Oaklawn Farm.

For more than twenty years Oaklawn has been recognized as one of the potent factors in American horse-breeding. The magnitude of its importations, the extent of its breeding operations, the individual excellence that it has sustained, the fight it has made for high standard and well established blood lines, and finally, the surpassing quality of its home-bred product, has made for Oaklawn the reputation it enjoys wherever high class carriage or draft horses are being produced. Its record is without a parallel. Nearly five thousand stallions and mares, both imported and home-bred have found a home in its stables. About one hundred of these have been prize-winners at one or the other of the last five Universal Expositions of the world. From the last at Paris in 1889, fourteen gold medals fell to Oaklawn, nine of these fourteen gold medals were awarded to coach stallions and mares of different ages, as a recognition of the highest distinction, being placed first of all their kind, and first over all carriage breeds of the world. England, Scotland, Russia, German Empire, Spain, Algiers, India and France, all being represented. In the breeds of carriage horses, there has never before been such strong competition. Ninety-six (96) were entered in the two-year-old stallion class, one hundred and ninety (190) in the three-year-old stallion class, sixty-four (64) in the four-year-old stallion class, and one hundred and forty-five (145) mares were shown. Nothing will convey more forcibly than the above, the fact that Oaklawn possesses the finest specimens of carriage horses that are or can be produced in any country or of any breed. The question of our ability to produce upon our own soil the equal of the best horses bred abroad, will be thoroughly demonstrated at the Columbian Exposition, where Oaklawn will be represented by not less than fifty specimens of French Coach Horses. The interest that has developed in this breed, the continual inquiry for information regarding them and the growing demand for the produce of the mares now in breeding, has necessitated the issuance of a separate Catalogue for French Coach Horses exclusively. This edition contains the pedigrees of fifty-five mares and fifty-one stallions, with definite information as to colors and breeding, for two hundred years or more, with tabulations, individual history and speed records of the first thirty progenitors. This catalogue also contains much valuable information regarding the formation and development of the breed, the causes for its superiority over all other races of horses, in all the qualities indispensable to the best carriage and park horses, size, style, symmetry, action, endurance and speed.

The possession of these combined qualities, in a degree never before approached by any other race of horses, is proven by the most convincing evidence: by records of actual performances of feats of endurance; by tests of speed at long distances, generation after generation; showing not only a possession of these qualities, but a power to transmit them with a remarkable degree of certainty.

In dealing with speed records, I have confined myself strictly to the American practice of recognizing and quoting only *records at regular authorized meetings, which in France are under government or society supervision, where a full report of performances are published officially.

The tabulation shows at a glance the relationship of individuals and the performances of each from which to determine the real capabilities of each animal and the source of concentration of hereditary and transmissible powers. I ask no consideration of claims for speed or breeding where the title to same is not perfectly connected with the individual.

I do not expect our people to consider reports of speed from abroad that they would not accept if made at home under the same conditions. A careful examination will show breeding that, for size, speed and transmissible qualities, will attract the attention of any unprejudiced horse-breeder.

The French Coach Horse

(Demi-sang Carrosier Trotteurs).

The development of this great race of horses ranks among the grandest achievements of the breeding science of all periods. We cannot but view with profound admiration the far-sighted and far-reaching policy of the French government put in practice for the progressive development of their favorite race. Nor do we wonder at the magnificent results accomplished, the rare combination of size, symmetry, high round action, great speed at the trot, for long distances, and perfect soundness, when we become familiar with the system of selection, rejection, feeding, breeding, and training, that has been in force, for so long a time, also the superiority, for ages, of the original breed.

No breed of horses ever received more careful attention from a government or from a people than has been bestowed upon the development and improvement of the French coach breed. For more than two hundred years the French government has been the moving power of progress in horse breeding. In possession of a famous race of saddle horses, whose superior qualities had been intimately associated for centuries with the military glory of France; with a soil and climate that yield to no others in their adaptability to equine development, it was no visionary thought that inspired the great Colbert with a desire to put in force a system that would assure to France a race of horses in every way suited to the exacting demands of a progressive civilization. The reign of Louis XIV, the most magnificent in the annals of France, was a period of extravagant embellishment and gorgeous display. Artistic development in everything was stimulated to the utmost. In harmony with the grandeur of the court surroundings, horses of the greatest elegance were demanded. The difficulties encountered in securing them was the primary cause of the establishment of the national Haras and the importation, by order of the king, of Arab, Barb and other foreign bred stallions for breeding purposes. These stallions were selected for their rare beauty and high qualities, and were bred to the finest mares of the old saddle breeds of Merlerault and the ancient breed of Cotentin, three hundred of which were concentrated at the Royal Haras of Pin. The produce of this cross were called demi-sang (half blood), a name that is to this day used in a general way to designate the French coach horse breed (both carrosiers and trotters), to distinguish them from other races of France.

