INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

This collection was formed by John Bartlett, A.M. (Harv. 1871), of Cambridge, author of "Familiar Quotations," and a Concordance of Shakespeare, etc., himself "a practitioner of more than fifty years, experience of the art of angling"; by him it was presented to the Library of Harvard College, Nov. 17th, 1892, when it numbered 1014 volumes and 269 pamphlets. A large proportion of the volumes are handsomely bound, the panels of the back being ornamented in many cases with dies showing fishes in gold.

After the collection was received, it was arranged in subject groups according to the scheme given on the next page, and to it were added most of what few books on angling proper the Library already possessed. In other groups of the collection, however, the like was not done, and the catalogue, therefore, does not represent the full strength of the College Library in fisheries, fish culture, the natural history of fishes, etc.; nor have there been added from the College Library any books dealing indirectly with angling, like travels and other descriptive works, which Mr. Bartlett collected in large numbers.

The books were catalogued and the list prepared by Miss Louise Rankin Albee, of the Library staff, in the summer and autumn of 1893, and the spring of 1895, pressure of other work necessitating long interruptions.

The arrangement of titles and the position of shelf-marks on the printed page have been determined solely by the requirements of the card catalogue, since the list is printed from the type set up for the cards.

A catalogue of the collection was printed at Cambridge in 1882 [Ang. 1.55], and a supplement in 1886 [Ang. 1.56]. A second supplement exists in manuscript [Ang. 1.56].

Ang. 45.20 Fisher's garland (The), for 1821-1845. 28 vol. Newcastle. 1821 [23]-45. sm. 8°. Vigns.

Nos. i.-xxvi. were published by Emerson Charnley, the others by William Garret.

Commonly known as the "Newcastle fishers' garlands." They appeared later under the title, "A collection of right merrie garlands for north country anglers." An edition with this title, edited by Joseph Crawhall in 1864, contains 21 additional garlands. Sixteen of the original garlands appear in the "Coquet-dale fishing songs," 1852, and nos. i. and ii. are found in Pearson's "Angler's garland," 1870-71.

Each title-page contains a woodcut, most of them from blocks by Thomas Bewick. With a few exceptions, however, the blocks have been so thoroughly changed that it is difficult to recognize them.

Nos. ii., iv., v., vii., viii., xiv., were written by Robert Roxby and Thomas Doubleday; iii., vi., xiii., xvi., xx.-xxii., signed W. G. T., by W. G. Thompson; ix., signed W. G., by William Greene; x.-xii., xxiii.-xxix. (all but x. and xi. signed R. R.) by Thomas Doubleday; xv., signed R. N., by Robert Nichol, remodelled by W. G. Thompson; xvii.-xix., signed W. A. C., by W. A. Chatto.

The title "Fisher's garland" does not appear on nos. vi. and xxviii.

The number of copies of the Garlands printed varied from 196 (iv.) to 400 (viii.), being commonly under 300, and may be found, with other details, in Westwood and Satchell, pp. 157-160.

"Translated, or rather imitated, from a Latin poem De vetulā, attributed to Richard de Fournival. . . . The passage which treats of fishing is headed 'Comment Ovide tendait aux poissons,' and consists of 68 lines. De Fournival's work cannot but be interesting to the angling bibliophile, as showing that more than 400 years ago most of the modern modes of fishing were practised. . . . The poem was formerly attributed to Ovid, and a story was current that a copy had been discovered in his tomb. It was first printed, probably at Rome, about 1470, under the title: 'P. "As a specimen of style this book is sui generis. . . . Franck is the first English writer on angling who describes that mystical fish, the burbolt. . . . To John Bartlett, who sent a vii pound brook: trout.

Fit for an Abbot of Thelme,
For the whole Cardinals' College, or
The Pope himself to see in dream
Before his lenten vision gleam,
He lies there, - the sagdologer!

His porcious flanks with stars besprent,
Worthy to swim in Castaly!
The friend by whom such gifts are sent,
For him shake bumpers full be spent,
His health! be hied his fast ally!

I see him trace the wayward brook
Amid the forest mysteries,
Where at their waiths shy aspens look,
Or where, with many a gurgling brook
It croons its woodland histories.

I see leafshad & sun-fleck bend
Their tremulous, sweet vicifitude,
To smooth dark pool, to crinkling bend, —
(Ah, then him, Anne, as 'twere a friend,
With amorous solicitude!)

I see him step with caution due,
Soft as if shod with moccasins,
Grown as in Chusck, — & who plies you
Sweet Craft, is safe as in a pew
From all our common stock's sins

The missing fly I see him cast,
That as a vorkal falls as soft, —
A flash! a whirl! he has him fast!
He tyros, — how that struggle last
Compares & appalls us oft!

Unflutted he; Calm as the sky
Looks on our TragiComedies,
This way & that he lets him fly,
A sunbeam shuttle, then to die
Lands him with cool aplomb, ad Eco.

The friend who gave our board such good,
Life's care, may he o'erstep it half,
And when Death hooks him, as he must,
Kill to it freely, as I trust,
And John Holmes write his Epitaph!

Oh, born beneath the Fishes' sign,
Of Constellations happiest,
May ~~he~~ ^{he} ~~somewhere~~ ^{be} ~~with~~ ^{some} Walton dine,
May Horace pour him Orazio wine,
And Burns Scotch drink, the happiest!

And when they come his deed to weigh
And how he used the talents his,
One Hensbane in the scale shall lay,
(If trout had scales) & will outweigh
The wrong side of the balance.
