and NEW Varieties.

Newer Varieties Added

We have added more than one hundred varieties to this, our 1922 list, and we have selected from those that we have been testing.

You will notice that the price at which we offer these newer varieties is only a fraction of what they were sold for two or three years ago.

Hundreds of new varieties are being sold that are not as good as some of the older ones.

We are glad to do a favor to our friends and old customers by selecting those varieties that show real merit and discarding the rest.

Most of the bulbs we sell are grown from seedlings and one year old bulbs and are therefore young, vigorous, and full of life.

A large proportion of the two year old bulbs like we sell are about one inch in diameter. These usually give as good or better results than the larger older bulbs.

You will notice the figure (1/2) after the price of most varieties. This signifies that we sell this size at half the regular price.

The size (1) shows that we can spare hundreds of that variety.

Modern Gladiolus Growing

There has been such a wonderful advance made in the gladiolus that many who knew it only as it grew in mother's garden, fail to recognize it, as they gaze on an exhibit of the large and gorgeous colored flowers.

It has been so much improved by the intelligent work of the plant breeders that we now have all colors of the rainbow. In flower and habit of growth it resembles the exquisite lily, and in the shades and tints of color, it is as beautiful as the expensive orchid, but unlike the lily and the orchid, gladiolus can be successfully grown in an ordinary garden.

No other flower gives so much satisfaction at small expense. It does not make a litter by falling to pieces, and it is well adapted to the sick room, having no oppressive odor.

Varieties differ in many ways besides in colors. The earliest will bloom six weeks before the latest. Some varieties never produce large bulbs and others produce bulbs four inches in diameter. Some grow eighteen inches and others more than five feet high.

Gladiolus culture should be a good business for women who need pin money as well as pure air and exercise. I have in mind a lady who has made a great success of growing and selling gladiolus and her yearly income now amounts to thousands of dollars.

YOUNG VIGOROUS BULBS

The prospective grower should be sure that he is getting young planting stock. The old, large bulbs are almost worthless for propagating, although they may produce fine flowers for a few years before deteriorating. Bulbs two years from the bulblet are usually best for flowers. Yearlings are best for bulblets and will usually all bloom except the smallest sizes.

Bulbs $\frac{3}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch in diameter are often a year younger and will produce spikes of flowers nearly as large as the large bulbs. We sell these medium sized bulbs at half the regular price in all varieties after which you find the mark $\frac{1}{2}$. By ordering this size you can have about twice as many flowers for the same expense.

PLANTING

Gladiolus will do well on any soil that will produce a good crop of corn or potatoes. A sandy loam is best, and a heavy clay the poorest. I have had good success on heavy soil by covering the bulbs lightly with sand before leveling the ground. Care should be taken that no fresh manure come in contact with the bulbs. They may be planted any time in the spring when the soil is in good condition. Large bulbs may be planted as late as the first of July and most of them will bloom before frost. Large bulbs should be planted five inches deep and the smaller ones in proportion to their size up to two inches deep for the smaller sizes and bulblets. In heavy soil they should not be planted quite so deep. Many make the mistake of not planting them deep enough.

Remember that the new bulb always grows above the old bulb that you plant, and that the soil is loose at planting time and will settle.

We make our rows thirty inches apart and leave one inch of space between the bulbs. Bulbs one inch or more in size should be placed right side up, and smaller sizes may be placed in any position.

When planted where they cannot be cultivated with a horse, the rows should be fifteen inches apart. In good average garden soil 100 bulbs may be planted in a bed five feet square or a row twenty-five feet long.

CULTIVATING

Your success depends more on the cultivation you give your glads than on most anything else you can do. Do not wait until you can see the weeds. A common garden rake is perhaps the best cultivator for a small planting in the garden if used often enough to keep the soil loose and fine. You will be well repaid for the extra care you give your glads during the growing season.

If you hill up the rows two or three inches when they are a foot or more high, it will help to hold the spikes in an upright position when in bloom.

Cultivation should be continued once a week until after the blooming season, and also as soon after each rain as the soil will permit. This destroys the weeds when the seeds are germinating and creates a dust mulch to conserve the moisture.

CUTTING

If the spike is cut when the first flower is fully open it will bloom in the vase for a week or longer if the weather is cool. Each morning the water should be changed, the withered blooms removed, and an inch or more cut from the base of each spike. They usually bloom better in the vase than in the hot sun and wind in the garden.

