

with Miss Fisher & Miss Rogers. Otherwise we should be together as Herb: Morong sent me one of her artistic products, - words, music, & decoration all her own, - "Her ~~Phrasing~~ St. Botolph" -

"As I walked thro' old London town, All on a festival day,

I heard the bells of St. Botolph Deep pealing out their lay" - etc.

To match the bottle of wine another friend sent me a big loaf of richest must cake of her making. I regret to Dear George - I was so very glad to hear from Belle that Sinclair & his bride had been with you, tho' she barely mentioned the fact & gave no incidents as to time etc. I have been so wondering how & where it was with him - If he got home for Lucas it was so good. She called Rae, Rachel, which is a charming quaint name - And said that now they had gone to New York. I look forward to seeing them & ask you to direct the enclosed to its destination.

My Sunday was quiet & alone like evening when Emma came to dinner.
Arthur & Sora being as always for their season in Pittsburgh with her numerous family. He gave me a book called "The Corsican", which is Napoleon's career drawn from his own words contemporaneous with events. A fine idea, which I have not yet taken as to execution. I never tire of the study of that man.

Sora endowed me with a bottle of wine, Hasell Hill Vintage of 1896. Her father's vineyard, where he grew delicious wine & laid down a cellar for each of his children. A devoted Churchman, he supplied the churches of Pittsburgh with communion wine. Doubtless only the Episcopalian - I imagine he would hardly consider the other denominations as churches at all! He was the "Chancellor of the Diocese".

Julia Postice, who is such a close friend, always has her Sunday in Boston

Cut the cake + "broach" the wine the day Sinclair & Rae come to see me! — Hey Susan is a most one-sided affair, as I make no gifts -

My love to all -

Your affectionate sister Lulu
