Regals Privet

Regals privet is the hardiest of all the Ligustrum family, we have a fine stock of these very desirable plants, they are very good for hedge in cold or exposed places where other kinds freeze out. Regals Privet will endure the cold blasts of winter time, and come out in the spring as pretty a green as ever. If you have a cold exposed place where a hedge or a group of bushes would look good, you can depend on this variety standing all the punishment the elements can mete out. This variety may be used informally as a hedge without trimming or pruning.

Hydrangea Hills of Snow

These are always satisfactory, they are easily raised and they thrive in any kind of soil. We have a great quantity of fine bushy plants, several years old at $1.00 and $2.00 each.
