

Cambridge

Dec. 13,

1901.

Dear Mr. Collins,

I shall be very glad to have you come even if you have
but a little spare
time at your disposal provided you do not feel that it would be too much trouble for you. I shall be ready for you on Tuesday but I would be glad to hear from you from you can come if you are not able to come on Tuesday,

Supposing that you have but a little time, I think that it had better be sent in looking over some of the smaller bundles of western or southern mosses which are likely to contain species of importance to an bryologist
without trying to start on any of the large things.

Yours, truly,

W. G. Farlow.