This name translated literally has given rise to a belief among some not acquainted with the facts that a French coach horse is actually a half-blood horse, having a Percheron mare for a dam. Nothing can be farther from the truth. The French have always violently opposed using thoroughbreds upon draft mares, and under no circumstances would they buy a coach stallion possessing any draft blood. On the other hand, the continued and judicious use of the Arab and his derivative, the thoroughbred, now so strongly impregnates the French coach horse breed, that in the pedigrees of many of the finest, the different original Arab sires appear hundreds of times, making them, as far as blood can do, pure Arabs engrafted on the old Cotentin or Merlerault stock of Normandy. In 1690 the royal stallions, and those approved by royal decree as competent to elevate the standard of beauty and the usefulness of the breed, numbered 1,600. A hundred years later, 1789, the number had increased to 3,200. The Revolution in that year temporarily disturbed the operations of the Haras.

Not only were they to be resumed in all their activity, after the accession of Napoleon, but a new direction and a new impulse was to be given to fine horse breeding in France. The great system by which every part of France was given those magnificent roads that have been the envy of every country, opened a new era for French horse breeders. Travel by coach and carriage was increased to a marvelous degree. A demand sprung up, as if by magic, for stout, stylish trotting horses that were possessed of sufficient endurance to make the long drives at rapid speed. The trot became fashionable. Great rivalry was developed among rich people in both city and country to possess the finest and the fastest carriage horses. This new demand was most difficult to supply as it required a combination of size, endurance, speed, and as much style and elegance of form and action as possible.

All eyes were turned toward Merlerault, Calvados and Manche, the homes of the ancient famous saddle breed, the regions where the innovations of Louis XIV and his successors had taken deepest root and borne the best fruit. The government became more ardent in its efforts to supply stallions qualified to get horses of the kind required by the new demand. Between 1815 and 1833 the government bought 1,902 stallions, 223 of which were imported, most of them from Arabia. The French stud book was established in 1833. The organization of the trotting courses had been accomplished two years previous. Laws were enacted by courageous and far-sighted officials that were destined to produce great results. In France, as in all countries, the fastest trotting horses were small. The exaggerated tendency of the times to produce great speed would, therefore, if left unrestrained, have resulted in perpetuating a race valuable for their speed alone. In order to remove the temptation to sacrifice size to speed, a turf law was enacted excluding all horses from public races that were below one meter, fifty-four centimeters (about $15\frac{1}{4}$ hands high). This act met with violent opposition from many but its wisdom was quickly demonstrated. The breeders immediately began to breed their small fast mares to the best large fast stallions procurable, while the fastest small stallions were bred to many of the largest fast mares, thus securing equality and uniformity as well as size. The government kept clearly in mind the fact that the real value of every horse must ultimately be measured very largely by his endurance. Long distance races were, therefore, established, very few are trotted by trained colts or horses under two miles, and always upon a sod track. (The French trotting derby for three-year-olds, entries being made the year of the birth of the contestant, held about the first of June each year) requires all animals to be trotted under the saddle on a sod track, carrying not less than 120 pounds, the distance being two miles and a half, until 1882, when it was reduced to two miles.

The St. Leger, for three-year-olds, is still trotted a distance of two miles and a half. This race occurs in September, and it was found that, with the summer's training, the colts are better prepared to trot the two miles and a half without injury than they are to trot the two miles of the derby so early in the season. The French recognize the elements of greatness in a good sized, well formed colt that can stay in the French Derby or the St. Leger at the rate of

HUSSEIN.

One of the many pure Arab Stallions imported by the French Government during that period of French progress in horse breeding that followed the first Empire.

