

Buffalo, March 17, 1873.

My dear Gray:

I have not overcome my grief for Dr. Incey's death; and don't know that I ever shall. He was so genial - so kind! I want to cuddle with you. But where shall I find words? I wrote to Margaret Incey. But, alas! friends cannot give true consolation. I feel, bitterly, my want of power. If there be any thing I can do, to show my respect & love for Incey, that would please those near & dear to him, please let me know,

God bless you & yours!
Yours ever truly,

L. W. Chittenden.

Dr. A. Gray.
