

Kew, July 25. 85

pretty well this year
for me and we
succeeded without difficulty in effecting an address on someone on my life I suppose I have nothing to be anxious about.

I wish I could say
quite as much of my father-in-law whose health is not quite

Dear Postman

Your letters however
rare and brief are always most pleasant
to receive.

I thought I had better
send you note on to Babington with reference for addressing
it to Vines. C. C. B.

Stands to Vines in
the same relation
that you do to
Goodale

The result as Babington has it
before written to you
is quite negative.
I got Baker to try

the Hab^m here on the chance, a theory Contemporary (and peculiarly) I add - no result. But he suggest Aster modestus, ^{Lindl} and at any rate thinks
the plant must be some Aster.
I have been keeping

and with other papers.

We seem to be taking a really solid
position as the new
womⁿ physiologist

With very kind regards to Mr. May

Believe me

Yours sincerely

W. T. Whistler Dyer

what it ought to be.

Competent medical advice insists that he ought to take care of himself and
lead a quiet life.

But this is just what nothing can
 induce him to do.

He is always down
now in his country

Louise while my wife and I spent a night with him the Monday. The change
has done him
a great deal of good.

The administration of Kew I think
becomes daily more

and more laborious
and I am generally
at my wits' end how to "get through" Howard
this is the normal
state things in modern life on his side at any rate
Pray thank Faclaw
for so kindly sending me all his numerous

BHL

Biodiversity Heritage Library

Thiselton-Dyer, William T. 1885. "Thiselton-Dyer, William T. July 25, 1885." William Turner Thiselton-Dyer letters to Asa Gray

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/225498>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/257061>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.