Lawler's Bulbs

To Our Many Friends ~

WE take pleasure in presenting to you our new Fall catalog. In it we offer a select assortment of bulbs for Fall planting. Besides the best of standard sorts and varieties, we offer some rare and unusual subjects.

Wish to especially call your attention to our stock of English, Spanish, Siberian, and Dutch Iris. We are practically the only ones propagating and growing these beautiful flowers in this country. They are not difficult to grow and make an unusual as well as beautiful display in your garden.

Time and effort are never spared that only stock of superior quality be produced. Backed by a personnel of long experience together with prompt and careful service, assures you of securing the very best obtainable when you place your order with us.

An invitation is extended to you to visit our gardens during the blooming season. There is no formality of admission and you will not be obligated to buy.

All prices quoted include postal or express charges, unless otherwise stated.

In case of error or dissatisfaction of any kind, please notify me immediately so that proper adjustment may be made.

Cash or satisfactory references must accompany all orders.

DISCLAIMER

There are so many causes for failure over which I have no control that I can assume no responsibility after stock is delivered in good order. Poor soil, unfavorable weather, improper or careless culture, will contribute to failure, and are all beyond my control. For these reasons I do not warrant in any way, express or implied, the contents, description, quality, productiveness, or any other matter, of any seeds and bulbs sold by me, and I will not be in any way responsible for the crop. If the purchaser does not accept the goods on above terms, no sale is made, and he must return them at once and money will be refunded.

How to Plant Bulbs

Plant all Fall bulbs as soon as they can be secured.

Drainage is essential. Dig the soil deeply—18 inches if possible. Pulverize and, if heavy, place a cushion of sand under the larger bulbs, especially lilies.

Use no barnyard manure unless it can be spaded into the ground the Spring previous to planting. Bonemeal is the only safe fertilizer and should be used freely.

If planting with a dibber, take care that the bulb rests on the soil and is not "hung"—that is, left with a hole beneath it caused by the point of the dibber.

Lilies, especially the Japanese varieties, usually arrive too late to be planted before November. Cover the place selected for them with a heavy mulch so the ground will not freeze and plant the lilies at once when received. If the ground is frozen, wait until Spring and plant as early as the ground can be worked.

Depth Bulbs Should be Planted

Many of our customers are frequently puzzled to know the proper depth and distance apart at which bulbs should be planted. The accompanying diagram conveys the information much more clearly and briefly than any description could. The chart will bear careful study. Outdoor planting should be done early in the Fall to secure healthy plants, vigorous foliage, and beautiful flowers.

Plant bulbs, as a rule, one and a half times their depth; early tulips, 4 to 5 inches deep; the larger late tulips, 5 to 6 inches deep; narcissus and hyacinths, 5 to 6 inches deep; lilies, 6 inches deep; crocuses, 4 inches deep; and small bulbs, 2 inches deep.

Mulch late-planted bulbs after the ground freezes, to keep it frozen and prevent thawing and heaving.

Holland Bulbs for Winter Blooming

Unlike a fad, the forcing of Holland bulbs for Winter blooming becomes a delightful habit.

To pot in the Fall your favorite varieties and colors of Tulips and Hyacinths, place them in a cool, dark corner of your cellar, and "bring them into the light" as you want them, is particularly interesting.

To watch the foliage develop, the buds appear and finally behold Tulips, Hyacinths and Narcissi in all their magnificence as though the very spirit of Spring had come to your home, while outside perhaps a snowstorm holds its sway, would almost enthrall the coldest nature.

HOW IT IS DONE. The bulbs should be potted in the Fall as soon as received, and placed in a dark, cool corner of the cellar, after having received a thorough watering. This darkness, coolness and dampness will cause the bulbs to make roots and by keeping the soil moist (not wet), the pots will gradually be filled with roots and the bulbs begin to make some top growth.

BRING UPSTAIRS. As soon as the roots come through the bottom hole of the pot in a mat, the plants can be brought upstairs to be forced into bloom. The sun parlor is an ideal place for them. The more time you give the bulbs to make roots, the better results you obtain.

FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS. It is not necessary to bring all pots up at once; you may leave them in their dark place as long as you want, thus enabling you to regulate your supply in the home and have plenty of flowers for special occasions, if desired.

