

[Nov. 21 / 92]
Boston Mass]

My dear Walter Drane,

So many days have flown since that nice hour I had with you. I did so much appreciate your kindness in coming and I was so delighted to hear all about you and your work.

How weeks have flown, I fear
since the promised photo graph came to my door. How I gloated over it! I shall hardly dare show it to Margaret.

Whitman said right away
"How father would have liked

"it," and I could just see the very place in his room where he would have put it.

The little humming bird certainly adds interest, but the best part is to have you, really you, where we can look at you as much as we please.

I am having it framed and shall hang it downstairs some where, as a daily visitor.

I delayed writing to get from you Meg's article on how we bring up robins. It takes a long time to order a magazine but here you are and don't bother to return it.

The Bailey family send hearty greetings to you for Thanksgiving and want you to know how sick we feel ourselves in possessing the picture of Mr. Bailey's friend - Walter Stone. I have often, very often thought of poor Mr. Stone. I suppose there has been no change.

With warmest regards,
Eugene R. Bailey

Bailey, Eliza R. 1921. "Bailey, Eliza R. [Mrs. W.W. Bailey] Nov. 21, 1921." Walter Deane correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/164242>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/288403>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

IMLS

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.