

Roxbury Dec. 6, 1868

My Dear Sir,

I find Mr. Booth has put in your hands the copy of the Index, I sent for you, I know you will have it of course in your copy & will <sup>be</sup>, but that a sheet might be more easily handled. I felt much was omitted, which might be expected; but I did not dare to afflict the reader of the Journal with more pages of ~~new~~<sup>more</sup> names & reforms. I could not bring it within the generous limits mentioned by Prof. Dana, though I did not greatly exceed them. I let much <sup>remain</sup> ~~oblige~~ by their readiness to use, so many pages. Now, the Index is published, I see that I might have added much more in the filling out of lines not full. But, I was not so satisfied of this, till it was too late to alter. I would <sup>add</sup> to the reforms a good deal more, which you may not care for in the multitude of your books, but which others, not so favored, must like to see, & which I imposed because of the pages taken. I would not fill out such complete lists of reforms as Dr. Booth has well given in his Illustrations. Much more than I did was suggested before this Index was finished, & I implied that I could not add, as I now. You once kindly suggested, that if it could not well be ad-be admitted into the Am. Journ., you would see its publication in some journal at Boston or Cambridge, as the Index was made in Fall<sup>you</sup>, I could not look elsewhere, till it was revised there; a second & enlarged edition of the Index, could consistently find a place for it as you suggested on the original. If after looking over the pages & seeing the imparfections in the Index, some of which might perhaps be corrected or made less or more odd, you think it desirable & adviseable to see whether it can be printed, I shall be obliged by knowing; or by hearing the contrary. We do not possess so little property as to require the utmost economy, I should not do write, & unless you had made the suggestions alluded to.

From exchanging specimens with Dr. Sartwell, & my opposition to some of his views, I wish to know if you have specimens now that you sent him ~~or~~ or named for him that he sent you, which grow at Penn Yan or in Ky. from Dr. Shantz, & if they are like the one I have inclose, the slender form of C. Hitchcockiana. I send a fine specimen which shows the whole. I wet to bind it, that it go entire.

Have you a specimen of C. macrorhiza or, have you seen that which Mr. Bott has? Dr. Torrey has one now, & thinks it is fine.

I fear you may be too occupied to hear me; then let it be, & I shall not complain.

Have you adopted Nymphaea tuberosa of Paine. I suppose you have; dark as I have not heard & do not know how far the small one I saw from Miss. is from that, Dr. St. Gray Truly & cordly G. Densky

Dewey, Chester. 1866. "Dewey, Chester Dec. 6, 1866." Asa Gray correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/221834>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/255213>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.