POTTING. Ordinarily you can plant eight Tulips in a 6-inch pot and four Daffodils in the same size pot. The bulbs can be set close together. Use good garden soil, no fertilizer is required. Plant the bulbs so that the tops are covered with just about half an inch of soil. Leave a 3/4-inch rim to allow for proper watering.

WHAT TO FORCE. Hyacinths and Single Early Tulips can be had in bloom earlier than Double Early, Darwin, Breeder or Cottage Tulips. Narcissi and Daffodils come with Single Early Tulips and Hyacinths. Darwin, Breeder and Cottage Tulips should be brought upstairs around the middle of February, while the others can be taken up from the first of January, according to the condition of their roots. Although Tulips, Hyacinths and Narcissi are the main items to force indoors, Crocuses, Grape Hyacinths, Scillas, Snowdrops, Freesias, etc., can be treated the same way.

THE ECONOMY OF IT. Not considering the esthetic value of the plan, there is a great saving in forcing your own bulbs. Besides you can pot up your favorite varieties without depending upon what happens to be available elsewhere.

Bulbous Iris

The Lovely "Orchids of the Garden"

These lovely flowers planted in groups in protected spots in the mixed border or rock garden are very distinctive and charming. As an early flower for cutting they are unsurpassed, perhaps unequalled by any other flower. As they may be set quite close together, they are ideal for planting in a frame for early cutting. While the bulbs are small, they give a much better display if not crowded, and produce a stem and flower much larger than the size of the bulb would indicate. Early planting is essential, that a well developed root system will help take them safely through the Winter and give fine flowers the following Spring. They follow tulips, unfurling their buds in May and June.

"As strikingly beautiful in color as many of the sumptuous orchids."

Spanish·Dutch·English Iris

Please do not think of the "Flag Lily," or German Iris, but of a wonderful "Garden Orchid" that grows from a true bulb just as do tulips—not from root divisions—hence a different Iris. Hardy; Fall planting. A planting of Iris Bulbs will make your garden a distinctive one—different, finer, better. Nothing equals the Bulbous Iris for cutting. They can be shipped across the continent when cut in the bud.

Japanese Iris (Iris Kaempferi)

There are few handsemer flowers than good Japanese Iris. They are the last to bloom and usually end the general display of Irises. They have a wonderful variety of coloring and variation in number of petals, though the colors may be included in about half a dozen general types. The plants form strong clumps, attaining a height of 2 to 3 feet, and bearing several flower stems with several blossoms to the stem. The leaves are slender, erect and numerous. They begin flowering in the latter part of June and continue through July. They do best in rich garden loam, and while they desire abundant moisture when flowering, prefer a well drained situation. A wonderful addition to your garden distinctly different from any other Iris.

(Doubles have six or more petals. Singles have three petals).

Indoor Gardens

Nearly every one is familiar with the ease with which the Paper-White Narcissus can be brought into bloom; growing the other bulbs adapted for indoor culture is no more trouble. The main requirements are a cool, dark place, they should be left in the dark for a longer period than Paper-Whites and they cannot, with the exception of the Roman Hyacinths, be grown in pebbles. If Bulb Fibre is used, bowls or jardinières may be substituted for pots. They should be kept at a temperature of not over 55 to 60 degrees when brought to the light.

Paper-White Narcissus

Last year we offered American grown Paper-White Narcissus for the first time. Many of our customers had excellent success, while some reported results that were not satisfactory particularly with those which were started very early and brought on quickly. After making extensive trials, we have contracted for our bulbs this year from a source that we feel sure will produce blooms to your entire satisfaction. We would, however, advise that you delay planting until mid-September, leave in the dark for a longer period and grow in a very cool room.

In planting cover the bulbs about three-fourths way with pebbles, for if placed on top their roots will soon push the bulbs too far out; water and place in a cool dark place for at least a month. Large bulbs, 10c each; $1.00 per 10; $7.00 per 100. Extra large bulbs, 15c each; $1.25 per 10; $9.00 per 100.

Keizerskroon. Yellow Queen.

Tulips

Next to Daffodils the most popular Spring flowers are the Tulips. First come the Single Early varieties which bloom around the first of May. As the season advances, other classes burst into flower, closing with a gorgeous display by the late Darwins. No garden ever has too many Tulips, and a modest investment in bulbs will pay big dividends in garden pleasure.

