our care and the facilities we have serve you.

The bulbs are dug early—but not too early—and cured with the greatest care. Next spring they are planted and in the fall your bulbs are harvested.

What then? Well, first they are cleaned, then cured in trays built for this purpose. Our curing room is 120 feet by 60 feet, and often is stacked with these trays to the ceiling. When the curing has progressed far enough the bulbs are cleaned and the curing finished. Next they go to the sorters. These are special machines made in Holland—by hand, I believe. They sort ten sizes at one time without bruising or breaking.

The bulbs are then stored till the orders are put up.

Can you imagine the opportunity for error all along these many varied operations? There might be but for an intense amount of personal supervision. On the other hand, the wholesale curing, storing and sorting give opportunities for doing each operation well, doing it thoroughly and very cheaply.

You will, perhaps, be surprised at the low prices for the quality of goods you receive. You will wonder how we can do it. The answer is, quantity production, plenty of room, and quality strains of Gladioli from the very beginning.

Let me suggest one thing: Early orders likely give the best satisfaction. While we have a very large stock, yet the very bulbs you want we might not have on hand, if you wait too long before sending your order. Do it early and you're sure to get just what you want and no delays.

Strawberries

YOU can find sufficient room in your garden or back lot to grow enough strawberries to supply your table in season with fresh, luscious strawberries, the juicy, sweet kind, and have enough to preserve for the winter use.

It is extravagant to buy your strawberries. Why not grow them? We here list four of our most reliable varieties of strawberries. They have proved to be all right in every way and we are positive that they will satisfy everyone who chooses to grow them. They are all heavy yielders of large attractive berries suitable for home use or market.

SENATOR DUNLAP (Per.)—The best known variety in the United States, because it bears well in all localities, producing large crops of good-sized marketable berries. It is very hardy, a good plant producer, and does well anywhere strawberries are grown. The berries are firm and solid, uniform in shape, and for canning, preserving, shortcakes, etc., they can't be beat. They are a rich, dark red color, often tipped with pink which makes them very attractive.

Price, $6.00 per 1,000, $3.50 per 500, $2.00 per 250, $1.00 per 100

DR. BURRILL (Per.)—This valuable new variety is a cross between the Senator Dunlap and the Crescent. The berries are larger than the Dunlap, a beautiful dark red color and of excellent flavor. It is one of the best all-round berries. A good plant maker, a big yielder of attractive berries, and does well on any soil.

Price, $7.00 per 1,000, $4.00 per 500, $2.50 per 250, $1.25 per 100

PROGRESSIVE (Per.)—This is the best and most fruitful everbearing strawberry and bears whether planted alone or with other varieties. Its berries resemble the Dunlap in shape and color, but have even a better flavor. When planted in your garden and given the proper care, you can have fresh strawberries from the first of August until frost.

Price, $2.00 per 100, $3.50 per 200

GIBSON (Per.)—Gibson commences to ripen with Senator Dunlaps, but owing to its great productiveness it continues till quite late. It is a strong grower, with long roots that withstand dry weather, has dark green foliage and lots of it. Berry is extra large and the vines are loaded with fruit. We advise all to try a few Gibsons this spring; you will be delighted with them.

Price, $6.00 per 1,000, $3.50 per 500, $2.00 per 250, $1.00 per 100

German Iris

NO WONDER they named the Iris after the rainbow! Its colors seem unlimited. The delicate blooms as large as your hand never fail to satisfy. Especially fine for permanent borders. Very hardy and will grow in almost any soil or place where the sun may reach them.

ALCAZAR—Very large, broad petals. Standard pale lilac blue with golden bronze throat; falls rich violet purple.

CANDELABRA—Light mauve dusted with violet. Falls perfectly limp with sharply defined veins converging to a solid blotch of almost black violet at the ends.

CAPRICE—Flowers large and rounded, rich rosy-lilac, a little darker in the falls, with the distinctive fragrance of bruised grapes.

ELDORADO—Fiery opalescent standards, and old gold falls splashed with burnt purple.

ISOLENE—Standards pale lavender; falls light purple over-laid brown beard yellow.

25c each, $2.50 per dozen

JEANNE D'ARC—A delicate, dainty sort; white with edges partly checked and scapes heavily suffused in violet.

