This little pool and rock garden was three years old when the photograph was taken. It is 3 feet to 5 feet wide and 8 feet long. At the deepest point the water is 15 inches deep.

One small load of gravel and 6 bags of cement were used to make the concrete, which was reinforced with pieces of woven wire fencing.

It took two inexperienced men only 6 hours to dig out the basin and build the pool.

Building your own pool and rock garden is a great delight for those who have learned the joy of doing things themselves.

The Rock Garden Comes Into Vogue

ROCK GARDENING has a unique fascination about it. Thousands of people have been attracted to rock gardening in recent years and are looking for suggestions on what to plant in the garden.

Evergreens are essential in rock gardens. Dwarf varieties are best to use but any tree which is capable of being kept dwarfed by trimming is suitable. In this folder we are offering a collection of evergreens in small sizes at popular prices.

STYLES IN ROCK GARDENS

The term "Rock Garden" has come to mean any type of gardening which includes the use of rocks. They vary in extent, from those a few square feet in size to those in acres in extent. They may or may not include the use of water or small pools but the latter adds a great deal to the interest of such gardens.

The most attractive rock gardens are those which have been made to look natural. That is the secret of rock gardening. Arrange the rocks in a natural way and you have made a most important step to insure a pleasing garden. A rock garden is particularly suitable for use in small areas. It is the most intimate type of gardening because the gardener learns to know his plants and watch their growth and development much more than in any other type of gardening.

Up to the present time, no small evergreens have been available which would correspond in size or character to perennials. If you are a rock garden enthusiast you will recognize the opportunity that you have here, to secure an interesting addition to your rock garden and at a low expense. Read the full terms of our offer.

The collection will be shipped in early Spring, from April 1st to May 15th.
