

ordered were previously engaged. I think, before I come home, I shall get Fuehli's Fungi Rhenani and Rabenhorst's Fungi Exsiccata unless they are already in Curtis's collection. Have you Rabenhorst's Characeae? I have been advised to get them. Dr. Schmitz has sent you his article from the Flora and I asked him also to send Mr. Wright a copy.

I spent Christmas week in Frankfurt stopping at the Hotel du Nord but spending most of my time at the Consul's Mr. Webster father of the only real American in Strasbourg besides myself. I went into the store of Joseph Baer and spent some hours looking over his books. He has a Jacquin's Flora Schönbrunnensis, in good condition for 68 thalers, a Hooker & Greville which Prof. Eaton may like. I bought Martins's Plant. Crypt.
Brazil. for $18. Mohl. vernischte Schriften

Dear Sir;

I received yesterday and spoke about the photographs non committal on the
that he will trust in on further conversation or six photographs wants. He does not scenery alone but the he thin he would suit great stress on views the aspect of Vegetation I think he will be you select five or six and landscapes in which is the characteristic that you would like and Kartoffel brandeis

he would communicate with you which, judging by his tone, meant that he would send them to you.

If I could have a list of the writings of De Bary which are in your possession, I could, probably, supply the works lacking either from Prof. De Bary or purchase.

One of his latest works is that on Eurotium herbarium, as the noxious state of Aspergillus glaucus, published in conjunction with Woronin's Erysiphe.

That is for sale in Strasburg and I shall get it for myself. I have the Morphology & Physiol. of Pilger, F. Hechtend. ^{Schleim} and his Lehrbuch der Pilze. One of De Bary's most interesting researches has been of the wax deposits, which you will remember in the Bot. Zeit. last year. He has, lately, lectured on the subject and I have been studying it with him. It is not difficult to make sections to examine them is how as the slightest touch makes the wax fall.

A book which I should like to have and which, certainly, the Cambridge library should have is Carpologia Selecta Harkn. if I remember rightly, the volume on the Tub. coming to, at least, five more. Another work, well mentioned in my lost Paleontology in three volumes and horribly expensive at 30 fr. a volume, I was Coniferae & Gnetales a good morphological book which nobody ever read.

The algae of De B.

I shall still have to use a dictionary in reading. On Friday, Jan 3^d. Prof. De Bary Stahl, the Alsatian, De Bary, two little boys a man to carry a shovel and box and myself went botanizing about seven miles from the city. The season is extraordinarily mild. The ground has not frozen for more than a few hours and on Friday lots of Cruciferae, Caryophyllaceae, & Erodium cicutae folium and other plants were in flower.
The mosses were fine, the ground covered with most beautiful Mnium undulatum.
De Bary knows the mosses and flowering plants well. We dined at an Auberge on Schwein cokettes and ~~sau~~ wine and walked for or five hours through the woods which the Alsatian thought were very beautiful but which, had the vegetation not been new to me, I should have thought very much inferior to our own woods. However they say it is much more beautiful in the ~~Vogesen~~.
Here it is all Pinus sylvestris and birch and very flat. I send you an extract from the Revue Botanique that you may see what the German botanists talk like.
Remember me to Mrs. Gray. Yours respectfully N. G. Harlow

for $1. Boerhaave's Methodus Lugduni-Batav. 1731. D.
Circulissian 1719. for last simply as curious Vegetable Materia Medica
United States by Barto and bought it. I don't a second volume was Michaux's Flora am. for $3.00. There was a 1st of the United States 12th second not bound and complete for about $1 find out how many be in the second volume sure that it was complete have bought it for you say you wanted after she mentions several cryptogamic books you bought them for is there something wrong