25c each, $2.50 per dozen

LOHENGRIN—A soft shade of Cattleya rose, except for a weakening to almost white at the claws.

MAGNIFICA—Warm amber bronze, falls mahogany red, edged and sharply veined at base in yellow.

MAORI KING—Short and compact, very free. Standards rich golden yellow, closely incurved; falls velvety red-brown, distinctly feathered.

MONSIGNOR—The somberness of its darkly veined crimson purple color enlivened by gleaming violet rays in the standards.

25c each, $2.50 per dozen

Hardy Climbing Roses

VERY few vines give such an abundance of blossoms as the Climbing Roses. Again there is nothing in cultivation more beautiful and attractive. Surround your house and veranda, cover your pergola, screens, and fences with these famous Climbing Roses. The stock we offer is choice and will give entire satisfaction.

CRIMSON RAMBLER—Best known of the climbing roses and most popular; no need of describing its clusters of crimson flowers and many other virtues.

DOROTHY PERKINS—A splendid new shell-pink climbing rose. The flowers are borne in clusters of 30 to 40, and sometimes even 50 to 60. Large, very double, sweetly scented; a beautiful shell pink.

DR. W. VAN FLEET—The flowers when open run 4 inches and over in diameter, are a delicate shade of flesh-pink, full and double, with delicate perfume, and fine for cutting. The foliage is a peculiar shade of bronze-green, large and glossy. The variety is a vigorous grower, immune from mildew.

GARDENIA—A strong and vigorous grower, producing large, double flowers singly on the stems. Bright yellow in bud; when open, cream color. 3 to 4 inches in diameter. This plant blooms profusely and the fragrance is delightful. Glistening evergreen foliage. One of the best of this type.

EXCELSA (Red Dorothy Perkins)—The color is an intense, clear crimson-maroon, with tips of the petals tinged scarlet. Flowers are large and double.

HIAWATHA—Brilliant scarlet; bears large clusters of single flowers; bright, effective and useful for planting in masses.

SILVER MOON—The flowers run 4½ inches in diameter, clear silvery white in color, the centers filled with bright yellow stamens. It is very floriferous. The flowers are borne on strong stems, 12 to 18 inches long, and are delicately fragrant. Foliage bronze-green, glossy, and immune from mildew.

WHITE DOROTHY (New)—Pure white sport of Dorothy Perkins. A splendid companion for the pink variety, as it flowers at the same time.

Prices for any of the above named varieties, strong two-year-old, field grown plants, 75 cents each; $7.50 per dozen.

Pansy Seed

We are not in the seed business, but we happen to have a small surplus of Giant Flowering Pansy Seed from an unusually fine strain which we shall offer to our customers until our present stock becomes exhausted. This stock seems to be very vigorous, producing long-stemmed flowers of mammoth size.

Bulbs for Fall Planting

(Cannot be Supplied for Spring.)

When the snow has gone and the eye hungers for the first sign of Spring, nothing supplies so much satisfaction as a bed of bright colored, early-flowering Tulips. Tulips are easy to grow. The important thing is to cover with five inches of earth, and to provide good soil below in which the roots may develop. Varieties and prices differ greatly. We have selected a list of choice varieties which we offer to our customers. We supply only the strong, No. 1 bulbs.

Darwin Tulips

Too much cannot be said in praise of the Darwin class of Tulips. They excel in brilliancy of color, with perfectly formed, large flowers, and tall, strong stems. For striking effect, when planted in the border or in clumps amongst shrubbery, they cannot be excelled. Flowering as they do in May, they give a continuation of bloom after the Early Flowering Tulips have finished, right up to the time the peonies and other early flowering plants start to bloom.

Peonies

These superb flowers, so hardy and easy of culture, should be in every garden. They differ from the Iris in that they require several years before coming to their best, yet once established, thrive for many years without moving. They are perfectly hardy, requiring no protection even in the most severe climate.

While many are planted in spring, planting in September to November saves a year's time, and the root suffers less. A good rich soil is essential, using bone meal as a fertilizer, avoiding fresh manure. An important point to observe is that Peonies should not be planted too deep. Place the roots so that the crowns are covered with 2 inches of soil—no more.

We offer the following list of the best thoroughly tested varieties, 3 to 5 eye strong field grown roots, for convenience arranged under color and in the approximate order of blooming, earliest at the top.
