

at Zermatt I met West of the small and somewhat lazy senior botanical class at the time I left Cambridge. I hope he enjoyed Switzerland more than he did botany. at Geneva I called at the herbarium and found Dr. Müller, but not De Candolle, at home. Dr. Müller is certainly one of the pleasantest and most obliging men I ever saw and as I saw he could and would teach me just what I wanted to learn in a short time I have concluded to remain in Geneva till October.

On receiving a new letter of credit, I started for Chamounix where I remained nearly a week and had fine weather all but one day. I did not ascend Mt. Blanc, thinking that I could spend $150 better in other ways. Being attracted by the name and also by the prospect of a pleasant glacier excursion I went up to the Jardin. The scenery

Dear Sir;

It is now so long been travelling about the last wrote you. I think it wald when I wrote about to Munich but not having at home.

From Grindelwald, I
and there hoped to meet so botanists but did not see friends from home, however went over the St. Gotthard before seen Tuttle of the taken in an omnibus. I of the American Register that of Cleveland had been met at the Am. Embassy. I did he was professor. I saw Maggiore as well as Me is delightful. The weather but that pleased me all the better. I was surprised to find Milan so beautiful as no one ever hears much about the city.

All my friends that I have seen lately agree with me that it is charming and that the people are the best dressed in Europe. While at Maggiore I went to Isola Bella which, I suppose, you have, of course visited. I was shown Pinus strobus and Myrica cerifera as rarities. The gardener seeing that I knew something about the plants took pains to explain. The oranges were attacked by a fungus and I gathered some leaves to take to De Bary.
But the pocket case into which I put them, containing also my passport and letter of credit, was lost or stolen in passing over the Simplon. The gardener showed me a curious thing, a monstrosity I presume, called Pinus monocaulis. Fresh figs, as I had before supposed, are a humbug and, although interesting to me botanically,

I don't think the subtropical region are really as beautiful as Northern gardens.

I then went and down the Rhone Valley man, and devoured by and walked to Zermatt little late in the season, was first rate and I in some days at Zermatt my letter of credit and inishing supply of cash to fly off after one day To my great regret, I days later, I have unarrived at Zermatt and liked very much to However, the day I was not a cloud in the sky too warm, and the Great, of which I sup-already written was m to eat. There are only three other Americans at the table, two mischievous boys and a Virginian about my own age. However, except once in a while from the little boys, I hear no English.

My plans are to remain here, as I said, till the first or middle of October and then return to Strasburg to attend to my special work, with fitze and fresh water algae for collateral work and amusement. While here I ought to get a fair insight into systematic lichendology and shall also find time I hope to write some light letters to the Naturalist. I didn't like Munich. The arrangements for botany did not seem very good and it is doubtful if I go there at all in the winter. About February I hope to go to Thuret and I suppose courtesy will compel me to limit my stay to, at the most, six weeks, afterwards a journey through Italy with algae studies on the shore and afterwards, perhaps, a rapid visit to different botanical laboratories, as Salzburg, Geneve was fine but not so ^{they} Governor Grät although ^{the} fatiguing. The garden rocks not of flowers. I but Gentiana macul things although, I don't that that is something of nearly 10,000 ft. Except found Chamunix to afa being very uninteresting. It don't compare with Grindelwald. The best I have found was at particularly on the Faur

On returning again called on Dr. Müll arrangements to go to every morning for a and he has taken a provide books for me and me in the way of get

Tomorrow we are to ^{if my family come to Carone I shall} ^{then during the summer other way} ^{shore of Northumbria, or England. We} ^{ought to return?}

Farlow, W. G. 1873. "Farlow, William G. Aug. 28, 1873." Asa Gray correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/223828>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/250357>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.