2:40 or 2:45 per mile, or, when four years old, can trot two and a half and three miles at the same rate with a handicap weight of 140 to 170 pounds. At five years old, three to four miles is asked for as a definite demonstration of great capabilities.) Another idea suggested itself to the officials who saw that the outcome of the system inaugurated in 1831 would be the development of a great breed of coach horses, if the plan could be carried forward intelligently. Many ask, why do the French trot their horses on the sod? They say, because it necessitates a high, round, knee action, the only truly beautiful movement for a carriage horse. Also that high step shortens the stride. Speed must, therefore, be obtained by a quicker movement. A perfect adjustment of stride with rapidity of step gives the greatest amount of speed with the least expense of power.

Such a combination is the acme of perfection in a carriage horse. By the use of stallions for breeding that have proven their abilities under these severe tests, beautifying and improving the outline by the selection of those most perfect in form, avoiding the error of undersize, at the same time rejecting absolutely coarseness of conformation, uniting dignity of carriage, graceful and elegant form with superlative powers of usefulness, the nearest approach to perfection will be attained.

From the time of the inauguration of the trotting races, there has been a constant improvement, although the political changes have, no doubt, materially interfered with the rapidity of their progress. Yet we may well be surprised at the continuity of purpose that has been exhibited. Since instituting the races, seventeen years of monarchy, four years of the presidency, eighteen years of empire, twenty-two years of republic have passed, through all of which the spirit of progress has maintained itself, securing year by year more strength, until now it presents phenomenal increase. Between 1836 and 1842, the official records give the time of one hundred and forty-four horses that were contestants in races. The fastest time made for $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles was 7 minutes, 42 2-5 seconds. In 1842, twenty-six horses are officially reported; 1852, one hundred and five, fastest time being $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles in 7 minutes and 40 seconds; 1862, eighty-seven, time, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles, 6 minutes, 41 seconds; 1872, two hundred and sixty-four; 1882, seven hundred and eighty-eight; 1891, thirteen hundred and ninety-nine, three hundred and twelve of which trotted races from two to three and three quarters miles in distance at a speed rate of under three minutes per mile, one hundred and thirty-seven under 2:50, one hundred and twelve under 2:45, and sixty-two under 2:40. One hundred and one of the three hundred and twelve were three years old. Average distance, 2 1-16 miles; average time per mile, 2:50. Slowest time of the one hundred and one, distance, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles, 3 minutes per mile. Fastest time for three-year-olds, distance, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles, 6 minutes, 33 seconds—2:37 1-5 per mile. Best time, five-year-olds, distance, $3\frac{1}{8}$ miles, 8 minutes. Best time, five-year olds, distance, $3\frac{3}{4}$ miles, time, 9 minutes, 44 seconds.

In 1887 the government owned 2,460 stallions, 1,728 coach bred (demi-sang). The appropriations for the races of all kinds in France in 1887 according to government statistics are as follows:

Government appropriations.	-	-	-	-	582,500 francs.

Department	"	-	-	-	453,641 "
Total,	-	-	-	-	1,179,991 "

The exportation of 34,518 horses from France, during the year 1887, as shown by statistics, demonstrates the appreciation foreigners have for French horses.

By a decree of December 9, 1860, a subsidy or prize of from 100 to 600 francs each (according to breeding and quality) was authorized to be given to approved mares with colts by government stallions. Besides this, large sums are given in prizes at the annual regional exhibitions and races held under the auspices of the government.

May 5, 1870, the management of the government Haras or studs was vested in the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, under the immediate supervision of a director-general, eight inspectors, twenty-six sub-directors, ten superintendents and twenty-six veterinaries.

In order to be eligible to an appointment to one of the above offices, the candidate must be a graduate of the "Ecole de Haras du Pin," a school located at the Haras of Pin for the education of men to whom shall be confided the future management of this department of the government.

In 1874 the number of stallions owned by the government throughout France was ordered increased 200 per year until they should number 2,500, and the appropriation necessary for prizes awarded to breeding animals should reach 1,500,000 francs per annum. A special sum of 50,000 francs per year was voted to make experiments with Arab and Anglo-Arab, and for this purpose sixty finely bred mares were placed at the Haras of Pompadour.

In the organization by the government of the administration of the Haras, there has been one central object constantly kept in view, that is the encouragement of the people by every means possible, to adopt a higher standard of breeding. In order that this purpose might be accomplished, the choicest stallions of the different breeds and types were introduced into each locality, and offered for use to the mare owners at a nominal fee of service. They consist, first, of stallions owned by the government; second, stallions belonging to private individuals inspected and approved by the government, such approved stallions receiving from the government as long as they are so kept in service from 300 to 3,000 francs per annum, according to their breeding and superior excellence; third, authorized stallions, animals that by government inspection are pronounced of good quality and worthy of public patronage. To farther prevent the use of inferior individuals a decree was issued in 1885 excluding from public service all stallions not authorized by the government.