Cutting the spike off will not harm the new bulb for the next season if you are careful to not remove any more of the foliage than necessary. The more foliage you can leave the better your new bulb and bulblets will develop. The formation of seeds retards the growth of the bulb. The tops should be cut off above the foliage when they are done blooming in the garden. We growers who pride ourselves on growing high quality bulbs cut out many of the tops before blooming.

HARVESTING AND STORING

The bulbs are dug in the fall after the tops ripen or are killed by freezing. The tops are cut or broken off just above the bulb, and the bulbs are put two or three inches deep in crates to cure. A small quantity may be stored in a market basket and placed on a shelf or hung from a joist in the cellar.

The old shriveled bulb and roots can be easily pulled from the new bulb after they cure for a few weeks. This work can be done during the winter or at any time before planting. They must be kept dry and where they will not freeze. A temperature from 32 to 40 degrees is best.

WE SELL BULBLETS

If you want plenty of flowers at little expense, it will pay you to plant bulblets. If you will give them good care and cultivation, and wait until the second year, most of them will bloom. We do not advise you to buy bulblets of expensive varieties until you have had some experience in growing from bulblets. Some of the new varieties are sold at a high price because they are new and scarce and are not as good as some of the older varieties that are plentiful and cheap. Some of them have very small bulblets and sell for their weight in gold. Some are very hard to germinate and it is necessary to remove part of the hard shell of each bulblet, or stratify them in sand until they sprout before they are planted. Most of the standard varieties and especially the Primulinus Hybrids germinate easily, but if they have become very dry, they should be soaked in warm water two or three days before planting. Do not plant more than two inches deep. An average of not more than half the bulblets we plant germinate the first season. Many of them that did not germinate will grow better the next season if carefully saved and planted again.

We can spare them by the 100 or 1000 of many of the best standard varieties, but of some of the new varieties only in small quantities.

We will quote prices if you will write and mention the names of the varieties and how many of each you will want.

By referring to our list you will see that in many cases we have made the retail price almost as low as the wholesale price when you consider the cost of postage and packing.

We sell some varieties for less than half the price charged by some others. We can do this because we do not issue an expensive catalog and we grow our own bulbs. Our customers do not have to pay for fine pictures and expensive advertising.

We know from long experience that a pleased customer is the best advertisement: therefore we always guarantee satisfaction and include many bulbs gratis in proportion to the size of the order.

WHOLESALE PRICES

If you buy bulbs in large quantities you are entitled to wholesale prices and should write to Brightside Gladiolus Gardens, R. 3, Albert Lea, Minn. and get wholesale list of about 15 of the new and standard varieties that are grown on our farm there in large quantities.

We grow all varieties offered in this list here at Independence, Iowa, and frequently have a surplus of some but not enough of each to include in wholesale list.

We will gladly quote special prices on these to those who wish to plant 25 or more of each variety. When writing please state number and size of each variety wanted.

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

The prices per dozen or each include prepayment of postage or express charges. At prices per hundred they are not sent prepaid.

We have added about 60 of the newer varieties to our list this season and have taken out some that were in the 1930 list, mostly because our stock of these varieties is too small to last through the season if we should leave them in the list. We have enough of most of them for those who wish to order them from last seasons list.

It is usually cheaper to send a package weighing 10 pounds or more a long distance by express and you pay the charges when you receive the package.

It will be to your advantage to send us your order as soon as convenient after you receive this list because some of the new varieties are in limited quantities and they are liable to be sold out soon.

Bulbs will be sent in March or April when there is no danger of freezing in transit, unless you instruct us otherwise, in which case you assume the risk of freezing.

If you want something not in our list ask for it as we have many varieties in quantities too small to list. We may have what you want or be able to get it for you.

If you find lower prices quoted in other catalogs you may remit to us at the lower price and mention the other catalog, and we will fill your order if we can.

AMERICAN GLADIOLUS SOCIETY

All gladiolus growers should join the American Gladiolus Society. Send $2.00 to the secretary, Roscoe Huff, Goshen, Indiana (this includes one year's subscription to the "Gladiolus Review," a monthly magazine devoted exclusively to the gladiolus.)

$\frac{1}{2}$ signifies that bulbs $\frac{3}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches will be sold at half price, but no item for less than 5c.

We have selected the following as the best from nearly 200 varieties that we have had under test.
