Application for all Federal aid must be made by the Local Board of Control (school board, school committee or special board appointed for the purpose) in regular session, on forms provided by the State Board for Vocational Education.

The purpose of this bulletin is to outline briefly the conditions governing Federal aid for vocational agriculture in Texas, under the provisions of the Smith-Hughes Law, to explain the method of applying for such aid, and to give such extracts from the Smith-Hughes Vocational Law as effect vocational agriculture. Similar bulletins for trade and industry, and home economics will be available at a later date.

Education.

- C. The abundant use of illustrative materials from the farm, lantern slides, charts, etc.

VII. Supervision of project work.

A. Essentials of a successful project. The essentials of a project are set forth in Bulletin 346, United States Department of Agriculture. The term "home project" applied to instruction in secondary agriculture includes the following requisites:

2. It must be a part of the instruction in agriculture of the school.
3. There must be a problem more or less new to the pupil.
4. The parents and pupil should agree with the teacher upon the plan.
5. Some competent person must supervise the home work.
6. Detailed records of time, method, cost, and income must be honestly kept.
7. A written report based on the record must be submitted to the teacher. This report may be in the form of a composition or a booklet.

B. Administration of project work.

1. Selection of project. All projects must be selected by the student with the advice and consent of the teacher and parent. The parent must sign a written statement to the effect that he will (a) provide the necessary equipment for the project; (b) allow the student sufficient time for the work for the project; (c) allow the student the net profits accruing from the project.
2. Equipment.—The equipment required will vary widely with the type of project. For the plant production projects at least one-tenth acre of land will be necessary. For animal husbandry projects, pigs, poultry, baby beeves, with necessary feeds, buildings, etc., will be required. For those students who are unable to furnish a satisfactory equipment at home, the Local Board may arrange to supply, at the school, such of the equipment as may be found desirable and necessary. It is advised, however, that school projects be substituted for home projects only under unusual circumstances.
3. The supervisor in charge shall visit each project at least once each month for the purpose of directing and giving such advice as may be needed.

4. Reports.

- a. Each student must submit a written report upon the progress of the project at least once each month.

After July 1, 1921, eligibles for positions as teachers, supervisors, and directors of vocational agriculture shall have completed a four years' college course in Vocational Agricultural Education. Candidates for admission to this course must have presented upon entrance to the course fourteen units of high school work. Such a course will provide for 144 semester hours work, at least 40 hours of which must be technical agriculture and 15-24 professional training, including supervised practice teaching in secondary agriculture. Upon the completion of this course, a permanent teacher's certificate will be granted by the State Department of Education.

All applications for Federal aid for vocational agriculture must be made on Form D 121, copies of which may be obtained by addressing the State Board for Vocational Education, Austin, Texas.
