

To the Turris

There was a fine fellow named
Rand,
Chock full of botanical sand,
Who with Walter Deane
Quite often was seen
To walk in the woods hand in hand,

As to Walter himself
There never was a
So skillful in botanical lore,
He'd press lengthy plants
But given a chance -
And then he would cry out for more,
So this Damon & Pythias too,
Are equalled on earth but by few -
Perfecting the knowledge
Acquired at college -
They keep adding facts that are new
The above evidence, the effect of unbearable tortures on a mind pre-disposed to deli-quescence -

W. W. B.,
Orr Oct 27, 1909

Bailey, William Whitman. 1909. "Bailey, William Whitman Oct. 27, 1909." Walter Deane correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/164555>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/300848>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

IMLS

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.