

talks with Harkness and Mrs. Curran. Every thing seemed to be lovely and there was no trace of dissatisfaction as far as I could see. The Tawji Hypognath had just arrived to Dr. Harkness's great pleasure.

I wrote a letter to you from Santa Cruz and directed to the care of Mr. Alward thinking that you would probably find it necessary to stop at San Francisco for a day on your way home.
But I was mistaken it seems. A letter came to Santa Cruz for you dated Los Angeles and probably from Mr. Lyon. I told the postmaster to send it to Lawbridge by mistake for I should have said W. Louis. However I suppose the delay was not serious. Yours, truly, W. C. Farlow.

Dear Prof. Gray

I leave
Cruz day before yesterday and returned to the I have made arrangements for starting early for Milton and go as far as Pine first day. I can't time to go to the grove but shall by the Mariposa about Friday on train at Maderas
East. I don't know I shall stop at

Farlow, W. G. 1874. "Farlow, William G. May 17, [1874]." Asa Gray correspondence
