PROTECTION OF BIRDS AND GAME

DIRECTORY OF STATE OFFICIALS AND ORGANIZATIONS FOR 1901

The following directory of officials and organizations concerned with the protection of birds and game in the United States and Canada was originally published in the Yearbook for 1899, and subsequently as Circular No. 28. In the enforcement of the act of Congress approved May 25, 1900, many questions arise respecting State game laws, open seasons, and similar matters, and it is important that wardens, sportsmen, shippers, and commission merchants should know the addresses of State officials and other persons from whom information may be obtained concerning local regulations. The present directory has been arranged on the same plan as that for 1900, and has been revised to April 1, 1901. The addresses are grouped under four headings—State Officials, National Organizations, State Organizations, and Audubon Societies. Necessary corrections and additions have been made and new matter has been incorporated, including the date of organization of each State commission and association, the statutory terms of State officials, and the dates of expiration of the terms of present incumbents.

In 30 States the enforcement of game laws is entrusted to game commissioners, wardens, or other State officers; in 4 others—Florida, Nevada, New Mexico, and South Dakota—to county wardens; and in several others merely to sheriffs and similar local officers. Eight national organizations are interested in the protection of birds and game. Three of these are really international: The International Fish and Game Association; the League of American Sportsmen, which has organized divisions in 35 States and in Ontario, Canada; and the North American Fish and Game Protective Association, which covers eastern Canada and the adjacent parts of the United States. In addition to these organizations of national scope, State associations cooperate with the officials in the work of protecting game in 26 States. One of these associations was organized in 1844, and 6 others were established more than twenty years ago. Similar organizations have been formed in Canada, of which one in Quebec has been in existence since 1859. Finally, 23 States have Audubon Societies, all organized during the last five years, especially for the protection of non-game birds.

Correspondents and all other persons interested are requested to notify the Biological Survey of omissions, errors, or changes in address, so that future editions of the directory may be made as accurate and complete as possible.

T. S. PALMER,
Assistant Chief, Biological Survey.

Approved:
JAMES WILSON,
Secretary of Agriculture.
