SHERBROOKE'S ROSES

The World's Finest Varieties

It is now seventeen years since SHERBROOKE'S ROSES were first offered from my nursery then located at Cornelius, Oregon.

Many customers calling at the garden tell me that the roses they bought from me when I was "down in Oregon" are still flourishing and want more of the same splendid plants.

Cheap roses are usually worth just what is paid for them, require as much space and attention as my worth while plants which if treated right will produce prize winning blooms.

When comparing prices remember that there is scarcely an article of merchandise in which the quality may differ more widely than in rose plants and unfortunately the difference is not always manifested in appearance but in performance.

SHERBROOKE GARDENS are easy to find. Located two blocks up the hill from the old brick buildings in Kirkland, right on the highway (Lake Washington Blvd.) the place with the beautiful white lattice fence.

Visitors always welcome to inspect my Roses, Irises, Peonies, Glads, Oriental Poppies, Delphinium, St. Brigid Anemones and hardy perennials when in bloom. You will not be asked to leave an order, they speak for themselves if you are interested.

The World's Finest Roses Classification

T—Tea Rose. The original Tea rose came from China. They are delicately beautiful, profuse bloomers and fairly hardy.

H. T.—Hybrid Tea rose. Obtained by crossing Tea roses with the old hardy Hybrid Perpetual, retaining the vigor and hardiness of the H. P. with the free blooming qualities of the Tea rose. By far the most popular class.

H. P.—Hybrid Perpetual rose. Not perpetual so far as blooming is concerned though quite hardy and vigorous.

Noisette. Climbing and pillar roses.

Pernet.—Pernetiana rose, a new family obtained by crossing the Austrian Briar with other classes. Introduced by Mons. Pernet-Ducher of Lyons, France.

Own Root or Budded Stock—Which and Why?

When asked which is the better, no satisfactory reply can be made unless each variety is discussed individually.

Some varieties will not do well on their own roots. Lyons for instance and many others would be lost to our gardens if not budded on a stronger growing root stock.

On the other hand, several good varieties will not succeed long when budded on a foster stock. Sunburst at first was a failure on Manetti and was about to be discarded until it was learned that it should be grown on its own roots. Marechal Niel is a short lived plant when budded, cankering at the bud junction with the stock, so should be grown on its own roots.

We aim to grow such varieties as succeed well on their own roots, in nature's own way, ON THEIR OWN ROOTS, budding such varieties as flourish best on a suitable stock.

There are several stocks, Manetti, Multiflora, Rosa Canina, Ragged Robin, etc. Each is best—best for the variety that succeeds best on it.

All plants do not grow uniformly, some are vigorous, others short and stalky, so that price does not govern size in all cases, for instance a two year old plant of Caroline Testout, at 50 cents may be twice the size of some varieties listed at $1.50.

FIRST SIZE. Plants will be strong two year old field grown, pruned back for convenience in shipping.

SECOND SIZE. Also strong, thrifty, field-grown plants, larger and much superior to pot-grown stock of highest grade. In digging we aim to preserve all the roots so that our second size plants usually have better roots than heavier stock carelessly dug.

TERMS. Cash with order please. No C. O. D. orders will be sent out unless at least 25 per cent cash has been received before shipping.

Cultural Directions

LOCATION. Roses should be given the best location possible. They must have sunshine half the day in a well ventilated and well drained location away from trees and other shrubs. In his book on Rose culture, Dean Hole says, "No bough may darken, no drip may saturate, no roots may rob the rose."

SOIL. Give them the best you have, work it deeply and incorporate animal manure or commercial fertilizer in liberal quantities.

PLANTING. Make a hole to fit the roots and see that they are not twisted, bent or cramped or they will not be comfortable. If not comfortable they will not be happy. Allow the roots to go straight down in the most natural manner and sift pulverized soil between any that may cross each other. The plant should be set just a little deeper than when in the nursery row. Budded plants should be set with the union two inches or so below the surface. Firm the soil well about the roots in order to get immediate contact. Do not puddle them unless the soil is very dry.

MILDEW AND APHIDES are the most common pests. A solution of soluble sulphur diluted as directed on the can, adding a lump of Lifebuoy soap the size of walnut, to two gallons of water, will combat both mildew and aphids. Some growers report success by using sal soda one ounce dissolved in six quarts of water. Spray two or three days in succession, early in the morning before the sun is too hot and spray the ground about the base of plants also. The finger and thumb method of squashing aphids if resorted to in time is very effective.

CULTIVATION. Roses appreciate much attention and will not flourish if neglected. They must have moisture but not wet feet. Frequent cultivation is much better than continual splashing with the garden hose. "More hoes and less hose" is a good slogan.

PRUNING. March is the best time to prune. Long canes that thrash about in the winds should be shortened in the fall or securely tied. Remove all but newest canes, shorten these to an eye pointing outwards. The idea is to keep the center of bush open for free circulation of air, thus diminishing mildew troubles. Removing side buds will increase size and quality of bloom.

Sherbrooke's Superb Peonies

Have been growing peonies for over twenty years with increasing enthusiasm and now have one of the highest class selections of this superb flower in the western states.

The Peony is the hardiest of hardy perennials withstanding temperatures of 60 degrees below zero and has been known to bloom each year for over fifty-five years in the same spot without special care.