We thus see the French Government a most liberal patron of the breeder and the stallioner, but farther than this, it becomes an important factor in sustaining the prices of the finest types of all breeds, as the hundreds of stallions of the very highest order of merit that they are obliged to buy annually to supply the Haras, creates a constant demand for the best types at very high prices.

The valuable qualities claimed for the French coach horses over those of other coach breeds are based upon a system of breeding not possessed by any other race.

The breeding of all classes of domestic animals in every other country is conducted by individual enterprise and the outgrowth of individual ideas. Therefore the fixity of type is greatly affected, or destroyed altogether, by the variety of opinions entertained by the large number of people of different tastes engaged in breeding; hence so general a lack of that uniformity of character so highly esteemed and so necessary in every successful breeding animal. The French coach breed, instead of being the product of a multiplicity of ideas, has been developed under the exclusive guidance of the Director General of the National Studs of France; and as these officials are educated in the same school from generation to generation, are taught to value the same form, seek for the same qualities and pursue the same system, we can understand how it has been possible for them to attain such high perfection and great uniformity in the horses of that country. The power exercised by the Inspector General is extraordinary, controlling, as he does, the selection of the 2,500 stallions owned exclusively by the government, and the thousands of others annually inspected, which must obtain his approval before receiving their permits and subsidy; and further, all breeders are confined exclusively to the use of animals inspected and licensed by this department. This places horse-breeding entirely under government control, as far as the stallions, which so greatly control results, are concerned.

The uniting of all the valuable qualities of the Arab thoroughbreds and concentrating them through several generations under the direction of a single mind has developed a race of such size and perfect symmetry, and wonderful endurance that makes it possible for them to trot, at three and four-year olds, the two to four-mile races common to that country at a speed wonderfully fast considering the turf track and weight carried. Although they do not attain the high rate of speed of the American trotter when we consider the size of the animals (many of them attaining a weight of 1,300 to 1,400 pounds, in trotting condition, or the heavy weight carried, and inferior turf tracks), we cannot but recognize that they possess qualities unequaled by any other breed. The national studs are supplied with these stallions from parts of France where the breed has attained its highest perfection.

The coach stallions and mares, as will be seen by the pedigrees given in the following pages (which are transcripts from the government record, the original certificate of birth accompanying each individual), are the descendants and possess a combination of the Arab, the famous breed of the Merlerault, and the thoroughbred.

The French Coach Horse Breeders.

Resolutions Establishing a Model Type of Coach Horse, with Description of Typical Stallion.

"Realizing that the highest degree of success in all things is only accomplished through the united and persistent efforts of enthusiastic and intelligent workers, and being inspired by ambitious desires to achieve greater perfection, more uniform production, higher physical qualities, greater endurance, more speed and more action in the breed of carriage horses of our country, we join in the establishment of a model, which shall be outlined as a standard to which all breeders may look, as typifying in form and qualities our ideal breed of carriage horses."

"A standard that by its perfection will inspire us with higher ambition to place the name of the Carrosier of France first among the carriage breeds of the world in time to come as her war horses, her diligence and her draft horses have been in all past ages. We pledge ourselves to use every means to secure by our own efforts, by our own influence with the government the patriotic object of our aim, to the end that our success may redound to the glory of France and the welfare of her people. As breeders we have an equine heritage, descended from that historic race of war horses that under the influence of the renowned Charlemagne and all the great feudal lords of France was developed to meet the peculiar requirements of that warlike period; a race whose strength, courage and endurance carried the armored chivalry of France to victory on the battlefield of Tours and hurried back that vast army of infidel Saracens, saving Christian Europe from possible Mohammedan domination; a race whose energy and stoutness gave William of Normandy the battle of Hastings and his name of the Conqueror; to France the domination of England and to the world a new language and a new civilization; a race that bore the four great French leaders of the crusades and an hundred thousand of her noblest knights and gentlemen to the gates of Jerusalem, there to do successful battle for the holy sepulcher for its redemption to the Christian world; a race modified to meet the changing requirements of war and peace—one that has carried the conquering legions of France to every capital in Europe. In the past the equine glory of France shines by the reflected light of the tempered shield, the sharp battle ax, gleaming armor, the glistening helmets, the rattling sword, the gaudy uniform and all the blazing panoply of war. All the resources of a great nation have been energized to mould one of the noblest species of the animal kingdom into a powerful agent of war. We, the breeders of France, to-day have a different mission. The demands of peaceful pursuits, the requirements of a luxurious age, the trend of fashionable instinct must guide our course. Elegant, active, enduring, courageous and swift must be the horses of the future."

