

468 Hope Street,
Providence, R. I.
Jan. 22, 1919

Prof. A. W. Evans,
345 Whitney Ave.,
New Haven, Conn.

Dear Prof. Evans:-

In connection with some work by Dr. James R. Weir, of this office, on the forest trees of the Northwest U.S. it became desirable to know what mosses and lichens were apparently associated with certain forest tree troubles. The mosses were sent to me some time ago. Among them I find four hepatics (one from Europe). These I am enclosing, hoping that you are not too busy to examine them and report their names. If my hopes should prove correct do not trouble to return the specimens, but if you are so busy that there is little prospect of your being able to examine them in the near future please return them in the enclosed franked envelope.

I trust you are enjoying the best of health, and with best wishes for a prosperous New Year, I remain

Very truly

Collins, J. Franklin. 1919. "Collins, James Franklin Jan. 22, 1919 [Collins to Evans]." James Franklin Collins correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/258625>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/274103>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Andrew W. Mellon Foundation

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.