They should only be moved in early autumn and planted shallow with only two inches of earth over the crown eyes. Deeper setting and spring planting are mostly responsible for their not blooming. Large clumps should never be planted without first dividing the roots into well balanced divisions of from two to five eyes each, planting in fresh soil in which Peonies have never before been grown.

The figures preceding the name, represent the standard of perfection won in a voting contest conducted by the American Peony Society. Very few votes were from the Puget Sound section and as many varieties do much better here than in the eastern states, some of those with lower ratings are here equal to others with more favorable rating.

They must have a well drained soil with sunshine in order to flourish. Give them the best you have, a little clay or humus helps, but NEVER USE ANIMAL MANURE in planting peonies, bone meal and ground limestone with plenty of moisture at bloomig time will produce the finest peonies in the country.

PRIZE WINNING PEONIES

My Peonies won the SILVER MEDAL offered by the American Peony society, at the Rose Show, June 1927, for the most comprehensive exhibit of high quality.

One of my customers won nearly every premium offered in the amateur section, with blooms from roots purchased from my gardens, which means that Sherbrooke's Peonies are unsurpassed by any other dealer.

IRIS GERMANICA

(TALL BEARDED IRIS)

For many years I have made a specialty of growing Irises. What I offer now is a selection of the numerous varieties I have tried out.

The German or IRIS GERMANICA, is a rhizomous Iris blooming before Decoration Day. Many are very fragrant and should be planted in August or early autumn for best results.

The Dutch, Spanish and English Irises are bulbous irises blooming in the order name. Plant in the autumn four inches deep.

The Siberian and Japanese Irises are roots and should be planted in a damp sour place, using no lime whatever.

The Japanese Iris is the last to bloom late in June and when this is through blooming "School's out" for the season as far as the Iris family is concerned although the German Iris, Mrs. Allen Gray, usually gives a second crop of flowers late in the autumn.

There are almost as many Iris "Fans" or fanciers as there are Rose enthusiasts. The Iris is fast coming into its own and increasing in popularity as each season brings into bloom the wonderfully beautiful new creations of modern hybridizers.

Some folks call them "Flags," they were once, now they are Irises for an Iris is a flag with a college education.

They do not have to be taken up and replanted every fall but remain for five or more years where planted, increasing in size and profusion of bloom each year until they have exhausted the soil and become overcrowded, then they should be divided and reset in fresh loam.

Contrary to the usual belief, the bearded Iris requires a well drained location and will surely rot if given a soggy wet location.

Planting should be done in August or any month thereafter until April first, while the soil is in condition. In planting early we are assured of bloom the following season, planted late the plants may flourish satisfactorily but little bloom can be expected the first season.

Plant in well prepared soil in which a handful of ground limestone has been mixed but with no fresh manure near the roots. The roots straight down with the rhizomes not more than two inches below the surface, they seem to require a sun baking after flowering.

While budding and blooming they require plenty of moisture and shallow cultivation, after which let them dry out.

LIST OF VARIETIES

The figures before each name, indicate their standard of perfection as rated by a voting contest conducted by the National Iris Society recently. Some of the ratings are not satisfactory for this Puget Sound climate as some of those with a low rating are much better here than in the East where the contest was conducted and would score considerably higher here.

CONSIDER THE (Regal) LILIES

Garden enthusiasts are going daffy over Regal Lilies. Large trumpets, carmine pink outside, cream to yellow inside and deliciously fragrant.

Blooming size bulbs from 5 inches in circumference 25c. Larger sizes 35c and 50c producing 1 to 15 blossoms each.

Plant November to March, 4 to 6 inches deep in well drained fertile soil, no manure.

ANEMONE St. BRIGID (True Irish strain)

Roots planted in August, should bloom in November and keep it up all winter. During the cold snaps the flowers may freeze down but new buds soon take their places when weather moderates and make a gorgeous display in February and March when color is so lacking in the garden.

The roots are wretched looking things and resemble bits of dried up potato peelings fit for the garbage can. BUT disappointment will give way to delight when the wonderful poppy like flowers appear. Plant two inches deep in well drained rich soil, give plenty of moisture.

Mixed colors only $1.00 per dozen. Get them NOW.

TULIPS

EXTRAORDINARY MIXTURES. All colors and types, 50c doz., $3.50 per 100.

The foundation of this mixture was obtained from a young Oregon banker making Tulips his hobby. This mixture has since been "sweetened" and now contains some very unusual things in all types, Cottage, May flowering, Darwin, Picotee, Breeder and Bizarre.

Altogether a most unique assortment, much admired.

DELPHINIUM

English hybrids from several high class strains, Hoodacres, Wrexham, Pudor and others, some very "classy" stuff in these.

Plants from 15c to $1.00 each according to size and age. Send 50c per liberal packet.

GEUM

A very attractive hardy perennial. The flower looks like a red carnation at a distance, closer up it resembles a semi-double rose.

MRS. BRADSHAW. Brilliant orange crimson. Plants 10c to 25c each according to size and age.

LADY STRATHEDEN. Rich golden yellow. Large plants 25c each.

TERMS "CASH"

Some folks pay their bills promptly, some very tardily and others not at all. In order to protect the financing of my business and keep from going "broke", cash with order or before shipment is desired.

However, if required, orders will be sent C. O. D. if 25% is paid in advance