ACACIA.

Bred by M. du Noyer of Merlerault. A high type of the Merlerault breed at the beginning of the nineteenth century. The race from which nearly every horse in this catalogue is descended from, and traceable directly, to by authentic pedigree records. Acacia was a favorite charger of Napoleon I., and was ridden by him upon almost every battlefield, remaining unhurt to the end, although the great emperor had 19 horses shot under him. This horse was immortalized by the brush of the renowned historical painter, "David." The above engraving is copied from a wood-cut after the original painting.

Breeders' Model Carrosier (French Coach Horse).

"In repose, impressive and stately; in form, harmonious in all proportions, height, 1 meter, 63 centimeters (16 1-20 hands our measure), with depth of shoulders and body sufficient to guarantee great lung power and digestive capacity, without a suggestion of stoutness or grossness. This form necessitates high withers, deep brisket, prominent breast, well sprung ribs and good flank; head, medium sized, clean and bony; large, open nostril; jaw, not too prominent; frontal broad and full; large, clear hazel eye; ear small at base, medium length, sharp at point, erect and quick; throttle, small; head set at flexible angle; neck, long, slight crest, with easy, graceful arch, springing from very sloping shoulders, overlaid with prominent muscles; high, thin withers; back, short, slightly hollowed from the middle to the withers, muscled powerfully over the loins, with quarters long and smooth, sloping with easy curve to the tail, which should be attached high and be gracefully elevated the moment the animal moves; hips, smooth but well muscled; thighs, strong, wide and powerful; hocks, low, broad and clean, the bony structure clearly delineated; legs, between hocks and pasterns, short and flat, with all the cords and tendons clearly defined, especially on the back of the leg, which should neither be too straight nor too crooked; pasterns, medium length, and sloping backward, slightly more than the front line of the hoof; hoof, large, for a blood horse, with thick, tough shell, wide at the heel and well developed frog; the forefeet should be somewhat more round with good frog and hoof; pasterns, well sloped; leg, short from pastern to knee, flat and broad; tendons, clean and free in the back; knees, broad and flat; leg, from knee to elbow, long, strong and well muscled at the forearm, both inside and out."

"At rest, the horse should stand squarely on all four legs, with toes slightly turned outward. Skin, thin; hair, soft and silky; mane, fine, but not too abundant; easy, quick walk. Trotting action quick, high and round, free and clean, not so long in stride as to be displeasing, yet sufficiently long and quick to attain a high rate of speed. With the typical form and perfection of movement, we demand that no animal shall be used for breeding purposes that is not absolutely free from all hereditary unsoundness, and farther that the speed necessary to the production of a typical carrosier should not be less than 4,000 meters in eight minutes by actual test."

The Horse of the Future.

By W. H. H. Murray.

The following article appeared about two years ago in the New York Evening Press, and as it is important to Western breeders as those of New England we reproduce it by permission:

It is easy enough for men of fifty years of age to tell what was the horse of the past in this country, for they remember him distinctly. In my boyish days the highest type of horse in New England was the road-horse—and a very high type he was, in fact. Physically he was not a very large horse as a rule, but there was a great deal of horse in him in spite of his lack of size. In the stable he weighed, it may be, only 900 pounds, and stood barely fourteen and a half hands high, but when you led him out of the stall after a good night's rest and began to put the harness on him he grew taller with every strap you buckled, and on the road he weighed a ton, and took a steep hill like a high-pressure engine—everything whizzing.

The Morgans were the road-horses par excellence of those days. They were handsome to look at, spirited and docile. They were as tough as elm-tree knots and closely fibred. They had good, stout legs and strong stomachs. In color they were blacks and bays and chestnuts; good, strong colors and pleasant to the eye. Their hair had the luster of health and breeding, and the gleam of sunlight and starlight was in it. Now and then one was spiced with a pungent dash of temper, but they were never stubborn. Like a high-bred woman, their management called for intelligence and wisdom, good sense and affection; but granted these, and what helpmeets they made! To hold the reins on a frosty morning over a span of such roadsters was enough to make a man of correct religious conceptions keep saying "Hallelujah" all the while!

