

Providence, Nov 3. 1896.

My Dear Deane,

I am waiting in helpless suspense - as the fellow said when they were hanging him - for the result of this momentous election. It appears to me our honor and perpetuity are hanging in the balance. God grant that the Kinley wins; I will not say the "right side" - for you see even Conservatism can not make that other than Mac's side!

From time to time I did not take things so seriously. Freely suffer from my happenings myself, Execution is less than anticipation of the death - chain; at least, from my quite limited experience, I should deem so. And I could be with you all at the Boliwth, but I have a close early next morn, and

It will not do to miss it, Perhaps the next!

My physical condition is fragile this autumn. Yesterday I had even to take to my "choice - driven bed o' down", however! We had a fiery initiation of Peirce last Friday, the exhort I read some "I peace or worse". Had an anaemic attack; felt like a boy-brother of the Narragansett.
Speaking of boys, I have an invitation from the Republican Committee to sit on the platform (not of the party - but Infantry Hall) to hear the return. Come in and I'm going to take what for a white - and show him the gun. It is great fun, unless the tide turns, when nothing is more utterly dismal. But I have hopes! It occurs to me, however, that some are in bitter declined or doing some immense injury. It starts to seem that some body has to lose. You see my mind is choke-full of this matter, I shall have no peace till it is over, if ever then.

How does Britton's book affect the spirit? Does he not get an un-trusted pull?
Shall we have to suffer all this d--d new business?
Conway Macmillan and all; my grave voice at it, Ebenezer; and Alice - and Alex me!

Yours ever
W.W. Bailey -

Bailey, William Whitman. 1896. "Bailey, William Whitman Nov. 3, 1896." Walter Deane correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/164802>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/300617>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

IMLS

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.