Breeder Tulips

Breeder Tulips are almost identical to Darwins except as to color. They are about the same height and size, and bloom at about the same time.

Darwins are mostly pink, red, lilac, violet, and purple in color, which in the Breeders are found buff-yellow, bronze, mahogany, and velvety purple. There are no yellow Darwins, but yellow is often the ground color in the Breeder class.

Darwin Tulips

Darwin Tulips are strongly recommended for garden decoration in beds, as well as groups in the herbaceous border and among shrubs. As cut flowers they are valuable at a time when our gardens yield little for the decoration of our rooms. They bloom during the middle of May and remain in good condition a long time. By forcing in pots they may be had in bloom in February or even a little earlier. Most varieties are improved in color by protection under glass or canvas.

Hyacinths

For outdoors they are most dependable, and indoors in pots most always a success. Plant outdoors in the Fall 6 to 8 inches deep in a rich sandy loam soil for the best results. For indoors, pot up the bulbs in October or November, bury the pots outdoors and cover with straw. About Christmas start bringing them in. Give subdued light at first and not too warm a room. The bedding size is large enough for outside planting but larger bulbs should be used for forcing indoors.

Three Sizes

EXHIBITION SIZE. These are the heaviest bulbs obtainable. They produce a mammoth flower. For outdoor planting in beds they are rather costly and often the stems are too weak to support the extra heavy flowers. Exhibition size is mostly used for forcing.

BEDDING SIZE. This is a very popular size which gives unusually fine results for forcing indoors or outdoor planting. The flowers are smaller than those of Exhibition size, but are often more graceful.

MINIATURE HYACINTHS. These are the 3-year-old bulbs, which are easily forced and largely grown for Winter flowering. Five to six bulbs can be potted in a 6-inch pot. Their flower spike is loose, set with small, neat bells. A highly charming decoration in pots, pans or fiber. Planted in drifts between shrubs they are also very attractive.

Anemones, Tuberous

The flowers of these have large brilliant crowns in shades of blue, red, pink and white, on stems 8 to 12 inches long, and make a most excellent cut flower. Where climate permits plant in the early Fall for early Spring bloom, but in the cold northern states either plant late in the Fall so that no growth of foliage will be made before Winter sets in or else store in dry sand and plant out early in the Spring. Do not confuse these with the herbaceous Anemone Japonica.

Ranunculus

These gorgeously beautiful tuberous-rooted subjects with their quaint miniature, dahlia-like roots, except in the South and on the coast, require either frame culture or early Spring planting. Plant in a frame and protect with dry leaves or mats or else store in dry sand and plant out in the Spring in richly manured ground about 2 inches deep. Avoid a very hot position.

	10	100
Giant French. Mixed colors	$0.75	$5.00

Montbretia

Plant as early as possible in Spring, and where the bulbs may have full sunlight. The bulbs may be set in groups 4 to 5 inches apart or in straight rows about 2 to 3 inches apart, covering the bulbs with about 4 inches of soil. Cultivate during the Summer. The blooming period is in late Summer and early Fall. After the foliage has been killed by frost the bulbs may be removed and stored in a cool cellar, covering with dry sand. In milder climates the bulbs may be left in the bed, provided they are well covered with litter. Plant the bulbs immediately or store them in a cool place until planting time.

Scilla Campanulata

(Wood Hyacinth)

Grown on good ground these bulbs will produce magnificent spikes up to 2 feet tall. The flowers and foliage closely approach the Hyacinth. They are strong growers, do well in both full sun and partial shade. Are often planted in clumps at the base of trees. Is excellent in the rock garden, and is not excelled for the wild garden and for naturalizing. Plant in the Fall. Blooms in May.

Scilla Sibirica

(The Siberian Squill)

These are early flowering and connect the flowering of the crocuses with that of the Narcissi. When planted they should be left undisturbed for years. Are fine for naturalizing under trees or in the open. Should be planted in clumps of a dozen or more in the border or on a rockery. The drooping bell-like flowers are a bright blue on stems 3 to 4 inches in height. Plant 3 inches deep.

Snowdrops

(Galanthus)

The daintiest little flower of early Spring. Its graceful, pure white bells, tipped with green, are produced in February and March. Prefers cool, shady location. Plant in the Fall, 3 to 4 inches deep.