Yes, the Morgans were the very embodiment of every quality and characteristic which is called for in a roadster. In them the poetry of equine nature and motion was visibly expressed and set to music. In action they made a heroic appearance, and their hoofs beat melody from the path. In them was dash and shine and rhythm. They struck the road with the same nervous stroke with which the pigeon in full career strikes the air, and like that tense-winged courier of the sky they laughed at hills and mounted them with a dash of spirited flight.

But the Morgans as a family have gone, and the glory of the class they composed is departed. For thirty years New England has bred horses for speed, and speed only; and speed she has, and only speed. She is full of "trotters"—horses that can speed in thirty; but where can a gentleman who loves the free air, the sight of plain and hill, the smell of earth and hedges, and the safe exhilaration of the country road, buy him a horse spirited, docile and handsome, that can whirl him along twelve miles in the hour and level the hills flat at the touch of his whirring wheels? Here and there there may be such an animal found, but I know not a single section of New England where a buyer can go with any certainty or even likelihood of finding one. Once he might find plenty, and from numbers take his pick and suit his taste for color, style and form, but now should he find one it is by chance, by sheer good luck, and it stands, as here and there in our landscape a giant oak or pine tree stands, the majestic sign and proof, the last treasured reminder, of a noble forest growth which once characterized and ornamented the land.

And is there one farmer or breeder in New England who is foolish enough to think that he and the country are not losers by this deplorable state of things? There cannot be one.

The civilization which we Americans are building up on this continent is such as the world never saw before—at least neither the history of letters nor that written fragmentarily in ruins give us the least hint of one like it. The base of it is material development. Above this, as the foundation, is a mental development wholly unprecedented. Hitherto electricity has been of the earth and the air. In the Yankee it is incorporated.

Lightning in the clouds is an old thing, but lightning in human brain-cells is a new thing under the sun. As Lowell says in the "Bigelow Papers," "They didn't know everything down in Judee," and Solomon, wise as he was, never mentally fore-casted a Yankee. As business men, we all belong to a "fast set." We eat fast, drink fast, die fast. There is, therefor, a certain poetic harmony in the way in which we come into the world, act in it, and get out of it. There is not a slow pulse in an American. He is all vitalness. He thinks as he eats, and is a mystery to himself, for not one of us can tell ten minutes after eating what we have swallowed. A Yankee is like an arrow in full flight, flying so fast that he sets himself on fire and burns himself into ashes by the fierce rapidity of his own motion.

To such a people out-door exercise is the only salvation. Our business men must leave their business often or they will soon leave it once and forever. Sunshine and starlight, wind and rain, they must see and feel, or they will soon pass beyond all seeing and feeling. Whatever can draw them out from and beyond and above their cares, whatever can bring them a respite from toil, surcease of care and escape from pressure, is a boon. "A horse, a horse; my kingdom for a horse!" should be a business man's cry. For who, whether alone or with loved ones, when behind a good horse cares a snap of a finger for business? The shining sun, the shadowy clouds, the refreshing breeze, the odors of the earth, the songs of birds and that "sweet amity of earth and sky," as Bret Harte so delightfully phrases it, are they not all his? And then the sight of the country roads and fields, the narrow, winding lanes so full of woody smells, the mossy rocks and old stone fences under whose sheltering slabs the mice and conies find birthplace and home, and all the blessed memories of early days these sights and sounds recall, verily where can the business man find healthier rest and recreation than in those quiet country places to which his good, strong, gentle roadster can so speedily bring him?

Is it no loss to a country like ours, no loss to our business men, no loss to our civilization considered as a whole, then, when it is impossible for them to buy, even at any price, the one horse they need, the docile, handsome, strong-going roadster? And what can be more foolish on the part of the breeder of New England than to continue to breed the "trotter" that few want and that seldom comes to hand, when he can with much greater chance of success breed the horse so many are crying for, all are ready to pay well for, and no one is able to supply?

There are two styles of horses for which there is a genuine and earnest demand in New England and the country to-day, and for this demand there is no supply and no source of supply. The first is the roadster and the second is the coupe or coach horse. The former must be of good size, handsome to the eye, docile, and able to pull two persons from ten to twelve miles an hour and burst out when called upon to a three-minute gait. The latter must be of larger size, of fine form, of good solid color, gentle in stall and harness, of high, showy action and able to pull a coupe or carryall eight miles an hour. Such horses will sell, and sell at good prices, and whoever breeds them will find himself breeding to a profit and a good round one at that.

