PREFACE.

THIS Catalogue is designed for the use of those who have occasion to consult the scientific periodicals represented in Calcutta libraries, whether belonging to Government or private institutions. In many of these libraries the existing catalogues are either in manuscript or completely out of date ; moreover the number of the libraries is large and they are situated at considerable distances apart. Data from twenty-four libraries have been incorporated.

In deciding the difficult question as to what is a scientific serial publication it has seemed best to take as broad a view as possible and include too much rather than too little. A serial publication has been taken to be one whose issues are numbered or dated according to a definite sequence and to which no termination might be anticipated at the time of its initiation. The publications of the Ray Society, for instance, are not included as they consist of a series of independent, unnumbered monographs published without any definite sequence ; nor are the Reports of the ' Challenger ' Expedition, because at their inception a definite end to publication could be foreseen. Serials dealing with the technical applications of science, such as Engineering and Agriculture, have been inserted, together with those concerning such subjects as Archaeology and Economics. When an institution publishes separate serials on both scientific and other subjects, references to all are given ; purely administrative reports are, however, omitted.

All parts of periodicals received up to the end of 1917 have so far as possible been catalogued ; but, owing to the present state of international affairs, it has been found impossible to deal precisely with current scientific literature published in Germany and Austria.

On behalf of the Council of the Asiatic Society of Bengal I wish to express my indebtedness to the heads of the institutions that have supplied information regarding their serials. Had it not been for cordial co-operation on the part of the twenty-four libraries, the preparation of this Catalogue would have been impossible.

Among those who have given assistance in the compilation, my thanks are first due to Dr. W. A. K. Christie of the Geological Survey of India, who has read through all the proofs and assisted me in many other ways. Owing to his valuable help the work has gained greatly in accuracy and completeness.

I have also to thank Mr. J. Chapman, Librarian of the Imperial Library, who has kindly solved several bibliographical questions that presented unusual difficulty. Dr. G. D. Hope has checked the references to Dutch periodicals and Mr. A. Kolusky those in Russian and allied languages. Babu Balai Lal Dutt, the Society's Librarian, has aided me in many ways.

The cost of publication has been defrayed by a grant made by the Trustees of the Indian Museum, through the kind offices of the Director, Zoological Survey of India.

The Society will be obliged if their attention is drawn to any errors that may be detected.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE CATALOGUE.

PUBLICATIONS issued by an institution are entered under the name of that institution, while institutions are listed under the towns in which they are established: independent serials will be found under the town of publication. The names of institutions and the titles of independent publications are arranged together alphabetically under the towns and the towns alphabetically under the countries to which they belong, the order of the latter being shown in the Table of Contents (p. iii). Changes in title, whether of institutions or of publications, have been noted as far as possible and, in the case of independent serials, changes in the town of publication are indicated by cross-references.

When volume number and date are followed by a dash, it is to be understood that all subsequent issues are available; but with works published in Germany and Austria, this symbol merely indicates that the publications were being received regularly up to the beginning of the war.

To facilitate reference a copious index has been added. In both index and Catalogue the names of towns are printed in heavy type, those of institutions in roman type and the titles of publications in italics. The numbers in the index, and those used for cross-references, refer to the separate entries and not to the pages. The heavy type capitals, placed after the volume-numbers of individual publications, indicate the libraries in which these volumes will be found.

Except for minor alterations in method, necessitated by the fact that the libraries of a number of different institutions are dealt with, the arrangement of the Catalogue closely follows that of the Catalogue of the Serial Publications in the Library of the Manchester Literary and Philosophical Society, compiled by Mr. A. P. Hunt. Acknowledgment is due to this Society and to the Compiler for the provision of so satisfactory a model.
