Joerg's Novelties in Gladioli

FAIR GIRL. A delicate shade of blush pink, toning to almost pure white with lavender veins. Lower petals are mottled and veined with purple.

Each 25c.

FIREGLOW. A flower of beautifully rounded petals moulded into beautiful outline. Petals are bright rose at margins delicately blending to blush, thence to pure white in the throat. Lower petals show a scarlet disc in the throat with a distinct yellow band across the center.

Each 20c.

FURNACE. A beautiful salmon-orange Seedling of Concolor with a crimson scarlet throat, mottled with orange-yellow. The brilliancy of the contrast of these shades is remarkable and quite distinct as a new color.

Each 25c.

HYDE PARK SUNSET. One of the most brilliant Gladioli we have ever seen. It is clear dazzling orange-scarlet, mottled with deep scarlet and orange in the throat. Where bright color is wanted, nothing can equal this for a border or cut flower.

Each 20c.

DELIGHTED. 1929. One of our most promising introductions for 1931. Flowers are creamy white, later turning to pure white, with a most fascinating tint of fawn yellow in the throat, veined crimson, blue anthers. Petals have a tough leathery texture. Flowers all facing one way in a huge sturdy spike. A splendid exhibition variety.

Each 25c.

DEAREST, Ruffled. A glorious flower of the most delicate tints. The ground color is a flesh pink blending through salmon to a rich pink at the tips, mottled and striped with crimson. The throat is yellowish and striped violet. Petals broad and overlapping, beautifully crimped and crinkled. Flowers large and open, evenly spaced, all facing one way, vigorous growth.

Each 50c.

NOBLESSE. A milky white bloom, showing the faintest suspicion of blush; in the young state, it may be called a blush pink. Flowers are large and borne in a huge spike, all seem to open simultaneously which is a distinct advantage in Gladioli. Petals have a delicate shell-like texture.

Each 20c.

SUNSPOT. A flower of gorgeous brilliancy, showing a lovely blend of brilliant scarlet, and salmon in the throat. A violet vein runs down the center of the lower petals. Flowers evenly and thickly placed to form a huge compact spike.

Each 20c.

WHITE HALLEY. Has all the characteristics of the well-known favorite, but the flowers are almost pure white, showing the pinkish blush shade on the outer third of the petals. A flower of very delicate coloring but a strong and prolific bloomer; will eventually become a prominent commercial variety for cutting.

Each 10c.; dozen, $1.00.

JOERG'S "YELLOW PRIM." The flowers are extremely large, wide open, without that "hooded" appearance of the old Primulinus types. With the ever-increasing popularity of this highly decorative class, we believe "Yellow Prim" will be accepted as a remarkable meritorious improvement to the class.

Each 10c.; dozen, $1.00.

JOERG'S WHITE PRIM. The plant inherits the typical light graceful spike of the Primulinus family, while the flowers, of perfect Primulinus form, are of the purest snow-white. The lower petals are pale yellow down in the throat, with the faintest rose veinings.

Each 25c.

GEORGE J. JOERG. Is a brilliant flower, the bud being at first intense carmine-scarlet, toning out as it develops into a beautiful rich salmon-pink. Each petal has a distinctly blanched central rib, the lower petal shows a perfect triangular tongue of creamy yellow, the apex to the front, the base passing abruptly to a rich firey scarlet zone with a central deep crimson-maroon blotch.

Each 30c.

JOERG'S FAVORITE. A most uncommonly handsome seedling, particularly for those who adore brilliant art colorings. The ground color is a pale cream, feathered and splashed with bright crimson veins and blotches, a remarkable blend when contrasted with the bright orange throat.

Each 35c.

JOERG'S ARLENE. A most uncommon color in Gladioli and bound to be pleasing to the ladies. The ground is a uniform pale rose-pink shading in the throat to a pale flesh-pink, with deep crimson base. The lower petals are marked on the inner two-thirds with a bright, velvety, crimson-scarlet zone, which extends clear across the petal in a semi-circular form and extends way down into the throat. The petals are round and overlap to form a full flower of beautiful outline.

Each 25c.; dozen, $2.50.

JOERG'S WHITE. The lower flower on this spike measured 5½ inches across. It is of the purest glistening snow-white. Five petals in each flower show no other color whatsoever. The lower petal shades to a creamy yellow in the throat, with light crimson veinings.
