Special Collection of Tulips

Plan of Border Illustrated on Opposite Page

FOR those people who are particular about color arrangement in their garden, or who want us to suggest a fine and harmonious collection, we have made a planting plan of the garden illustrated on the opposite page. All the varieties used in this planting are now greatly reduced in price and we strongly advise you to buy this year rather than at a future time. A planting like this is good for at least three years without you having to replant the bulbs. Send your order at once, please, and do not wait until late this fall; by then we may be sold out. This happens so often.

SPECIAL COLLECTION OFFER

10 BULBS of each of the above 12 named varieties (120 bulbs), packed separately $5.00

25 BULBS of each of the above 12 named varieties (300 bulbs), packed separately 11.70

50 BULBS of each of the above 12 named varieties (600 bulbs), packed separately 23.40

A CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

WE FEEL that we did not emphasize the fact of price reduction strongly enough in the catalogue we mailed you some few weeks ago, and therefore want to call your attention again to a list of Tulips that are a great bargain. We are giving the names with the low prices attached, and if you have not already ordered some of these bulbs do it at once before we are sold out! The same low prices were given in our regular bulb catalogue but these sorts being placed between higher priced varieties may have escaped your attention.

REGAL LILY

Its History and Future

Introduced into America during 1911 by E. H. Wilson, V. M. H.

1 1 1

N MARCH, 1910, Mr. E. H. Wilson, or "Chinese" Wilson, as his friends call him, left Boston, Mass., for Europe. He crossed Europe and reached Peking, China, by way of the Trans-Siberian Railway early in May. From Peking he traveled by devious routes across China to Sungpang Ting, in the northern part of China, where he arrived the end of August. To mysterious Tibet for a Lily—over wild mountains, through a country peopled mainly by strange tribes—folk of unknown origin, there in narrow, semi-arid valleys, where in summer the heat is terrific, in winter the cold intense, and at all seasons these valleys are subject to sudden and violent wind-storms against which neither man nor beast can make headway. There, in the most unlikely and impossible places, he went for the Regal Lily, for there it grows, not in twos and threes, but in tens of thousands.

Arrangements were made to have some six thousand bulbs sent out during October, after which the return journey was begun to Chengtu Fu. On the return trip, Mr. Wilson met with a serious accident. His caravan encountered a rock-slide, something very common in that region, and a rock broke his right leg in two places. His chair was turned over and into the river. With the legs of his camera tripod, splints were made, the chair salvaged, and the men started again on their journey to Chengtu Fu. They made it in three days, three agonizing days for Mr. Wilson. At Chengtu Fu it was discovered that the leg had become infected, but after six or seven weeks, and with the help of the distinguished French Army Surgeon, Dr. Mouillac, infection was stayed. Mr. Wilson's leg is now crooked and about an inch short, but he got his Regal Lily bulbs, had them packed in clay and charcoal, and shipped at silk rates to Boston, where they arrived a few days after himself. It was a big price to pay but the Regal Lily was worth it.

Here ends the wonderful work done by Mr. Wilson, but the work of the American nurserymen then began. It was hard to obtain a few bulbs for propagating at first, and it took a number of years of building up stocks, but now our troubles are over also, for we have several hundred thousand Regal Lilies in all sizes growing at Wayside Gardens where in June the air is filled with their marvelous fragrance. Many a bride could we satisfy with the choicest of flowers for her great day.

At Wayside Gardens, in Mentor, is now growing the largest planting of this wonderful Lily in America. Flowering bulbs are available at a very low price this autumn. Rather than withhold this wonderful Lily from the public any longer and sell a few large bulbs at high prices, we have decided to offer strong flowering-size bulbs at less than one-third the price you have been paying, so that you may plant them in bold groups in your garden or naturalize them in your own meadow where they will glitter like jewels, not just for one year, but forever!

"Her Majesty—the Regal Lily"—E. H. W.

SPECIAL OFFER

Lilium Regale (Myriophyllum)

Commonly known as the REGAL or ROYAL LILY

DESCRIPTION. A vigorous grower with sturdy stem 4 to 6 feet high, densely covered with long, linear-lanceolate foliage. Center of flower flushed with yellow, shading to white at the outer edges; externally the flowers are streaked with brown on the "ribs," shaded through the almost translucent petals with a delightful pearly tint; the contrast between the rich wine color of the reverse of the petals and the gold shading of the throat is extraordinarily beautiful.

CULTURE. Plant in September, October, November, March, and April. Fall planting is preferred but spring planting is almost as good. Set bulbs 4 to 5 inches deep, in any soil not too wet, either in light shade between plants and shrubs or in full sun in the border. By any soil we mean just what we say. Regal Lily grows everywhere, in sand or hard clay, in loam, in gravelly soil, anywhere providing it is not too wet.

Specially Priced for Mass Garden Planting or Naturalizing

Hundreds of letters have we received requesting us to sell good flowering-size bulbs now at a fair price in preference to waiting for the largest bulbs at high prices. We are therefore offering for as long as our stock of these bulbs holds out

REGAL LILY FLOWERING BULBS

10 bulbs for $2
100 bulbs for $18

25 bulbs for $5
1,000 bulbs for $150

Remember, this offer is made for as long as unsold. Every bulb guaranteed to grow and backed with the reputation of Wayside Gardens. Therefore please order at once!

Picture a field of Regal Lilies on your own grounds—not for one season, but forever!