There is in France a race of horses which, crossed on our native stock, might and probably would give us the people's horse, or the horse of the future. His appearance is noble, his form handsome, his temper gentle, his spirit high, and his blood, through many clearly-defined and well-known channels, flows clean and straight from the desert.

Centuries of governmental supervision and controlling authority have placed his pedigree beyond dispute and made him the embodiment of prepotent forces to a degree unmatched in the world, beyond the limits of Arabia. If stallions from this famous stock could be, by private enterprise or concerted action on the part of our breeders, imported to New England, the style of horse for which there is such a demand and of which there is no supply might speedily become attainable. In a few years the finest carriage-horse in the world and a noble class of roadsters would be seen in our city and on our suburban roadways, and the breeders of the country would have what they need—a horse that would sell, and sell for a good price and sell as soon as he was educated to go safely to harness. That is the kind of horse gentlemen want and are ready to pay for.

LARGE FINE CARRIAGE HORSES DIFFICULT TO OBTAIN.

Where can I find a pair of fine appearing carriage horses, 16 hands or over, stylish, sound and serviceable, is a question that is being asked many times every day and not one man in a hundred gets a satisfactory reply and a satisfactory team. Why is this? Is it because of any unwillingness to pay a good round price for the kind of horses wanted? No! The gentlemen who want them are liberal buyers. One thousand, two thousand and even three thousand dollars, for a fine pair, is not uncommon.

It is not price then, nor is it any lack of activity in searching for them, either on the part of the gentlemen who want them or the dealer whose business it is to supply them, for there is no state, no county, no place where there is a probability of finding such horses, where they have not been sought.

We may well be astonished that Americans who pride themselves upon the keenness of their perceptions, have not foreseen and prepared themselves to meet so lucrative a demand, which is growing year by year as the country increases in wealth. It would seem that the minds of breeders have been bewildered by a conflict of influences. Our people, whose natural instincts incline them toward a light, active and speedy horse, have been swept into the vortex of trotting horse breeding by an irresistible wave of national sporting sentiment.

In the beginning there existed a certain equality among breeders and every man had a chance of producing a record breaker. But how is it now? With all the great speed producing stallions and mares in the hands of a few, with the record approaching the limit of speed possibility, what chance has the common breeder in the race horse lottery? None! Certainly none that any man with a clear business mind would consider for a moment.

Concentrated and persistent efforts for half a century has given us a great breed of trotting horses. It is now in the hands of our people to make the best use of the product of their energy and skill. It is conceded by the best authority that at least ninety per cent. of trotting bred horses can never be valuable for speed alone. This class must therefore, of necessity, be made useful for some other purpose. What better use can be suggested than to make them the basis of an American coach and carriage breed? They possess the road qualities indispensable in every good carriage horse which is a grand thing to build on. They also inherit, in an intensified degree, faults of form and gait that are unpardonable in a high class carriage horse. The long low sweeping stride must be shortened and quickened, the size must be increased, the top line corrected, hips lowered, quarter straightened and lengthened. This can only be accomplished by crossing them with stallions qualified by their size, by their form and by their breeding, to get such carriage horses as the times require.

In seeking for such stallions your investigations will lead you to the examination of a breed that for more than two hundred years, under the care of the French government has been acquiring a perfection of form, increased hereditary powers developing more speed, until they stand first among carriage breeds of the world for beauty, size, endurance and speed. Stallions of this breed, well selected and intelligently mated with our trotting mares, would in a few years, solve the carriage horse problem if half the intelligence were made available that is used in the production of trotters.

Sire of the dam of Email. Rec. 3½ m.
in 8:08 3-5.

†Dau. of Seducteur.
Sire of La Grisiere
and †Hussein.

†Jarnac.
Sire of †Tarrare, and †Denian.

La Quid Juris.
Foaled 1868; bay;
16 hands. Dam of three government stallions and the famous Orphee, dam
of Marguerite; first prize winner Concours Regional 1890.

Pactole* holds world's trotting record for 2½ miles; time, 6:08 in a race, Caen, 1875, under saddle.

All of the above trotting performances are race records copied from the Official Trotting Records of France, published annually by M. Tiercelin, Secretary, 12 Rue L'Arcade, Paris.

†Stallions owned by the French Government.