Snowflake

(Leucojum)

They bear dainty, nodding bells on a long stem. The white segments are tipped with a spot of green. Excellent for cutting. Plant in well drained, light soil, 2 inches deep in bold clumps to be effective. Lovely in rock garden. $1.00 for 10; $7.00 for 100.

Eranthis Hyemalis

(Winter Aconite)

Produces bright yellow Buttercup-like flowers about 3 inches above the ground as early as the Snowdrop. A whorl of bright green foliage serves as a cup for the solitary flower. Planted fairly shallow a clump of a dozen or so will make a bright spot of color. Likes a moist shady position under trees or at the base of a rockery. 50c for 10; $3.50 for 100.

Ixias

These tiny bulbs produce long wiry stems and gorgeously colored flowers. In northern gardens they require a greenhouse or frost-proof sun parlor. Potted in October about a dozen to a 6-inch pot and grown in a moderately warm temperature they will blossom in February.

	10	100

Chionodoxa—Glory-of-the-Snow.

Chionodoxa

(Glory-of-the-Snow)

These might be called Blue Snowdrops, for they are small and extremely early. They are easy to grow and seed freely. Luciliae bears larger and paler blue flowers than Sardensis which has brilliant gentian-blue flowers. Luciliae has a white center. They are splendid for rockeries and in clumps in the border.

Lilies

Most lilies do better when planted in the Fall but they are ready for shipment only after cold weather has reached many northern states. A good plan is to mulch well the places where you wish to plant, keeping the frost out of the ground until your bulbs arrive.

Some varieties may be planted in the Spring. These have been marked with a star (*).

The lilies listed have been selected for their beauty, their ease of cultivation and for a succession of bloom through the Summer and early Autumn. All varieties listed have proven hardy in the climate of New York City.

Umbellatum. One of the earliest lilies blossoming in June. Very free flowering with large umbellate heads of orange-red. A clump is effective anywhere and a large bed is striking. Height, 2 feet. Stem rooting. Plant 8 inches deep. Bulbs ready September.

Lilium Umbellatum.

Candidum. Known also as Madonna, Annunciation or St. Joseph Lily. The best known of all lilies and possibly the oldest in existence. It will thrive in all kinds of soil and endures lime and full sunshine. Two inches of soil over the top of the bulbs is sufficient. August and September planting is to be preferred. Base rooting. Height, 3 to 4 feet. Flowers in June-July. Pure white with golden stamens and pleasant fragrance. Bulbs ready in August. Delphinium is a most pleasing and effective companion plant.

LILIES—Continued.

Lilium Regale (The Regal Lily). This wonderful lily is now the most popular of all lilies in America. Without doubt it is one of the finest and should find a place in every garden. It is most vigorous in growth, perfectly hardy and thrives best in rich leafy loam, but will grow anywhere that is well drained. The flower stems are slender and flexible but very strong and from 3 to 5 feet tall, covered with dense narrow foliage. It bears a profusion of funnel-shaped blooms; the outside ribs are brown, shading to pink, then white. Inside the golden throat shades off to pure white at the outer edges. The fragrance is delightful. Blooms in July, has stem roots. Plant 8-10 inches deep. Bulbs ready in September.

A PLANTING OF Ten Thousand Daffodil Bulbs IN THE WOODLANDS

DOESN'T this inspire a desire to beautify your woodlands a bit this Fall? Bluebells of Scotland, and Daffodils as well, will flaunt their gay colors in greeting to Spring—even before the new grass has lost its tender green—because the fortunate owner of this lovely woodland used a little forethought and planted the bulbs of these earliest Spring flowers. To brighten the Spring landscape of your tree parks, the bulbs should be planted not later than September in our northern latitude. AS PERMANENT AS THE TREES, and as hardy—freezing does not hurt them.

Per bushel
of 35 pounds

An Offering of Lawler's Naturalizing
Mixture of Daffodil Bulbs at $35

This mixture contains early, late and midseason varieties—planned to make the blooming season longer—kinds best adapted for growing wild in the meadows and woodlands.

HOW TO PLANT. Lift the turf with a long-handled spade and before removing the spade throw some bulbs under; then remove spade, letting the soil fall on the bulbs, after which stamp the earth firmly over the bulbs. Plant now. Blooms next Spring.
