

Charlotte, Vermont.

Feb., 13, 1882.

Dear Dr. Gray:

I have been diligent to put together the specimens you have been so good as to request—for your friends, and send you today by express two boxes containing sets 8 and 9 of my distribution (these are uniform and include about 445 species,) a bundle for Kew, representations of nearly all the species marked by you on my list, and another bundle for you. Labels for the specimens already in your hands go by mail.

If it will not put you to much trouble, I will venture to request you to send me the names of those rather numerous species of which I had not material enough to put into sets, in order that I may know what species among them I should in future take pains to secure in quantity. Crotalaria Pinglii was among them, but of the others I have received very few names.

If you cannot stop to do this now as well as any time, don't heed my request.

Yours faithfully,
C. G. Pringle.