Stallions in Service at Oaklawn.

To those who have been familiar with the breeding operations of Oaklawn the headline above will convey a more satisfactory idea of the usefulness and qualities of the two stallions, INDRE and PERFECTION, than anything I can write or any detailed description I can give.

With all the information at my command, with some years of valuable experience, with the most favorable opportunities for selection from year to year among the finest productions of France, with a larger number of high class French coach mares to breed every year than can be found in any other single establishment upon either continent, and with a reputation at stake which must stand or fall by the merit or demerit of our product; no one would expect to see mediocre stallions in stud service.

PERFECTION.

Bay; foaled 1888; 16½ hands high; the beau-ideal of the carriage type; exquisitely beautiful in every outline with great length of neck, perfect top line, high carriage, graceful movement and easy pose. In fact in all physical detail he is an artistic study. What is yet more important, his prepotency is as strong as his form is perfect. His get are molded in his image and in the tenseness of their nervous organization, in the refinement of their physical natures they have fully responded to the hereditary forces of ten generations of ancestors who are without a flaw in pedigree or variation in color in the material line.

The distinction of PERFECTION's family has led to its dispersal. His dam was purchased by the Emperor of Brazil and won the Queen's cup as most perfect animal of her kind at the Brazilian Exposition. Four of his sisters are in the breeding haras of the Khedive of Egypt; another was winner of first prize at the Universal Exposition, Paris, 1889, and is now among the brood mares at Oaklawn.

INDRE.

Chestnut; foaled 1886; 16 hands; was placed first at the Universal Exposition, Paris, 1889, in a class of 68. English, Spanish, Russian and other continental countries being represented. He is a horse of high finish and great muscular power, with a most wonderful combination of resolution, action and speed. Got by one of the most noted trotting sires and inbred five times to the founders of two of the greatest trotting families. He represents the best blood of France. Indre's sire trotted at three years old 2½ miles in 7:00 4-5 and has produced one hundred and fifty-five winners of races. His half brother "Pactole" holds the 2½ miles race record of the world, and "Modestie," his half sister, holds the world's race record for four miles. The sister to Indre's dam holds the 4-year-old three mile race record. For the last eight years, with two exceptions, the French trotting Derby has been won by either half brother or sister of "Indre" or the produce of a sister.

With such breeding in speed lines, with individual excellence that won him first place at Paris, we are prepared to see his colts possess the high quality and speed that make them so eagerly sought after by our breeders.

THE PRACTICAL ^{AND} HANDY SERVICE ACCOUNT BOOK,

Indispensable to Every Stallion Owner.

TWO HUNDRED PAGES SECURELY BOUND IN CLOTH, INDEXED AND PAGED.

PRICE $1.00.

(Special Price in Quantities.)

THERE is scarcely a stallion owner in the country who does not lose the price of from one to ten colts each year on account of imperfectly kept records of Stallion Service, incomplete description of Mares, making substitution easy, which could be obviated by the establishment of some systematic method of correctly keeping records of service and close description of all mares served, as provided for in our book.

In addition to the Account Book proper it contains several pages of information of inestimable value to all breeders and stallioners, embodying the ideas and experiences of Mr. M. W. Dunham, an acknowledged authority, under the following heads: The Care of Stallions. The Use of Stallions in the Stud. The Serving of Mares. When Mares Should Be Bred. The Keeping of Mares for Breeding purposes. The Care of Colts. It also contains a few simple remedies for the treatment of the ailments common to the equine race. This matter itself is worth many times the cost of the book.

Our STALLION SERVICE NOTE is taken from the form most commonly used. Seventy-five Notes, bound, convenient to carry in the pocket. Price 60 cents.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price. ☐

APPENDIX.

French Coach Horses.—Dentition of Horses (Profusely illustrated.)
Stallion Bridle (illustrated.)

In speaking of this work H. D. McKinney ("Mambrino"), of Janesville, Wis., says: "I consider it almost invaluable, and could I not procure another copy would not take twenty times the price of it." The Hon. John Landrigan, Ex-President Illinois State Board of Agriculture, says: "I have no hesitation in saying that it is the very best book on the subject I have ever read." C. A. DeGraf, of Minnesota, says: "It is by long odds the most thoroughly practical book upon the breeding and management of horses ever written. The chapters devoted to the management of stallions, brood mares and young foals are especially valuable." Inclose $2.00 for a copy of the book. Address, F. A. GLOS, Successor to
